U. N. ARMS COMMISSION APPROVED

Taft Outlines Domestic Program; Stassen Urges GOP To Remove All Vestiges Of "Economic Isolation"

"Balanced" Economy Is Senator's Goal

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Feb. 12—(AP)—Sen. Taft (R-Ohio), differing with some of his GOP colleagues on taxes and tariffs, tonight outlined a program to promote a "balanced" economy and called for a special Senate committee study of labor-management relations.

Taft, chairman of the Senate Labor Committee and the Senate Republican Policy Committee, expressed the hope that "we may create a special committee after the passage of our labor bill to study the whole problem of employer-employe relations and their effect on productivity."

The Ohioan spoke at a Lincoln Day dinner. Since his name has figured prominently in the presidential nomination speculation, his address is expected to receive close scrutiny by all political leaders.

Taft enumerated these points in his domestic program:

1—Reduce the tax burden "by a sum equal to 20 per cent of the personal income tax yield, or 3½ billion dollars. Cut the President's $37,500,000,000 budget by four or five billion dollars. Apply two or three billions to reduction of the national debt.

Some House Republicans, including Chairman Knutson (R-Minn), of the Ways and Means Committee, favor a 20 per cent slash for virtually all income tax payers.

Tariff Question

2—Delegate tariff-making to the Tariff Commission within "wide statutory limits," supplemented by reciprocal trade agreements "if the additional reductions made are found by the Tariff Commission not to violate the same standard."

The "standard" would be that no tariffs could be reduced "to such an extent as would do serious harm to American industry supplying a substantial part of the American demand for its product."

Taft opposed returning to congressional tariff-making with its "inevitable log-rolling," but his proposal differs from that of Sens. Vandenberg, of Michigan, and Millikin, of Colorado. They want the reciprocal program continued but with the President having authority to nullify any rate-reductions that proved harmful to domestic interests.

Taft said the "trouble with the present reciprocal agreements act is that it places complete discretion in the president to make any reductions without any standard whatsoever being prescribed x x x."

3—Rents. If rent control is continued, Taft said it must be adjusted to "give an adequate return to landlords on the money they have saved and invested in houses and apartments."

Views on Labor

4—Labor. He said the Republicans proposed to enact laws "which will restore equality in collective bargaining" and give employer and employe "equal responsibility and equality in power." He opposed compulsory arbitration because it "involves government wage-fixing and destroys liberty."

5—Wages and prices. "Today the best we can do, apparently, is to stabilize wages and prices at about 50 per cent over prewar." Profits have been high in many industries, low in others. Where there are profits, they ought to be reflected immediately in a reduction in prices rather than a further increase in wages.

6—War controls. A few remain but should be eliminated as rapidly as possible.

7—War powers. "Every war power must be eliminated. If any continue in special fields, they must expire in 1948."

8—Social aids. This is primarily a state and local concern, but the federal government "cannot turn its back on the problem. x x x It can give the states assistance so that systematic programs may be developed to see that the lowest income groups all have minimum subsistence, shelter, medical care and education. x x x The place of the federal government should be only one of advice and assistance."

Aide Qualifies Taft Statement He Is Not 1948 GOP Candidate

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Feb. 12—(AP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) declared today that he is "definitely not a candidate" for the 1948 Republican presidential nomination, but an aide qualified the statement to mean that he is not an "active" candidate.

The question came up when a reporter phrased the query to Taft three times.

Twice, the Ohio lawmaker replied: "I am definitely not a candidate."

But the third time the Senator's press assistant, William D. McAdams, intervened:

"He means he is not an active candidate."

Pittsburgh Area "Beer War" Aired On Capitol Hill

CIO Says Monopolists Push Anti-Union Laws

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 (AP)—Tales of bombings and truck burnings in Pennsylvania union warfare reached Capitol Hill today along with a CIO assertion that monopolists are pushing anti-union laws as a smokescreen for their own misdeeds.

Also, an industry spokesman argued that 7,000 coal mines had been converted "into a single, synthetic bulldog" and thrown muzzled into a government-dug pit to fight for its life against John L. Lewis and his United Mine Workers.

Taking one thing at a time, the day's developments included:

1. Testimony before the House Labor Committee by Mead J. Mulvihill, general counsel for the Pennsylvania State Brewers' Association, that "terrorism and anarchy" has spread through the Pittsburgh area because of a "beer war" between AFL and CIO unions.

CIO Hits "Monopoly Interests"

2. The CIO "Economic Outlook" published an accusation that greedy "monopoly interests" had brought about a crisis by forcing decontrol of wartime curbs on industry. It added "these monopoly interests are diverting attention from the necessary solutions by directing public attention to anti-labor proposals."

3. Forney Johnston, counsel for the National Coal Association, told the Senate Labor Committee that the tonnage royalty the government permits the United Mine Workers Union to collect for a welfare fund is clearly unlawful. "Unless Congress removed compulsory bargains and levies from the scope of its labor sanctions," he said, "fights to the finish are not only likely but can be guaranteed."

Both the Senate and House committee are considering a variety of proposed labor bills, most of them bitterly opposed by labor union leaders.

In his testimony on the Pittsburgh "beer war," Mulvihill did not suggest any specific cure. However, he described it as growing out of a jurisdictional drive by the AFL Teamsters Union to sign up employes of breweries which already have contracts with the CIO Brewery Workers Union. The committee has received proposals for outlawing jurisdictional strikes.

Coal Strike By July 1 Seen

The CIO publication said "anti-labor proposals" are only a part of a drive it described as aimed at unions and the public as a whole.

As other parts it listed: Republican-proposed tax cuts, bills to forbid portal-to-portal pay, efforts to cut funds for "all agencies handling

Ex-Minn. Governor Favors Low Tariffs

NEW YORK, Feb. 12 (AP)—Harold E. Stassen, avowed candidate for the 1948 Republican presidential nomination, tonight called on his party to abandon "all remnants of a policy of economic isolation" and assume "leadership of America in a new policy of world-wide economic participation."

The former Minnesota Governor, long an exponent of liberalism in GOP councils, told the National Republican Club in a Lincoln Day address that he frankly was seeking to prevent his party from following a path of "economic isolation" in drawing up its platform for the national campaign next year.

His prepared address was devoted entirely to advocacy of low tariffs and the reciprocal trade agreements program, two issues now causing considerable controversy among the Republican congressional majority.

Stassen indicated quite plainly he believed the policies he supported were essential to implement on the economic front the stand for international cooperation in the political sphere which has won much Republican support.

Backs Reciprocal Tariff Act

The Minnesotan declared that "in plain language" a policy of international economic participation "means that we directly say that our Republican party recognizes that a high tariff policy no longer suits America and that we believe in the increased flow of goods and materials and services and travel around the globe."

Stassen approved the proposal of Sens. Vandenberg, of Michigan, and Millikin, of Colorado, designed to head off repeal of the Reciprocal Tariff Act. This would authorize the President to overrule any tariff decisions which threaten American industry.

He also favored representatives of labor, industry, agriculture and the Republican Party being present in Geneva as observers when the State Department begins negotiating trade pacts with 18 foreign governments in April.

Four factors make a low tariff policy essential, Stassen said, continuing:

"First of these is the tremendous increase in our productivity. With the skill of our workmen, the ability of our management, and the vigor of our private capital, we have reached the stage that clearly and definitely in the years ahead, in many lines, we must produce for world markets rather than only American markets, or we will find our economy snubbed in, first glutted and then withering with unemployment and deflation.

Capital Resources

"Second, we have developed tremendous capital resources and have become the great creditor nation of the world, so that we need high investment of capital at home and world-wide sources of investment as well, else our capital becomes stagnant and idle and reflects in turn in idle men and economic turmoil.

"Third, with the extensive drains on our natural resources through war and peace, we are becoming increasingly dependent on raw material sources elsewhere in the world for the sound long term future of our economy.

"Fourth, and above all, it is crystal clear to all of us that in this modern one world, we can enjoy that precious peace with justice only in a world at peace. And this world cannot remain at peace unless there be that slow but steady improvement of standards of living of other peoples everywhere."

Sidney Toler, Movie "Charlie Chan," Dies

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 12 (AP)—Charlie Chan is dead.

Sidney Toler, so well known for his screen portrayal of the Chinese detective that his own name was sometimes forgotten, succumbed at his home, today, having been bedridden for several months with intestinal cancer. His widow said he was 59.

Toler was well known on stage and screen long before he succeeded the late Warner Oland as Charlie Chan in 1939. Born in Warrensburg, Mo., the son of Col. H. G. Toler, famous Wichita, Kans., breeder of trotting horses, Toler went on the stage at the age of seven in an amateur performance of "Tom Sawyer."

Mrs. Donald M. Nelson Dies Of Liver Ailment

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 12—(AP)—Mrs. Donald M. Nelson, 28-year-old wife of the former War Production Board chief, died at Cedars of Leganon Hospital here tonight.

Her death was ascribed to a chronic liver ailment. Her husband, now head of the Independent Motion Picture Producers Association, was at her side when she died.

Survivors, in addition to her husband, include her mother, Mrs. Anna Coulbourn, Denton, Md., and a brother, T. Dukes Coulbourn, United States Navy.

100 Arabs, Armed With Knives, Raid Jewish Village

Wounded Resident Reported Kidnaped

JERUSALEM, Feb. 12—(AP)—Approximately 100 Arabs, armed with knives and sticks, raided the Jewish village of Bnai Geulim tonight and kidnaped one of seven Jews wounded in the fighting, private informants said.

This raid came as Jewish extremists clashed with Jewish moderates for the second successive night with both sides reportedly being victimized by kidnapings.

The fighting at Bnai Geulim, 10 miles east of Nathanya on the Palestine coast between Tel Aviv and Haifa, apparently marked the culmination of a long standing feud over grazing rights in the neighborhood.

35-Year-Old Man Abducted

Itshak Biri, 35-year-old resident who was felled by a knife thrust, was taken from the village by the Arabs, the informants said. Police investigated the scene of the fighting and searched the nearby Arab village of Il Amrak from which most of the attackers were believed to have come.

In Jerusalem, police officials denied all knowledge of the incident although informants at Bnai Geulim said their information came from a police officer conducting the investigation.

One Jew believed to be a member of the underground and two others belonging to a moderate political party were said to have been kidnaped during the clash between the two Jewish groups.

Retaliation Kidnaping

There was no official confirmation, but private informants said 10 armed Jews, believed to be members of the moderate Hashomir Hatzair Party, had abducted an underground member from an orange grove near Rehovoth.

This was followed swiftly by the kidnaping, apparently in retaliation, of two Hashomir members in the all-Jewish city of Tel Aviv, the informant said.

The Tel Aviv headquarters of the Hashomir Party, which has been outspoken in its opposition to underground tactics, was raided last night by underground members and 12 persons were injured.

Abe Lincoln Would Have Been Uneasy

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12, (AP) — Abraham Lincoln — a man of simple tastes who hated fuss and feathers — would have been uneasy had he been around today.

For it was the 138 anniversary of his birth in a Kentucky cabin. And, as usual, it was a day of pomp, speeches and then more speeches.

The goings-on included:

His autobiography, written in 1859, was presented to the Library of Congress.

This had been scrawled hastily. His note with the autobiography said:

"There is not much of it, for the reason, I suppose, that there is not much of me—"

"Self-Portrait"

Yet today this three-page statement — which Lincoln considered ample to tell the first 50 years of his life — was received reverently by Luther H. Evans, Librarian of Congress.

And Poet-Biographer Carl Sandburg called it a "self-portrait, good as Rembrandt."

President Truman went to the majestic monument to Lincoln beside the Potomac. He stood at attention while aides laid a wreath at the foot of the impressive statue.

Another presidential wreath was sent to Lincoln's beloved Springfield, Ill., to be laid on his tomb.

Of course, there were speeches praising Lincoln, including one by Rep. Evan Howell, a Republican from the same dstrict Lincoln represented in Congress a century ago.

Other Republicans were scurrying about the country, busily paying tribute to the man who, in 1860, became the first president elected by the new, hopeful Republican Party.

In the thousands of words they will pour out about Lincoln, perhaps none will describe him as well as he described himself in 1859.

Stood Six Feet, Four Inches

The original manuscript of this was presented to the Library of Congress by Rev. Robert Dale Richardson, of Medford, Mass.

Richardson is the great grandson of Jesse W. Fell, a longtime admirer of Lincoln and one of the first to think he was presidential timber. It was Fell who asked Lincoln to write something about himself.

Lincoln refused at first. But he finally sketched hurriedly his family background, and his early

Britain Placed On Virtual War Basis By Attlee

Blackout Violators May Be Fined, Jailed

LONDON, Feb. 12 (AP) — Prime Minister Attlee placed Britain on a virtual war basis tonight, issuing an order under wartime defense regulations that decreed fines or prison sentences for any of the nation's 49,000,000 people who disregard a new island-wide limitation on household electricity.

Acting after nearly 72 hours of scheming against threatened disaster to his war-weakened nation in the coal crisis, Attlee also established an emergency committee of nine—peacetime equivalent of the war cabinet—to deal with what he called a "dangerously critical" fuel shortage.

Blackout Decreed

The order also applied legal penalties to industrialists who do not comply with a blackout order shutting all but essential plants in 38 of the 64 counties in England and Wales.

Earlier, the government ordered the five-hour cutoff of electricity to householders extended to the entire island—all of Britain except Northern Ireland — and directed nationwide street lighting reductions amounting almost to a wartime blackout.

The emergency committee ordered cancellation of all railway passenger services in every instance where it would clear tracks or free locomotives for coal trains.

These steps were taken as the Board of Trade announced that 5,000,000 to 6,000,000 men were out of work because of industrial shutdowns, and that the crisis threatened to be felt in every phase of the economy.

The first "communique" of the new emergency committee, which includes some leaders in private industry, called for the mobilization of civilians thrown out of work by closed plants, to help soldiers and regular transport workers in moving coal.

Greyhound Racing Banned

It authorized Fuel Minister Emanuel Shinwell to use wartime powers of requisition to divert coal shipments from consignees in order to speed the turnabout of coal cars.

It banned greyhound racing, but announced the industrial shutoffs would not be extended beyond the 38-county areas.

It announced that any relaxation on fuel restrictions must be gradual and that full service to householders must not be restored until industry, life blood of exporting Britain, was again in full swing.

Penalties to householders under the wartime act range up to a fine of $400 and imprisonment of three months, but in extreme cases of repeated violations the penalties could be increased.

Army, Navy Oppose Any Cut In Funds

Would Jeopardize Military Missions

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 — (AP) — Secretary of War Patterson declared tonight that if the proposed cut in the Army budget is made, "the current and long-term missions of the Army, including those of Gen. MacArthur in Japan and Gen. McNarney in Germany, will be jeopardized."

Earlier, the Navy had contended that even a $500,000,000 cut in its funds might make the fighting fleets "immobile and impotent as an instrument of national policy."

The Army-Navy stands were occasioned by announced plans of a House-Senate Budgetary Subcommittee to slash President Truman's $37,500,000,000 federal budget figure by a total of $6,000,000,000.

Patterson, in a statement for the press, said that he was "alarmed by reports to the effect that action is being taken to cut War Department appropriations for the fiscal year by one and one-half billion dollars."

Air Forces Would Suffer

He said that $1,000,000,000 of it is reported to come from "purely military appropriations and half a billion from funds required to prevent starvation in American-occupied areas of Germany, Japan and Korea."

The cut in the military budget, Patterson said, would fall mainly on the Air Forces and services which support them.

Of the military budget as submitted by the President, 58 per cent is for the Air Forces. That budget, said Patterson, would support 55 combat groups of planes but the proposed further reduction would reduce the number of groups to 35, of which only three would be in the United States.

These developments followed fast after yesterday's predominantly Republican vote by the House-Senate Budget Subcommittee to slash President Truman's $37,500,000,000 figure down to $31,500,000,000:

1. Chairman Knutson (R-Minn.), of the House Ways and Means Committee, hailed the action as assuring a 20 per cent cut in individual income taxes, and a payment of $3,000,000,000 or more on the nation's debt.

Republicans Assail Colleagues

2. The Republican chairmen of the House and Senate Armed Services Committees accused their GOP colleagues of imperiling the nation's security and world peace, in proposing a cut of around $2,250,000,000 in Army and Navy funds. This cut would also include Army civil functions such as rivers and harbors improvements.

3. Sen. Green (D-RI) said in a statement that while he did not charge members of the budget subcommittee with " any lack of pat-

Six Killed When Train Strikes Car

MEADOW BRIDGES, W. Va., Feb. 12—(AP)—Five persons died instantly, a sixth was fatally hurt and a seventh seriously injured late today when a Chesapeake and Ohio motor train struck their car at the East End railroad crossing here.

The car in which they were riding was completely demolished by the impact, but no details of the crash, which occurred about 5:30 p. m., were available at once.

Those killed instantly in the wreck were identified by the Nichols Funeral Home at East Rainelle as:

Charley Ross, 36, and his wife, 30, of East Rainelle.

Tat Dudley, 40, and his wife, 36, of Floyd, Va.

Catherine Peters, four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Peters, of Charmco.

Judy Peters, 2½, sister of Catherine, died a few minutes after her arrival at an East Rainelle Hospital.

The children's mother, Mrs. Herman Peters, also is in the hospital in a very serious condition, hospital attendants said. Her husband, manager of the Pine Amusement Hall at Pineville, was in Virginia at the time.

U. S. Proposals Adopted; Reds Pass Up Veto

Russia And Poland Abstain From Voting

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Feb. 12—(AP)—The United Nations Security Council voted by 9 to 0 tonight to create an 11-nation commission to study the reduction of all armaments except those already being examined by the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission.

Russia and Poland abstained from voting.

The council's action was a sweeping victory for the United States, which had insisted that any arms commission created by the United Nations must be limited to the field not covered by the Atomic Commission.

Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko fought the United States proposals until the end, but when the showdown came he declined to invoke the big power veto with which he could have killed the plan at this point.

The council's decisive vote was on Paragraph 3 of a draft resolution outlining the whole machinery of arms reduction. A vote must still be taken on the resolution as a whole, after the council acts on the final paragraph which will be taken up at 3 p. m. (EST) tomorrow.

Russia Might Use Veto Yet

Thus there still was a chance that Russia might use the veto, but this was regarded as highly unlikely in view of Gromyko's abstention today.

The controversial paragraph provided that:

1. An 11-nation commission would be created immediately to formulate plans for the reduction and regulation of armaments recommended by General Assembly resolutions "insofar as these resolutions relate to armaments within the new commission's jurisdiction."

2. The new commission shall submit a plan of work to the council for approval.

3. Those matters which fall within the jurisdiction of the Atomic Commission shall "be excluded from the jurisdiction" of the new commission.

4. The title of the commission shall be the Commission for Conventional Armaments.

Gromyko, taking the floor after hearing seven of the 11 Security Council delegates support United States proposals, flatly refused to answer three questions directed at him by British Delegate Sir Alexander Cadogan as to why Russia opposed the American plan.

Gromyko Offers Compromise

Gromyko declared he had stated his position fully yesterday, but at the same time he offered his compromise measure which he suggested should be substituted for two paragraphs which the United States wanted to write into the arms reduction resolution.

He proposed that the resolution state that the work of the new arms reduction commission and that of the Atomic Energy Commission

Fire Razes Factory At Philipsburg, Pa.

PHILIPSBURG, Pa., Feb. 12 (AP)—This Central Pennsylvania community lost its largest industry today when a flash fire razed the MacLaren sportwear factory, causing damage unofficially estimated at $500,000, and destroying one nearby house and damaging four others.

Eight area fire companies battled futily to save the factory which was burned to the ground after flames broke out in a new three-story brick addition used as a warehouse. Cause of the blaze was unknown.

The plant's 340 workers fled to safety with handkerchiefs pressed over their mouths as dense smoke billowed through the building. Firemen carried several of the workers, who were mostly girls, down ladders.

Fire Chief Thomas Ginick said a first check showed no casualties but added that a complete count of workers had not yet been made.

U. S., Canada To Continue In Peace Their Close Wartime Collaboration

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 (AP)—The United States and Canada announced today they will continue in peacetime their close wartime collaboration for the military security of North America.

Without entering into a formal treaty or binding agreements, the two governments proclaimed a five-point program for unifying training, standardizing arms, and using each other's military, naval and air facilities.

Anything to do with the atomic bomb was excluded from the general understanding, it was made clear, since both governments have separate channels for development and administration of atomic energy.

Both stressed too, in formal announcements made simultaneously in Ottawa and Washington, that the Charter of the United Nations "remains the cornerstone of the foreign policy of each."

In Ottawa, Prime Minister W. L. MacKenzie King told the House of Commons that the joint principles agreed upon would strengthen rather than impair the "cooperation of each country within the broader frame-work of the United Nations."

The two governments said that their collaboration for "peacetime joint security purposes" would be limited and would be done to the extent authorized by law of each

Their proclamation, issued less than a month before the opening in Moscow of the Big Four Foreign Ministers' conference, served nevertheless to underscore United States-Canadian unity on defense of "the Arctic frontier" facing Europe.

Since 1940 the neighbor governments have unified their common military problems through the permanent joint board on defense. That body will continue its work.

Sen. Kimble Calls Joint Consideration Of State Budget Measure "Farce"

Allegany Countian Protests Method Of Study; "Home Rule" For Counties, Cities Is Proposed

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 12—(AP)—The Senate's minority leader rose up in wrath today against joint consideration by the House and Senate Finance Committees of the administration's $91,000,000 budget bill, calilng such action a farce and contrary to all previous practices.

In the most prolonged burst of oratory since the Senate convened January 1, Sen. Kimble (R-Allegany) protested joint consideration of the budget on the ground that "there is but one object to the plan and that object is to railroad this $100,000,000 book into reality."

Kimble apparently was speaking for himself and not as leader of the Republican minority.

It had been announced previously that Budget Director Walter N. Kirkman would appear before a joint session to go over the bulky bill which contains $23,000,000 more in appropriations than the 1946-47 act.

Majority Leader Sothoron (D-Prince George's), in a brief reply, said he felt Kimble was getting "hot and excited" over nothing. It is pure common sense, Sothoron

Chiang Ready To Halt U. S. Currency Circulation

NANKING, Feb. 12—(AP)—China's prescription for its madly fluctuating currency—an order to stop the circulation of United States currency and to restrict public transactions in gold—was presented tonight to Chiang Kai-Shek for his signature.

Official sources indicated the Generalissimo would sign. They declined to discuss rumors that other remedies would be tried.

International Nudes' Plight Gives Londoners Chuckle On Grim Day

BY ED CREAGH

LONDON, Feb. 12—(AP)—Comfortably warm in an overcoat, muffler and earmuffs, I asked nine nude women today how they were standing the cold in fuel-shy London, and eight of them broke out in goose pimples at the very thought.

Eight were members of a theatrical troupe advertised, without a word of exaggeration, as the Eight International Nudes. They appear nightly, wearing nothing but provocative expressions, on the glacier-like stage of a music hall.

"How do you think we stand it?" demanded Patricia Morrissey, who like most of the Eight International Nudes is barely twenty. Modestly garbed, at the moment, in a fuzzy bath towel, she continued:

"It gets so—so frightfully cold that we're all in danger of being arrested. You see, the Lord Chancellor allows us to appear unclothed only if we remain perfectly motionless. Well, you can't do that in this weather. You shiver, you tremble, you—"

She shivered and trembled to demonstrate, but never lost her grip on the bath towel.

The plight of the International Eight—they are all English except pretty Rene Kai, who is Chinese—gave London readers one of their few chuckles on the grimmest day since the Blitz ended, but the girls didn't see the joke.

"I don't have any trouble standing still on the stage—I'm frozen still," said Kitty May.

The ninth nude, the one that didn't develop goose-pimples, wore not a stitch more than the International Eight but she was as warm as toast when I encountered her in the National Gallery—on canvas. Velasquez painted her.

"We have to keep it warm in here, sir, because of all these old masters," said an attendant. "They would crack, you see, if the temperature got very low. I suppose this is the warmest place in London."

Europe's Cold Wave And Its Reverberation

The caprices of the weather play a large role in human affairs. If the German army had not run into the coldest Winter in a hundred years when it was storming the gates of Moscow early in World War II, the Russian capital might have fallen and Russian morale been shattered beyond repair.

In the over-crowded cities and towns of India and China the amount of rain which falls in a single Summer may determine whether millions live or die. And today, in Europe, the weather is once more shaping the destiny of a continent.

This time, unhappily, the weather is not on humanity's side. In a year when millions of people lack adequate housing, food, fuel or clothing, the weather has been cruel. One cold wave after another has swept across northern and central European countries. North Britain has been hit by the worst weather in fifty years.

Whether Britain's fuel crisis was caused by socialization of the mines by the labor government or by other circumstances, the reason for the dilemma may be lost sight of in the reverberations.

When unusual weather strikes in this country, it may cause a great deal of trouble and cost a few lives. But in the countries still devastated by the war, the suffering is intense. Snow and ice snarl up transportation facilities barely sufficient at best, to meet the most essential needs. In Britain alone the coal famine has forced hundreds of thousands of workers into idleness. In Berlin 140,000 persons are too ill to report for work. In The Netherlands badly needed coal shipments lie ice bound in frozen canals.

For Americans the weather may be a subject for idle conversation. In other parts of the world it is synonymous with fate.

Strict Iron Curtain On Russia Seems Advisable

It is impossible not to agree with Representative Mundt of South Dakota that the United States has been lax in taking security measures in the past and that it would be a good idea to think about what privileges are extended the curious representatives of the Soviet Union. Such a thought looms larger after learning that Bernard Baruch, the elder statesmen who has been deep enough into atomic bomb situations to know what he is talking about, is concerned about the leakage of that secret.

But it is difficult to become as perturbed as Representative Mundt seems to be over the fact that the Russians possess detailed plans of many American industrial, transportation and utility installations.

As the Congressman himself admits, the Russians obtained this information quite legitimately. The United States made no objection when Soviet agents visited the plants in question, photographed and sketched them. In a number of instances, in fact, they were supplied freely with detailed engineering data.

For that matter, the Soviet government has made no secret of its possession of this information. It is all contained in a huge book entitled "American Construction" published last year by the Russian Amtorg Trading Corporation. Among other things, the book contains 175 full-page advertisements purchased by American business firms, many of which are interested in selling equipment to Russia. Moscow probably would buy if she could obtain a loan from Washington to pay for the purchases.

But the fears expressed by Mr. Baruch is shared by other authorities. It is quite plain, then, that we have been careless about the atomic knowhow, even if not with other matters we control. Ultimately, whether soon or late, scientists in other countries —some of doubtful friendship toward the United States—will dig out the secret of the atom and the uses to which it may be put. It may be that some already have discovered the secret, although our scientists are skeptical of this.

In any case, so long as the atomic energy knowledge remains our exclusive possession, it should be prized as such. While Senators and others of us may be extremely curious about this phenomenon, it should be guarded as our most precious asset. As matters stand, the atomic weapon is the most potent influence in our hands. Militarily, it goes without saying, we are weak. While we seem to be doing a fair job in scientific fields, we have scrapped our army, grounded our air force and bottled up our navy. We are dawdling with the universal military training issue.

In the field of propaganda we appear to be losing ground. We are doing a good job of selling our attributes to other peoples. And much of our diplomatic management has boomeranged.

We cannot build a stone wall around our country and ignore the rest of the world. But, for the moment, we ought to maintain a strict iron curtain about the atomic secret until at least, we are prepared in other ways to exert a genuine, wholesome influence proportionate to the degree of protection now necessary to preserve our entity. By the same reasoning it seems a shortsighted policy to let Russia know so much about American industrial achievements.

President Reports On United Nations Progress

Reporting to Congress on the part played by the United States in the affairs of the United Nations, President Truman made no startling disclosures and announced no startling conclusions. What he said, on the whole, was what he might have been expected to say.

Thus his letter declaring that the new world organization has made "great progress" during the last year but that mankind's hopes for peace can yet be "betrayed and lost." This is an estimate the public can accept—or rather has already accepted in the light of the record written since the first meeting of the General Assembly a year ago. The only thing about it is that it has now been stated by the President of the United States.

The President's letter, nevertheless, calls attention to the central problem that must be solved if the United Nations is to become the vehicle of enduring peace. The foundations of a "general system of collective security" must be laid, though the task will be long and difficult, because "the nations can safely lay aside their arms only insofar as their security is protected by other means."

Perhaps the House sergeant-at-arms, whose accounts are short $125,000, thought it was lend-lease.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

THE PERFECT ANTISEPTIC

THE use of antiseptics to kill microorganisms took root in the days of Lister. Altho he was not the discoverer of carbolic acid, nor the first to employ it, his work was so outstandind that the history of surgery is divided roughly into two epochs—before and after Lister.

The ideal antiseptic is yet to be prepared but there are over 100 official and nonofficial compounds on the market. Many are of practical value in minimizing disease. Some work better on the surface than within the body; others will affect one type of microbe only.

From the theoretical standpoint the best germicide should be capable of killing quickly all forms of "bugs," including viruses. In addition, it ought to be nontoxic, non-allergic, nonirritating, and long lasting. One that is odorless, colorless, and unobjectionable from an aesthetic standpoint is preferred. This utopian solution could be applied safely on all tissues varying from the delicate membranes of the eyes to the thickened soles of the feet. Stability is also important so that storage in the medicine cabinet would be possible until the need arose.

Few, if any, of our modern agents meet all these requirements. Some are successful in the laboratory, overwhelming a variety of organisms mixed together in a test tube. On the other hand, when placed on an infected wound they rarely penetrate sufficiently to combat the germs; in case the deeper tissues are reached, the juices alter their chemical nature, making them ineffective. Others are so strong that they destroy the delicate cells, indusing more injury than done by the microbes. These are the problems that confront any scientist who is trying to produce a better antiseptic.

One of the oldest is hydrogen peroxide. It has many advantages but does not keep too long and has only a transient influence on bacteria. Other germ killers include the numerous acids and alkalies. The heavy metals—silver, mercury, copper, zinc, bismuth, and arsenic—are prescribed occasionally for disorders of the skin and mucous membrances as well as in the treatment of diseases like syphilis. Several dyes are available which discourage bacterial growth. Alcohol and phenol (carbolic acid) are old stand-bys. The latter, while useful in attacking fungi, is toxic, irritating, expensive, and has an unpleasant odor. Iodine, one of the halogens, acts rapidly when applied to the surface but is caustic like phenol.

Among the newer types are the detergents. They are utilized not only medically but as soap substitute. The sulfonamides and the antibiotics (pencillin, streptomycin, and tyrothrycin) and excellent but their bactericidal action is transient and repeated doses are needed.

All of which serves to demonstrate that while there is no panacea, physicians have at their disposal numerous antiseptics. Credit must also be given to the body which provides numerous mechanisms to destroy bacteria. In the same vein of thought, cleanliness helps tremendously, by discouraging the invaders. Altho soap is not necessarily classified as an antiseptic, it is helpful in removing organisms from the skin, thus combating infection.

BRIDGE HANDS

Mrs. M. writes: I don't like bridge because every time I play my hands break out. Could this be due to nervousness?

REPLY

If your partner "plays for blood" a nervous reaction of this type is possible. But contact dermatitis is more likely. Now and then an individual encounters skin irritation from handling cards and the offender is the sizing material used to stiffen them or incompletely cured synthetic plastics.

FEVER AND FATIGUE

D. L. writes: Could overtiredness be responsible for rise in temperature?

REPLY

No, but any one who is unduly fatigued should have the temperature checked periodically as infection may be responsible for both symptoms.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Have you ever wondered where songwriters get titles like "Old Buttermilk Sky," "Huggin' and Chalkin," or "Zippety Do Dah?" No, these are not the last words of a pedestrian about to cross Hollywood Boulevard at Vine.

The song title is the product of weeks of research. ("Research" is a tin pan alley term meaning, "let's use it. Tschaikovsky won't miss it.")

Let's assume you and I are writing a great song. We get a hot tip that there's a vacancy in the No. 3 spot on the hit parade. All we need is a terrific title, and Morton Downey will make us millionaires.

The song is about a boy, a girl and a moon. The girl is going steady with the moon. We can't use "jealousy" in the title; it's not a rumba. We can't say anything about the moon, or we'll run into trouble from the "moon-June" writers, and a western title is out because Trigger is doing personal appearances, and we'd have to wait months for him to record it.

Trying to find a title, we have gone through four farmers' almanacs, 18 volumes of the Encyclopedia Brittanica and an unabridged copy of Emily Post.

As we thumb through the Journal of International Trade for the 233rd time, we notice something about the onetime open-door policy in China. That's what we were searching for.

We're hit with an inspiration, and in two and a half minutes we have not only a great title, but a sensational new song. . . . We're calling it "Open the Door, Chiang."

Of course, there are always a few skeptics around who will claim we stole it.

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12—The White House palace guard was really burnt up at Bob Hannegan for tossing Truman's hat into the ring for 1948. They claim Hannegan has now made the President a target for political opposition just as his prestige is running high. No matter what he does now, they say, he will be accused of playing politics.

Real fact is that Hannegan conferred twice with Truman before making the speech, but the palace guard is peeved just the same. They think Hannegan pulled a "Henry Wallace" on the boss. Wallace, they point out, officially cleared his Russian speech with Truman last summer, but he didn't point out to Truman its innuendoes and possible repercussions.

The Merry Mortician

Senator Kenneth Wherry, Nebraska's merry mortician, who has promised to do as much for small business, now seems to be a little forgetful about it.

Wherry pushed a resolution through Congress whereby a special Small Business Committee was created with him as chairman, thereby keeping the chairmanship out of the hands of his fellow Republican, Senator Wilson of Iowa.

And previously, when the Democrats controlled Congress, Wherry blocked an investigation of the newsprint monopoly, so strongly favored by small newspapers.

Now that the new Small Business Committee finally has been voted, the Nebraska ex-undertaker has dickering with Joe Borda to become head of the Committee Staff. And, believe it or not, Borda is on the payroll of the National Asosciation of Manufacturers, which represents the biggest business in the country.

No wonder the Nebraska undertaker's Committee is now nicknamed the Big Business Committee for Small Undertakings.

White House Stamps

President Truman doesn't go in for his predecessor's favorite hobby of stamp collecting, but another member of his family does.

Representative Bob Poage of Waco, Texas, went over to the White House the other day to offer the President the hospitality of Waco when he returns from Mexico City, and noted on the Presidential desk several booklets filled with stamps.

"You ought to see these, Bob," said the President, opening one. "These are Egyptian stamps which the Egyptian Ambassador gave me for Margaret's stamp collection. They'de beautiful things, although I admit I don't know much about stamps."

Note—Interesting fact about the stamp gift by the Egyptian Ambassador is that while he could legally give them to Margaret Truman, he could not have given them to her father. It is against the law for the President of the United States to receive gifts from a foreign government. FDR's secretary, Miss Lehand, used to insist that stamp collections given him by foreign governments be sent to the State Department to be kept until his term expired. But the late President frequently hid the stamp gifts before she could dispose of them.

Tax Czar Knutson

Minnesota's Rep. Harold Knutson, whose self-styled role as tax expert has been challenged of late, doesn't plan to take any chances about losing control of the House Ways and Means Committee.

Meeting in secret session last week, Knutson wasted little time in passing a motion permitting unrestricted use of proxies. In other words, no matter how many Republican members may be out playing golf or mending political fences when a Committee meeting is scheduled, Chairman Knutson will be able to vote them almost any way he pleases. Even though a majority of those on hand for the meeting may be Democrats, the GOP—by voting proxies—can prevail.

Scrappy Representative Herman Eberharter, Pennsylvania Democrat, raised an immediate point of order against this wholesale use of proxies.

"Proxies have been used in this Committee in the past, and I have objected," Eberharter said. "Whether they are Republican or Democrat proxies makes no difference. The important thing is that this Committee operates under the rules of the House, and we all know proxies cannot be voted in the House as a whole.

"It is not unusual for a committee, by unanmious consent, to permit the use of proxies," argued Eberharter, "but that is good legislative procedure only when the proxy to be voted is that of a member who has been attending previous hearings of the particular matter under consideration. If he is unable for some good reason to be on hand for the vote, but is acquainted with the subject and has formed an opinion of his own, then the use of his proxy is reasonable.

"But your proposal, Mr. Chairman," Eberharter continued, "means that members don't have to take any interest in the problems before the Committee so long as they can be registered for or against a proposal. It means that only a few people might be settling policy, with the members of their two parties simply saying, 'go ahead and put me down for what you think.'"

Knutson immediately overruled Eberhardt's point of order, but the Pennsylvanian served notice he will raise it again whenever proxies are used.

Earlier in the meeting Knutson, who is now worried over public reaction to his tax proposal for saving millions for the upper brackets but only a few dollars for low-income taxpayers, succeeded in winning a committee O. K. for rushing a tax-cut bill through the Committee immediately — without even public hearings.

A proposal for public hearings on the several tax-cut bills now before the Ways and Means Committee was offered by Rep. Sidney Camp of Georgia, but got only the support of five other Democrats. All the Republicans and Representative Wilbur Mills of Arkansas, who usually votes with the Republicans, voted to pass up public hearings on the most important tax bill Congress has considered in many years.

Industrial Crisis In England Traceable To Labor Government

By MARK SULLIVAN

For estimating the industrial crisis in England, the first step is to avoid over-estimating the part played in it by a spell of extremely harsh weather. If weather were the cause, the crisis would be temporary. In fact, it will profoundly affect, in fundamental respects probably determine, the future of England and the world.

That judgment was put in words this week by a member of the Labor Government, Attorney General Sir Hartley Shawcross. "If we dont' succeed in overcoming this situation and improving coal production," he said, "the labor Government will fall and"—this was the portentous judgment—"there will be an end to any idea of Socialism in our time."

The crisis was recognized before the harsh weather began. Weeks ago Sir Stafford Cripps, President of the Board of Trade, spoke of "the fear that we shall depress our standard of living because we cannot produce enough, in fact that is what is happening now." That warning was confirmed by ministers on the Labor Government, including the Minister of Labor, who said, "It is . . . highly important that we secure a speedy and substantial increase in the output of the product of British industry."

Inevitably Destined Climax

For months the condition has been recognized, not as a contingent crisis that might arise if there were harsh weather, but as an inevitably destined climax, not only for England but for the world.

A landmark in what brought it about was the Potsdam Conference in the summer of 1945, where the heads of the "big three" nations victorious in the war were scheduled to discuss post-war settlements. The settlements would determine the future in vital respects—including whether the world would move toward government operation of industry and collectivism, or toward private ownership of industry, free enterprise and individualism.

In the discussions of proposed settlements and decisions, Stalin of Russia would as a matter of course press toward collectivism. Truman of the United States and Churchill of England would press toward individualism. These two, because of the power of the nations they represented, and because these two nations compose the historic background of individualism, were counted on to press the shape of the post-war world toward that pattern.

Into that setting intruded a dramatic event, a thunderbolt no less. Britain, holding its first post-war election, ousted from power the conservative party and its leader, Churchill. In place of them the election put in power the Labor Party, with a mandate to make Britain, in the words of one Labor Party leader, "a Socialist commonwealth."

Dogmatic Wilfullness

In carrying out the mandate, the new Labor Government proceeded with a kind of dogmatic wilfullness. Though England was in desperate need of recovery, though maximum production of goods was the first requisite for recovery, and though these conditions made it a tragically inappropriate time to switch from one economic system to another, the Labor Government nevertheless made the nationalizing of industry its primary concern.

The spirit and actions of the Labor Government justified the bitterness in what Churchill said the other day: "The Labor Government were so busy with the doctrinaires of their nationalization policy, and so ardently involved in class war, that they had no time or strength or brains for making the ordinary administrative arrangements which common prudence demanded . . . It meant mismanagement and incompetence in high places . . . We had vast figures of civil servants looking after our affairs, hampering energy and enterprise and ingenuity at every stage."

At the end of 19 months, Britain has made less recovery than any other of the victorious countries; less even than some countries that were overrun during the war, such as Holland and Belgium. The record of the Labor Government suggests one of the most familiar sayings in the English tongue. The last word in futility has been expressed as "carrying coals to Newcastle." Yet in a country that has abundant coal underground, lack of coal for industry and daily use is the precipitating cause of crisis.

British Events Show Risks Of Putting Reform Ahead Recovery

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—What's happening in Great Britain is of direct interest to the American people because it shows the dangers and risks inherent in putting reform ahead of recovery.

The British Labor Party secured control of the government in an election which showed England's irritation over wartime controls but the Labor Government immediately instituted even more drastic control of the economy and began to emasculate the private-enterprise system by a program of public ownership of coal and electricity with plans for the taking over of other industries.

Nothing could be more unsettling to an economic situation than the uncertainty produced by the British Labor Party program, and now that a coal crisis has become so grave as to require a shutdown of factories in order to conserve coal, the impact of the first Socialistic government on the British people has developed a major crisis.

It is an impact that indicates political repercussions will follow. Already there is talk of a change in government or a coalition government. The British laborites have an overwhelming majority and there is not considered to be much chance of a shift to the conservatives right away. After more suffering and more discontent, perhaps, it may be that the British parliament will be dissolved and another election ordered, but it is too early as yet to calculate the results of the coal holiday.

Pleasing To Communists

Unquestionably the situation in England is pleasing to the communists who have been boring from within in the hope of weakening Britain's economy. At a time of internal distress in Britain, Stalin has been needling Bevin and trying to create political discord inside England. The "left wingers" who are friendly to Russia are criticizing Bevin for excessive friendliness to the United States and trying to sow seeds of dissension between America and Britain.

The conservatives, on the other side, are critical because the labor government is not sufficiently severe with the communists and because Bevin is pursuing a foreign policy that appeases left-wing sentiment.

The country which will gain out of the mess, of course, is Russia. Having failed to drive the United States out of Europe, Russia hopes to weaken Britain. There are some who believe that England's socialistic program is a sop to "left wingers," who really would favor communistic experiments but who would be checkmated if socialism succeeded.

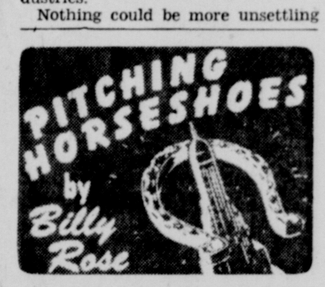

British socialism has ventured far in the last several months but the English people aren't so much interested in "isms" as they are in a better standard of living. They have been willing to go along with the public ownership program in the belief that it would help them get coal. When the mines were bought out by the central government there was a drive to get an increased output. But, under government ownership, output has not been materially different from what it was before. The reason really is that the British mines had not introduced up-to-date machinery. It is contended that the British owners, instead of investing in better facilities, were content to let the industry drift. There was money for modernizing during the war but it was not done.

Government Ownership No Help

In any event the mining industry under government ownership is not producing results and that's about all the average man will ask about. An election issue on the question of a continuance of socialism is inevitable. Just when is will come is uncertain. Undoubtedly former Prime Minister Churchill, leader of the conservatives, will make an effort to increase the opposition numbers in the hope of gradually wearing down the labor majority and forcing another election or a change in the control of the government.

The British people have a tough road to travel anyway. The war left them in a financially weak position. The American loan has helped substantially but it will take more than the loan to straighten out Britain's economy and she would be farther along the road toward a post-war equilibrium and the resumption of her place in the world of trade if she had a government in which the rest of the world of business could have confidence. With "let wingers" pressing from the top and the conservatives from the bottom, it looks as if socialism—the middle-of-the-road-philosophy —will be ground between two millstones.

Cecil Muldoon just got back from Washington. He tells me he met a Republican down there who isn't running for President. But then, Cecil always was a liar.

There's something like 25 Governors and 50 Senators giving us the glad eye. They are acting up like a Hollywood waitress bringing Louis B. Mayer a stack of wheats.

The GOP board of strategy must be going batty trying to decide which name on the marquee will sell the most tickets. If I were Carroll Reece, and had to pick a tenant for the White House here are some tests the applicant would have to pass before he could move in.

Billy Rose

Test No. 1: DIPLOMACY.

With his wife looking on, hand the candidate ten thousand dollars in cash. He must be able to convince his missus she looks better in last year's fur coat.

Test No. 2: HONESTY.

Show him plans for a bridge in his state to cost $40,000,000. Tell him he'll be in charge of letting out the contracts. Notice if he drools.

Then lock him in a room with a ballot box containing 50 Democrat and 50 Republican votes. Ask him to count them. If he's honest, he'll give the Democrats at least 10 votes.

Test No. 3: MAGNETISM.

Introduce him to Tom Girdler and Phil Murray. The right man should be able to get a campaign contribution from both, having persuaded each one he will protect him from the other.

Test No. 4: RADIO PERSONALITY.

Have the candidate make a speech over the CBS network while Bob Hope is telling jokes on NBC. If he can prove anyone heard him besides the engineer in the control room, okay him for the fireside chats of 1948.

Test No. 5: THE WOMEN'S VOTE.

Have him ring the bell at Mrs. Mulligatawny's house. When the old battle-ax opens the door, the right candidate will tip his hat and say, "Miss, is your mother in?"

Test No. 6: IS HE PHOTOGENIC?

Plant him on the Queen Elizabeth. When the liner docks in New York, arrange to have Marlene Dietrich sit on the rail and cross her legs. If one ship news photographer says hello to the candidate, nominate him, Mr. Reece—it'll be a landslide.

Test No. 7: STRENGTH OF CHARACTER.

Invite him to a cocktail party. Hand him a bowl of salted peanuts. If he can eat one nut, and then stop, he's the man to sit in Lincoln's chair.

Test No. 8: ATOMIC ENERGY.

Short circuit the lights in his house. The candidate with the right scientific background will find the little black box in the cellar and change the fuse without plunging the whole block into darkness.

Test No. 9: HOME LIFE.

Have his kid leave a roller skate on the top step. When the candidate takes a header down the stairs, note if he uses any four-letter words stronger than "Gosh." If he doesn't, check him out—he's not human.

Speak to his wife. He rates serious consideration if she still feels he's a better man than the real-estate salesman she might have married.

Test No. 10: RESOURCEFULNESS.

At a fancy dinner party, serve him a steak. Just when a sliver of meat is lodged between his molars, have the hostess ask his opinion of the Chinese political situation. If he can discuss Chiang Kai-shek and the Communists, while extricating the sliver, at one and the same time, order the campaign buttons.

Test No. 11: HORSE SENSE.

Strand the candidate in a strange town with one dollar in his pocket. Tell him he's got to run it up to fifty by nightfall. If he looks for work or a crap game, cross him off. If he used the buck to wire home for the money, have him start writing his acceptance speech.

Test No. 12: GENERAL KNOWLEDGE.

Give him one point for each corect answer: (1) The name of the other Senator from Mississippi? (2) Who writes George Allen's material? (3) The number of Governors in Georgia? (4) Who Threw the Overalls in Mrs. Murphy's Chowder?

Test No. 13: HOUSING.

Hand him a telegram informing him he and his family have been evicted and will have to live with in-laws. If he drops dead, he's the perfect candidate.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Beauty

We often speak of beauty as something alien to us, or something set apart. A flower, an unusual landscape, a sunset, or a work of art that has been put into color on canvas. To speak of beauty thus is ordinary and objective. But beauty is something more. It is what was bred into us at birth, an inheritance from the Creator Himself. To look upon beauty is to look upon something of ourselves, set apart into form.

Our personality melts into the very color and frarance of the rose We blend ourselves into the changing moments of beauty, as represented in the sunset, or in the floating fabric of the clouds against the blue sky. We are beauty then, one and all of earth's splendor.

It isn't the mere physical beauty of a great singing voice that we applaud, but the feeling and the appreciation, the melting of our own recognition of its quality, that is inherent in us, that becomes so apparent to us—a genuine meeting of ourselves in that beauty. This is true in any display of beauty, anywhere and at any time.

Edwin Booth, the actor, was in a gathering of a few of his close friends one evening, and one of them asked him to render the Lord's Prayer. It was reported as being one of the most moving expressions ever heard by any of those gathered —so much so that each listener seemed to have been in prayer with the great actor—each in unity with the One who created that prayer. Some might call it all art, but I would call it Beauty.

Science has harnessed natural forces into the radio, so that the human voice now can be sent across the world, without wires to carry it, but a greater thing exists in the invisible forces that enable the heart to unite its beauty into every color, form, or spectacle that the eye looks upon.

When the poet Keats wrote that famous line of his—"a thing of beauty is a joy forever"—he merely emphasized his oneness with all beauty and his oneness with Nature Once these chords of beauty are touched they resound and echo for ever. All the earth is a family of expressive beauty!

Education Board Backs Teachers Raise

A program which would increase teachers' salaries from $600 to $1,000 was approved by the Board of Education, after the plan was adopted by members of the Allegany County Teachers' Association.

Harold C. Wickard, Legislative Committee Chairman, said the school board gave the plan full endorsement. Under the program starting teachers with a degree would receive $2,400 instead of the $1,800 now provided and would advance $100 each succeeding year until a maximum of $3,900 was reached. The present high is $2,700.

Legion Favors Naming Recreation Board

Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, went on record at its regular meeting Tuesday night as favoring the immediate formation of a five-man recreation board for the city.

Robert V. Chisholm, post athletic director, said that although the city may not have money for improvements at this time, a recreation board could be formed to make plans for the future. Members of the board could not be paid.

The Legion will inform the Mayor and Council of its action in a letter, Commander Phil Fleming said. The post voted to urge Rep. J. Glenn Beall and Senators Herbert R. O'Conor and Millard E. Tydings to vote for a rent control bill now in Congress. The measure would empower veterans buying homes to evict tenants in 30 days instead of waiting six months, as is now the case.

Teamsters Union Seeks New Koppers Contract

Local 453, Teamsters Union, officials conferred yesterday with the management of the Koppers Company's tie treating plant at Green Spring, W. Va., on terms of a new contract, C. E. Stutzman, business agent, said yesterday. The present agreement expires March 31.

Stutzman added the union is continuing negotiations with the Yellow Top and Johnny's taxicab companies. An agreement was reached with the Astor Cab Company, he added.

The world's largest island, Australia, has 2,974,581 square miles of territory. Most geographers rate it as a continent along with Europe, Asia, Africa, North America and South America.

Teachers Union Lists Points In Program

Incentive and the plan that the maximum salary is reached in six or eight years was listed by the executive board as the chief advantages of the salary schedule advocated by Local 708, Allegany County Teachers Union.

The report, released by Dr. Dorothy Howard, asserts the maximum periods of six or eight years "are as long as can be expected to be practical under present conditions."

The union also termed the current state salary schedule "obsolete" and declared teachers' salaries, like those of others, "should bear relationship to economic conditions of the time."

Increase In Filing Tax Returns Noted

Filing of returns on 1946 income is running ahead of the volume for the same period last year at the office of the Bureau of Internal Revenue in the Post Office Building here, according to Richard J. Stakem, division chief.

Although the deadline for filing is little more than a month from today, a last-minute rush before March 15 will be avoided if the returns keep coming in at the present volume, Stakem said.

Study Group Will Recommend Sales Tax To Gov. Lane

Increase In Income Levy In 1948 Urged

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 12—(AP)—By a vote of 7 to 4, the State Board of Revenue Estimates and the Citizens Advisory Council on New Revenue Sources decided today to recommend to Gov. Lane a two per cent general sales tax.

An increase in the state income tax for the year 1948—to be collected in 1949—also will be recommended to the administration, which must raise an unofficially-estimated $42,000,000 in the next two years to meet rising costs of government.

The four members of the joint financial study group who opposed the sales tax will submit a minority report to the Governor.

The minority voted to recommend a combination of taxes, including levies on cigars and cigarets, alcoholic spirits, a boost in amusement taxes, and on income taxes for the 1949 fiscal year.

Action of the revenue estimates group was disclosed shortly after receiving communications both for and against a sales tax.

He said that most opposition had come within the last few days, since county commissioners and some local delegations in the Legislature announced they were in favor of the sales levy.

It was estimated by the majority on the Board of Estimates group that the proposed sales tax would yield approximately $18,000,000 annually, and the increase in the income tax, about $7,500,000 per year.

The majority's sales tax plan is based on the Ohio program, but instead of a graduated tax from one cent on purchases from nine cents to 40 cents, and four cents on purchases from $1.09 to $1.40, the Maryland tax would be held as closely as possible to 2 per cent.

It was reported that the comptroller's office, working out details, would provide that about $1,000,000 in collections from the sales tax would go to Baltimore City and the counties. This would be in lieu of the distribution of recordation fees and some other income as recommended in the Sherbow Commission report. The amount of money distributed would be about the same, but costs of bookkeeping would be eliminated.

As planned by the majority, the individual income tax rate would be increased from the present two per cent to 2¾ per cent. Corporation income would go up from 1½ per cent to four per cent.

Ex-Columbians Say Race War Planned

ATLANTA, Feb. 12 (AP) — Two former members of Columbians, Inc., testified in Superior (circuit) Court today that the organization planned a war of terror and violence against negroes and Jews.

Testimony of the two was in support of the state's charge that Homer L. Loomis, Jr., executive secretary of the organization, incited a riot by an attack upon a negro walking through a white residential section.

Clarence Kight quoted Loomis as saying he would "run" all Jews and negroes out of the country. Ralph Childers, once decorated by the organization following an attack upon a negro, gave supporting testimony.

Childers, who later went to New York as a guest of the Anti-Nazi League and gave it evidence now being used by the state, also testified that Loomis "said I would be shot—done away with" if he failed to carry out orders.

The youth also told the court that Loomis had said they would dynamite the Atlanta City Auditorium when negroes "are holding a big meeting there." He added similar threats were made against the Atlanta Constitution and its editor, Ralph McGill, who had been bitterly critical of the organization. He said of McGill that the plan was to "tear him apart."

Preparedness Against Air War Urged By Symington

BALTIMORE, Feb. 12—(AP)—W. Stuart Symington, Assistant Secretary of War for Air, said today that if proposed cuts of more than $1,000,000,000 in appropriations in the federal budget for fiscal 1948 were carried out "I do not believe the security of the United States will be adequate."

Symington, in an address before the Engineers Club of Baltimore, urged preparedness against a possible air war of the future.

Citing what he called an "air frontier" presented by the North Polar regions, he said:

"The mastery of this frontier will have extraordinary value to us in times of peace. From the standpoint of modern war, the mastery of this barrier is vital to national defense."

Judge Upholds Subpoena In Jewel Theft Case

RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 12 (AP) — Federal District Judge Robert N. Pollard upheld today the Army's right to subpoena James E. Durant, of Falls Church, Va., as a material witness in the court-martial trial of his brother, Col. Jack W. Durant, one of the principal defendants in the $1,500,000 theft of the Hesse crown jewels.

The court announced without comment that a motion of James Durant's counsel to quash the subpoena had been denied. Judge Pollard said he would explain his action in an opinion tomorrow. Mrs. Martha Evans, former State Department stenographer, was a party to the effort to quash the subpoena but changed her mind and testified Monday.

Two Survivors Of Plane Crash Are Found Alive

SEATTLE, Feb. 12—(AP)—Two survivors of a Coast Guard plane which crashed on Richter Mountain in Southern Oregon yesterday have been found alive, a message relayed to the Coast Guard headquarters here tonight said.

Their names or condition were not given. The message was sent here by Lt. Comdr. R. W. Finley, in charge of a Coast Guard ground party in the area, and it said that the information was obtained from a Sgt. Cressy (first name not given) of the Oregon State Police.

The two were being taken out of the area to obtain physician's care, the message said. The other four occupants of the plane were found killed in the wreckage. The pilot had apparently tried to fly over a ridge but the plane hit the ground and crashed.

Gaps In Reports Of Heart Deaths

NEW YORK, Feb. 12 (AP)—Heart disease may be a much greater killer in America than appears in the nation's annual death rates.

The last count was 418,000 in 1944. Studies made for the current National Heart Week by the American Heart Association indicate there are several gaps in reports of heart deaths.

The 1940 count for heart disease deaths was 385,191. But in that same year there were 112,000 additional deaths in which heart trouble was listed as a contributing cause. Both sets of figures are from death certificates.

No contributing heart trouble figures are available for 1944. But since the heart deaths rose by about 32,000 in the four years from 1940 it appears likely that the heart death assists remained at more than 100,000.

The listing of deaths from heart disease follows a form set by international agreement. There are six causes of heart trouble in this form.

Missing from the form, and often not always entered as heart deaths, according to the American Heart Association study, are those from syphilis, congenital malformations of the heart, and some deaths that occur in acute rheumatic fever.

There are no figures to show how many deaths in these classes fail to get recorded as due to heart failure.

Crippled Youth Shoots His Father

NEW YORK, Feb. 12—(AP)—A crippled 18-year-old youth shot and critically wounded his policeman father today during a wrangle between the parents, Assistant District Attorney Victory Levin, of Queens county, said.

Patrolman Robert J. Smith, 41, a bullet in a lung, was taken to a hospital where he was reported in critical condition.

The son, Joseph, was charged with felonious assault.

Levin gave this account of the shooting:

The policeman berated his wife, Evelyn, 36, for not having breakfast prepared for him following his tour of duty. An argument ensued. Starting to undress, the policeman laid his holster on the foot of a twin bed where Joseph lay in the same room.

The youth told his father to stop arguing with his mother. Picking up the gun, Joseph shouted at his father, whose back was turned to him: "If you don't stop it, Pop, I'll shoot."

"Well, go ahead and shoot," the policeman replied, without turning around.

Joseph pulled the trigger, and a bullet entered his father's back.

Aiken Couples Praise Of Lincoln With Advice

SALISBURY, Md., Feb. 12—(AP)—Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.) tonight coupled praise of Abraham Lincoln with advice that his party "be imbued with something of Lincoln's desire for good government."

"I do not mean to imply that our party's interest in good government is a newly-acquired interest," the Vermonter told a Lincoln Day banquet.

"We must not, however," he said, "interpret our (November) victory to mean that the voters have overnight become passionately devoted to the Republican Party."

"The hard cold fact should not be overlooked that the electorate did not vote for Republicans last November so much as they voted against the administration then in power."

Farm Conservation

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Feb. 12—(AP)—More than 21,000 Maryland farmers took part in last year's agricultural conservation program, Joseph H. Blandford, State Production and Marketing Administration Director said today. Payments to farmers in the progrom will total $2,500,000 he said.

Talmadge Claim To Governorship Upheld By Judge

Ga. Dispute Heads For Higher Court

McDONOUGH, Ga., Feb. 12, (AP)—A Superior (Circuit) Court upheld Herman Talmadge today in his claim to the governorship of Georgia, but final decision rested with the State Supreme Court which already has one diametrically-opposite decision of another judge awaiting review.

Stolid, florid Judge Walter C. Hendrix, of the Fulton (Atlanta) Circuit, held unequivocally for Talmadge and dismissed suit by Lt.-Gov. M. E Thompson for a declaratory judgment ousting Talmadge from office. He ruled in a 2,600-word decision that Georgia's Legislature was authorized to ignore 143,000 votes cast for Eugene Talmadge, after the latter died December 21, 1946, and held the Assembly was within its constitutional rights when it elected 'Gene's 33-year-old son to serve the elder Talmadge's four-year term.

Porter Upheld Thompson

At Rome, Ga., last week, another superior judge, Claude Porter, took the opposite view. He held the Legislature had exceeded its authority, and declared Lt.-Gov. Thompson was legal "acting governor" in succession to Gov. Ellis Arnall, resigned. The Porter decision is docketed for hearing by the Supreme Court early in March.

Counsel for Thompson said today's decision by Hendrix would be appealed "at once," with a bill of exceptions to be prepared possibly within 24 hours. The winter docket of the Supreme Court closes February 19.

Neither Indicates Surprise

Neither Talmadge nor Thompson indicated surprise at today's development. Talmadge said the judgment "sustains our contentions" that it was mandatory on the Legislature to elect a Governor.

Thompson commented: "Both Judge Hendrix and Judge Porter are honorable men and highly respected as judges throughout the state. The next decision rests with the State Supreme Court. The people are entitled to the earliest possible final decision on this issue."

Thompson made his comment before Hendrix announced his decision, explaining: "This stands as my comment before the decision, and will still be my comment after the decision."

Mechanical Calculator To Be Taken To Aberdeen

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 12 (AP) — One of the world's largest mechanical calculators—known as the electronic numerical integrator and computor—is being moved from the University of Pennsylvania to the Army Ordnance Depot at Aberdeen, Md.

Constructed by the Moore School of Electrical Engineering, the huge device was considered the university's greatest wartime achievement although not finished until a year ago.

Workmen have removed a section of a laboratory wall to permit transfer of the instrument which is expected to require several months. Moore School engineers will reassemble the computor at Aberden.

Lynn, Mass., Fire Drives 70 Persons Into Street

LYNN, Mass., Feb. 12—(AP)—Seventy persons were driven to the street and two firemen were injured tonight in a fire that engulfed a three-story building housing 30 apartments and five stores.

The general alarm blaze—threatening a heavily-populated residential area in the vicinity of Summer and Vine Streets—brought out all available fire-fighting equipment.

Fireman Williiam Halley was removed to Lynn Hospital after he fell down a stairway in dense smoke at the height of the fire. His injuries were not known. A second fireman suffered minor injuries and was treated at the scene.

Fire officials said they expected the building would be destroyed and that damage would exceed $50,000.

Second Son Is Born To Actress Ruth Hussey

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 12 (AP)—A second son was born today to Film and Stage Actress Ruth Hussey, wife of William Longnecker, actors agent.

Good Samaritan Hospital attendants said the child, born by a Caesarean operation, weighed six pounds, seven ounces and that baby and mother were "getting along fine." The baby will be named John William.

Miss Hussey and her husband have a two and a half year old son, George Robert.

CAUGHT THIEF—Yvonne Sola, 10, daughter of Maj. Gerald C. Sola, Jacksonville, Fla., holds tightly to her pet dog, which aided her in capturing a German "shuttle thief" in Frankfurt, Germany. The child chased and cornered in a basement a suspicious-looking stranger carrying two bulging suitcases and, while the dog held him at bay, one of Yvonne's playmates called police. The authorities believe he is a member of a ring of thieves who steal articles in the British zone and peddle them in the American zone, hence the appellation "shuttle thief."

Deputy Sheriff Dies In Gun Fight

PAULS VALLEY, Okla., Feb. 12—(AP)—A deputy sheriff was shot to death, and two men critically wounded today when, Sheriff Fred Cregger reported, a man taken into custody drew a revolver, fired several shots and escaped in a commandeered car.

Cregger said the man was G. W. Beasley, 20, whom they had intended to question about an automobile theft. He identified the dead officer as Deputy Sheriff Lon Pearson. Another deputy, Bill Paul, and Clarence Mays, 65, a retired farmer, were wounded by the revolver shots.

Paul, in critical condition from a head wound, signed a statement which Cregger quoted:

"G. W. Beasley shot all three."

Cregger related this story:

The deputies and Mays, who "went along for the ride," had gone to Beasley's country home to arrest him for investigation. On the way back, Beasley rode his motorcycle and the officers drove their car. When Beasley asked them to stop while he repaired his vehicle, the shooting started.

About a half mile from the scene of the shooting, Beasley commandeered a car driven by a friend, J. B. Carpenter, and in which Beasley's wife and two-year-old son were riding. Carpenter said he was driving them to town, following the officers' automobile.

Beasley released Carpenter after driving a few miles. He drove on with Mrs. Beasley and the child but released them about eight miles east, near the home of relatives.

Girl Mauled By Bear Tries Out Wheel Chair

BALTIMORE, Feb. 12 (AP) — Anna Louise (Tini) Hastings, four, whose leg was amputated after a mauling by a pet bear, tried out her new wheel chair today and took a doll along for the ride.

Hospital officials said she is "coming along fine," and that at present no further operations appear necessary. Her left leg was amputated at the knee.

She was bitten by "Pete," main attraction at the Bear Inn in Pikesville. The bear, a gift to the Druid Hill Park Zoo upon the death of its owner, James W. Henry, was taken to the zoo the day after the accident.

Burned To Death

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12—(AP)—A woman identified by firemen as Mrs. Joseph Erowensky, 60, a cripple, was burned to death tonight in a fire in a two-story apartment house in the northeast section.

Transport Still Helpless In Grip Of Antarctic Gale

Coast Guardsmen's Efforts Thwarted

ABOARD USS NORTHWIND IN ANTARCTICA, Feb. 12 (AP) — The crippled and punctured transport Merrick still pitched helplessly in the grip of an Antarctic gale early today more than five hours after her rudder had been smashed by a storm-tossed ice floe.

Heroic efforts of Coast Guardsmen aboard the icebreaker Northwind were thwarted when the tow cable they had run to the stricken vessel became entangled in the Northwind's screws and had to be severed.

The tow had been proceeding haltingly under the combined handicaps of seas whipped by 55-knot winds, roving icebergs and visibility cut by driving snows and the semi-darkness of the Antarctic night.

Suddenly a gust hurled the disabled Merrick off course. The cable became slack and wound around the screws of the icebreaker. Both vessels then were helpless.

They were tossed against one another by the storm as winds drove them rapidly toward an almost solid pack of the Ross ice barrier. There was no choice but to sever the cable.

The suddenly freed cable whipped across the deck of the Northwind, breaking a stanchion and narrowly missed sweeping a sailor into the water.

Capt. Charles Thomas ordered the Northwind to ride aside the Merrick and serve as a buffer against the ice pack it was approaching, while men worked swiftly in the dull light to completely free the fouled lines.

The two ships soon were lashed together. The strong hull of the Northwind warded the menacing ice away from the more vulnerable transport, but the bucking of ship against ship in the storm opened two gashes above the Merrick's waterline.

Slaying Suspect May Be Released

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 12 (AP) — Lie detector tests and other evidence have virtually eliminated Frank French, 47, police said today, as a suspect in the slaying of his wife, Jeanne French, 40-year-old former aviatrix, nurse and film bit player, whose trampled and lipstick-branded body was found in an isolated section Monday.

"He doesn't show any consciousness of guilt, his statements are straightforward and the physical evidence seems to check him out," said Ray Pinker, head of the police crime laboratory, in reporting on the lie detector test.

French, aircraft worker and former Marine Corps sergeant major, was still held in West Los Angeles on a booking of suspicion of murder but detectives there said he might be released today or tomorrow.

Detective Lt. Gene Bechtel said French's landlady has corroborated his statement that he was in his rooming house at the approximate time of the slaying and that his shoeprints do not match those found at the scene.

Downing Resigns Md. Banking Post

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 12—(AP)—Gov. Lane announced tonight the resignation of John W. Downing, of Salisbury, State Banking Commissioner, who said that he must devote "all of my time to my personal business affairs."

The governor, who said in a letter that he realized Downing had "devoted nearly eight years of faithful service to the efficient direction of the Banking Department," asked the Commissioner to remain until the end of his term, May 5. Downing had suggested that his resignation become effective March 15.

Lane said that he hoped that Downing could arrange his personal affairs so as to remain until the end of his term.

There were reports that J. Millard Tawes, of Crisfield, former comptroller who opposed Lane in the Democratic primary for governor last year, might be appointed to the banking post.

No Withdrawal Of Lilienthal's Nomination Seen

Truman Won't Back Down, Officials Say

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 (AP) — An administration source of high authority said tonight that President Truman has no idea of backing down on his nomination of David E. Lilienthal to be chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Lilienthal conferred late today at the White House with Clark M. Clifford, special counsel to the President and one of the Chief Executive's closest advisers. The visit gave rise to some speculation that his visit might be in connection with suggestions from Senate opponents that the President might do well to recall the nomination and avoid a growing fight.

While Clifford would not discuss his parley with Lilienthal in any detail, other sources high in the councils of the President said the former TVA chairman had no thought of asking a withdrawal of his nomination in the face of opposition from some senators.

A reporter, who talked with Lilienthal as he entered the White House, was told by Lilienthal that he was calling on Clifford, and not the President. He said he wanted to discuss some "routine matters" with the President's legal adviser.

This version of the call was echoed by Clifford. However, other sources familiar with the call said that there was a general discussion of the confirmation fight.

One official particularly close to Mr. Truman said, "absolutely not," when he was asked if Lilienthal had any idea of suggesting withdrawal of the nomination. This source would not allow the use of his name.

Sen. Moore (R-Okla) and O'Daniel (D-Tex) meanwhile came out against Lilienthal, but Sen. Myers (D-Pa) called him a "perfect choice."

The gang's espionage activities extended to America and England as well as France, the attorney general's department said.

That Ring Around the Bathtub

Jeb Crowell blew his top the other day. Seems that for weeks he's been trying to get his youngsters to scrub out the bathtub after using it. And this night he sees two rings around it—one where young Sonny left off, and another about Pinky's level.

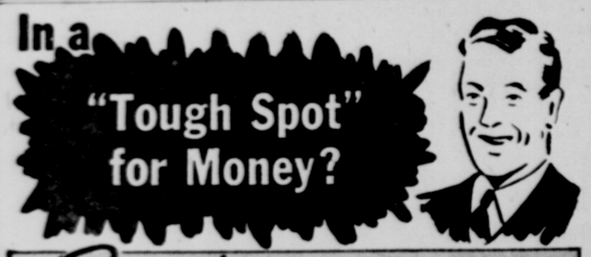

He raves and rants—and takes it out on the missus for her lack of discipline. And later that evening he sees her quietly polishing the hardwood table that's right by his chair. She's removing the rings he's left there with his evening glass of beer!

From now on, Jeb's careful to put his glass down on the table cover—like the missus does. And I hear he's a little more forgiving about rings around the bathtub. Just keeps on patiently reminding.

From where I sit, there are little annoyances in every family—conflicting habits and opinions in every community. A little patience—a little more "forgive and let live" is the only antidote.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Girl Who Can't Seem To Make Friends
And Keep Them Is In "Mess"

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a girl of 18 who can't seem to make friends and keep them. Now I'm in one heck of a mess.

There is one girl and boy who are playing me for a fool, and I'm too soft-hearted to do anything about it. They go together, and when they have a fight, they both call me and ask me to fix things up. I do just as they tell me, but some times it's pretty tough.

Now this girl's mother blames me for causing all the trouble between these two, and forbids us to be friends. How can I make her mother see that I had nothing to do with this girl's disagreements with her boy friend, and am I right when I say that the kind of girl who lets her mother believe such things isn't the kind I want for a friend?

"A. G."

Those who let themselves become involved in other people's business are almost crtain to end up in "one heck of a mess" sooner or later, "A. G." Since you know these two are "playing you for a fool" why do you let them do it? And why on earth should you "do just as they tell you"? Don't you think you're showing pretty poor judgment, to say the least, in allowing anyone to dominate you this way?

Perhaps you're so eager to be liked that you'll do anything to make yourself appear agreeable and cooperative. But you'll have to learn ti discriminate; to know when to do as you're asked, and when it's wiser to politely refuse. This is the secret of a strong personality; the sort of personality that people admire and respect.

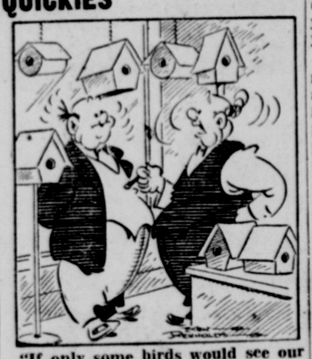

So don't be so weak that you let yourself be pulled this way and that, trying to please everybody. Stand on your own feet and be independent—in a nice friendly way, of course—and I'm sure you'll find you make friends much better than you do now.

As for this particular girl and her mother, I suggest you stop worrying about the mand let things take their natural course. Trying to make explanations will probably only complicate the situation still more. It doesn't sound to be me as though you'd lose anything very valuable if you lost this girl as a friend.

There are more than 8,000,000 persons in the United States suffering from some sort of mental illness. More than 600,000 are now in mental hospitals, occupying more than half the hospital beds in the country, and every year a quarter of a million new patients are admitted.

LIFE'S CALLING YOUR BLUFF

Tough times these—
Life's calling your bluff.
For years you and Life
Have been playing a game,
A game like poker,
Life dealing, you taking
And acting wise,
Acting as if you held
All the aces.
Well, maybe you have them
And maybe you haven't.
Now's the time
You've got to prove it.

For this, stranger,
Is the show-down.
Some call it "recession"
Names don't matter
It's really a showdown;
A showdown for everything
And everybody;
A showdown to prove
Whether people and things
Are face cards
Or two-spots.

Life's saying to you,
Saying to everybody:
"What've you got?
"What've you really got
"In your hand?
"You've pretended to have
"A full house
"Or a royal flush.
"You've boasted that
"Nothing could lick you
"Well, how about it?
"Can you prove it?
"Here's your chance, now
"SHOW YOUR HAND!"

Life's calling your bluff;
Saying that to you.
What are you answering?
Are you saying:
"Hold on, Life!
"That isn't fair.
"Naturally I can't make
"A good showing now.
"The war boom's over;
"The government's blooey;
"I've no job,
"No money;
"Can't borrow;
"Busted flat;
"But that's not my fault
"It's not fair
"To call me for that!"

That's what you say
But life answers:
"I'm not asking
"A showdown on money,
"Or jobs, or credits.
"I'm asking
"A showdown on YOU.
"What are you holding
"In YOU, YOURSELF?
"If YOU, YOURSELF,
"Have got the stuff,
"You'll take the pot
"Nothing can lick you,
"Things may be tough,
"Mighty tough;
"But nothing can lick you
"If you've got the stuff,
"BUT HAVE YOU?"

"Have you got the stuff
"In YOU, YOURSELF?"

That's what Life's saying
These days. And this:
"Are you a self-starter,
"Or just a pan-handler?
"Have you brains, or
"Are you just a smarty?
"Have you courage, or
"Are you just a show-off?
"Brains and courage—
"They're the face cards!
"If you have those
"You'll win any game,
"No matter how tough
"The deal;
"But if you haven't
"You're a washout,
"Even if you're dealt
"The whole pack.
"So quit your stalling
"Kid; I'm calling you.
"No more bluffing!
"SHOW YOUR HAND!"

Alexander Graham Bell Was a Right Smart Man

HOLDEN, Me. (AP) — Howard S. Naugler, "nearly 90," was coaxed by his family into making a telephone call—the first in his life—to an 81-year-old crony who had never before used the contraption, either.

Thomas R. Merritt, 81, of Brewer, said he couldn't hear Naugler any too well but agreed with him that inventor Alexander Graham Bell—born 100 years ago—had been a right smart man.

183 Celanese Vets Lose Lives In War

Slightly less than three per cent of the 5,069 employes of the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America inducted into the armed forces before January 1, made the supreme sacrifice, Edward R. Allen, plant personnel manager, revealed in a letter to Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, Amercian Legion.

Allan said 138 of the plant's employes died in World War II. He added that the exact number wounded in action is not known but that 73 were reported missing in action and that 255 of the 3,924 employes who returned to the plant received disability discharges. Seriously handicapped veterans number 57.

Another group of 328 veterans not previously employed at the Celanese plant have been hired, he added.

Allan points out that there are members of one group of veterans, who by virtue of strict seniority interpretation of the company's contract with Local 1874, TWUA, are denied the privilege of returning to their original positions after having taken promotions to jobs made vacant by another employe entering the armed forces.

Negotiations with the union are under way, Allan said, to obtain for this group the same liberal arrangements as extended to those who are permitted to consider any transfer during the emergency period as temporary and allowed to return to their original job without loss of seniority.

Mountaineers Balk At Swiss Exercise Rule

BERN—A federal regulation for compulsory gymnastics for every school boy in Switzerland has provoked protests from the provinces, especially from mountainous areas.

The regulation said that each school class must have three hours of gymnastics per week. For the third hour, afternoon games or sport may be substituted for the gym classes. Participation by school boys is obligatory. The government recommended the same regimen for girls.

Three hours per week, said one newspaper, Fuerstenlaender, was "dictated by the confederation military department. What the military department wants is to militarize our youth."

Another newspaper, Walliser Bote, asserted "we send our children to school to learn; they can get enough exercise by herding goats during their vacation."

Long Distance Mouse Has A Tight Squeak

DES MOINES (AP)—A small boy about 10 approached the manager of a hotel in unhappy excitement, saying he had lost his pet white mouse in the hotel telephone coin box.

Near tears, the boy explained that the mouse had run down his sleeve and into the coin return slot and finally into the coin box.

The manager called the equally skeptical telephone company which dispatched a repairman. When the coin box was removed, there, sure enough, was the boy's pet.

Stuffing the wee animal into a coat pocket, the lad said "thank you" and went home smiling.

DIGGING OUT—According to an old saying "an Englishman's house is his castle." But now it's his igloo, as demonstrated by this housewife whose only exit from her Peak Forest, England, home is a tunnel cut through a snowdrift that has buried the house. The worst winter blizzards Britishers can recall not only has cut villages off from food, fuel and power, but it has created a national economic crisis.

Bills Would Grant Larger Measure Of Home Rule To Maryland Counties

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 12 (AP) — Two Harford county delegates chose the birthday anniversary of "The Great Emancipator," Abraham Lincoln, to introduce bills in the House today granting a larger measure of home rule to Maryland's 23 counties.

The bills, sponsored by Delegates Clark and James, both Democrats, are similar to three ill-fated measures sponsored in the 1945 session by the Legislative Council.

At that time Senate President James Lindsay, of Baltimore county, an ardent supporter of a program to lessen the burden of the legislature by reducing the number of minor local bills, successfully steered the bills through the Senate.

But when they came across to the House, Speaker John S. White, of Prince George's county — who said he was opposed to home rule and made no bones about it—referred the bills to the Corporations Committee. The bills stayed there and never came before the House for action.

One of the Clark-James bills calls for an amendment to the constitution, and would be voted on in a referendum in 1948. It would remove the constitutional monopoly granted the Legislature to pass on a list of minor matters which are itemized in the two companion bills.

"The bills let county commissioners know specifically what authority and powers they have, as well as broadening their powers," Clark explained later.

"The majority of local legislation now is a result of commissioners questioning the authority they have, and this is one way to set them clear to act without bothering the legislature with trivialities."

James and Clark explained that the constitutional amendment also contained a safeguard for local legislation. In event that a county commission failed to act after home rule was authorized, the legislature could come back to Annapolis and take jurisdiction.

Under one bill, county governments would be granted 18 separate functions now performed by the legislature. In the other bill, municipalities would be empowered to act in 31 specific instances.

County commissioners would have power, among other things, to set salaries of all appointed officers and employes of the county; set up merit, pension and retirement systems; provide for competitive bidding for any county construction, roads, sidewalks; to fix the allowance for sheriffs to board prisoners.

Cities and counties would be permitted to borrow money without first asking the Legislature for an enabling act.

Counties could float bonds of not more than seven per cent of the value of real estate in the county. A referendum is provided where the issue planned was to be one fourth of one per cent of the assessable basis, or more.

The top bond issue limit for cities would be 10 per cent of the city's real estate assessment, and a referendum would be required at one-half of one per cent.

Legislators Give Red Cold Shoulder

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 12 (AP) — A State Senate Labor Committee hearing on a Maryland wage-bill ended abruptly today when most of those present walked out on a Communist Party official as she spoke in support of the proposal.

Mrs. Dorothy Blumberg, head of the Communist Party in the state, took the floor after two hours of testimony had been heard.

As soon as she announced she was representing the Communist Party, Francis Silver, a Darlington farmer, objected to her speaking.

He was not recognized by Committee Chairman Della (D-Balto 6th), and many persons in the crowded chamber filed out.

As the room began to empty, Mrs. Blumberg said in a loud voice:

"Courtesy is at least part of the American way of life."

Delegate John Reed (D-Balto 5th), then stated that "I have carried a union card for 28 years and am heartily in favor of all labor legislation. However, every time a good law comes up, the Communists, CIO and all labor cross each other up so nothing is done."

"I say to groups wanting labor legislation, don't send the Reds here to back it up. The Communists have ruined this state."

Altogether 16 persons spoke in favor of the measure, which would set up wage and hour legislation parallel to those of federal laws. The majority were labor leaders, members of the Maryland League of Women Voters and of the American Association of University Women.

Story Of Jewels Hidden In Candy Bar Enters Trial

Col. Durant's Brother Must Answer Subpoena

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12—(AP)—Evidence of smuggled jewels embedded in a candy bar entered the Hesse gem theft trial of Col. Jack W. Durant today. Also, his brother lost an attempt to avoid giving testimony.

Federal District Judge Robert N. Pollard ruled at Richmond, Va., Durant, a government accountant, that Durant's brother, James E. Durant, must answer a subpoena issued by the military court trying the Air Forces officer.

Col. Durant is being tried here in connection with the theft of the fabulous $1,500,000 Hesse crown jewel fortune from a German castle occupied by American forces as a rest camp.

The candy bar-jewel smuggling story entered the case by way of a deposition introduced over defense objections by Maj. Joseph S. Robinson, trial prosecutor. The deposition was given as absentee testimony by Mary Elizabeth (Peggy) Harvey, a housewife in Belfast, Ireland. Her testimony was that she received the candy bar containing diamonds from Maj. David S. Watson, an officer already convicted and sentenced to three years imprisonment in the case. An Army WAC, Kathleen Nash Durant, wife of Col. Durant, also has been convicted in the case and sentenced to a five-year term.

No connection was given between Col. Durant and the candy bar, but the prosecution has charged a conspiracy existed for disposing of the Hesse family heirlooms.

Two Washington jewelers testified today that Col. Durant brought them three diamonds last March 14 and, after haggling over the price, sold them for $357.

Mayflower Evades Scrap Pile Again

BALTIMORE, Feb. 12 (AP)—The Mayflower, one-time private yacht of Presidents, has escaped the scrap pile again—this time in exchange for a tour of duty as an Arctic sealing ship.

She's being converted at the Bethlehem Steel Company's Key Highway shipyard, where all her below-deck compartments are being torn out to make storage space for seal fats and pelts.

The 50-year-old yacht, once valued at half a million dollars, was sold for the seventh time last November. Frank M. Shaw, of Montreal, Canada, sole bidder, paid the United States Maritime Commission $20,159 for the craft.

She had been on the rim of the scrap pile several years ago when she was converted into a submarine chaser.

Before that she had been seized once in a $785 debt proceedings and later valued by the Navy as $7,666 worth of junk—at 1931 prices.

Presidents Theodore Roosevelt, Taft, Wilson, Harding and Coolidge held conferences on her decks. Hoover ordered the vessel laid up in 1929.

William Windsor, in charge of the reconversion job, said the Mayflower will carry 200 men into the Arctic and is expected to store 1,000 tons of fats and hides, worth about $750 a ton in Canada.

"I'M SORRY SON"—Horace Kendrick (right), 24, accused in complaint signed by his father of having led two gunmen to his father's home and standing in a back room while the gunmen held up his family, tearfully pleads for "another chance" as he meets his father, Ira Kendrick (left), in Detroit police headquarters. The elder Kendrick explained "I'm sorry son . . . It's too late now."

Sister Kenny To Retire From Active Polio Work

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 12 (AP) — E. O. Hubbard, chairman of the Northern California State Committee for the Sister Elizabeth Kenny Foundation, said tonight that Sister Kenny would announce her retirement from active duty in her infantile paralysis work in Minneapolis on Friday.

Hubbard declared in a statement that the famed Australian nurse would make public her plans at a meeting of the Minneapolis City Council.

He added:

"Sister Kenny has said, and plans to repeat to the council, that the staff of the Kenny Institute is now fully qualified to carry on and teach her work. She feels that she must, because of her age, place most of the responsibility for treatment and teaching upon the Kenny staff."

Sen. Kimble

said, that if a big bill is to be explained, one explanation should suffice.

He added that the principal purpose of the meeting was to outline the mechanics of the budget for the benefit of new members who might not understand procedure.

Otherwise, the Assembly went quietly through another day, albeit with strong hints from the administration that activity must be speeded up if the work is completed in time.

"Home rule" for counties and cities of Maryland was proposed in the House in a group of three bills by Delegates Clark and James (D-Harford). The measures, which would give greater powers to county commissioners and municipal councils, are identical with a set submitted in 1945 by the Legislative Council.

The measures passed the Senate in 1945 but Speaker John White, an opponent of home rule, sent them to committee where they died.

The House moved to at last rid itself of the Maryland-Virginia oyster war by approving a committee report which amends a Senate bill on illegal oystering in the Potomac.

As now amended, the bill would allow Maryland to confiscate Virginia boats fishing illegally in the Potomac river but the operators would still be tried in Virginia courts, as they have since 1885.

The bill will be up for passage tomorrow, along with a resolution for appointment of three Marylanders on a joint commission of Potomac affairs. The bill, of course, will have to return to the Senate for concurrence in amendments but its passage seemed certain, since Gov. Lane is backing it.

After the session, the Senate chamber was filled with labor leaders from Baltimore and other parts of the state, along with opponents of a bill which would set up a wage hour law for Maryland.

The measure, sponsored by Sen. Della (D-Balto 6th) would create standards of wages and hours for intrastate commerce, with a maximum of 40 hours work a week and a minimum of 65 cents an hour.

The Senate passed 10 minor Senate measures and approved 14 minor House bills and sent them to the governor.

The House approved 23 of its own measures and sent five Senate bills to the governor.

Repeal Of 112-Year-Old State Law Is Favored

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 12 (AP) — Philip B. Perlman, solicitor general of the United States, asserted today that exemption of honorary members of the Maryland militia from jury service was "wrong in principle," and urged repeal of the 112-year-old state law.

He gave his views at a hearing of the House Judiciary Committee on a bill which would repeal the statute. Five of Maryland's ranking soldiers, headed by Maj. Gen. Milton A. Reckord, testified in opposition to the repealer.

Perlman, a Baltimorean, said the repealer had the approval of the Star Bar Association and the Legislative Council, and had already been passed by the Senate.

Johnston, for the soft coal operators, already had predicted an inevitable strike by July 1 unless the mine union or Congress backs down on the welfare fund issue.

He contended today that the government contract with Lewis, by which the mines are now operating, is illegal because of the royalty fund but nevertheless urged specific legislation outlawing such levies.

Hermit Leaves Forest By Plane

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., Feb. 12 (AP)—Bearded Noah Rondeau rested in the luxury of a hotel room tonight after a helicopter had plucked him from the heart of a three-million acre Adirondack wilderness on the first leg of his journey to New York city.

"Up to now I felt the air was only for birds," the 63-year-old hermit remarked as he landed here after his first flight. "But now I feel aviation is here to stay."

Rondeau, who has lived for 33 years in a crude shelter 22 miles from here, will fly to New York Friday for the opening of the National Sportsmen's Show.

Bill Veeck Suggests Pennock Of Phillies Mind Own Business

CLEVELAND, Feb. 12 (AP)—Commenting on a statement by Herb Pennock that high salaries will "ruin" baseball, President Bill Veeck of the Cleveland Indians suggested today the Philadelphia Phillies general manager take "care of his own business."

"I would suggest to Mr. Pennock that if he took care of his own business, he would have his hands full," Veeck said. "I'm too busy myself to comment on how to operate the Philadelphia club."

Pennock said that although he was speaking of salaries generally, he had in mind particularly the $80,000 Bobby Feller is expected to receive from Cleveland this year and the $60,000 which he figured Hal Newhouser and Ted Williams would receive from Detroit and Boston.

Gas Line Break Brings Industry Shutdowns In Pa.

Service Is Expected To Be Resumed Soon

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 12 (AP) — A major segment of Western Pennsylvania industry, barely on the road to recovery after a week-long total gas shutdown due to a cold wave, was crippled again tonight when a 20-inch natural gas line from Texas, serving 154 plants broke near Charleston, W. Va.

The line, from which the Peoples Natural Gas Company gets its supply, was expected to be repaired within a few hours, a spokesman for the Tennessee Gas and Transmission Company reported. The break was described as a "welding rupture." It was expected the flow of gas would be resumed shortly after repairs were completed.

Getting Back To Normal

Otherwise, the Ohio-Pennsylvania-West Virginia tri-state area was getting back to normal, after a cold wave gas shortage had made 110,000 workers idle—50,000 in Pennsylvania and 30,000 each in Ohio and West Virginia.

Equitable Gas Company, one of the three main concerns serving the area, restored 100 per cent service today; the Manufacturers Light and Heat Company gave manufacturers 25 per cent of their normal supplies and said the amount would be increased to 50 per cent tomorrow morning. Peoples, the third firm in the area, ordered a 100 per cent shutdown after the Charleston line break.

The cancellation of service forced United States Steel Corporation to delay plans for returning "several open hearths" to operation and kept 3,000 workers idle at Johnstown, Donora and Vandergrift, Pa. Allegheny Ludlum Steel Corporation curtailed operations, sending 1,200 home at Leechburg, Pa., and an unspecified "substantial number" at Brackenridge, Pa.

Cumberland Gets Increase

Other plants reported at least 3,000 furloughed until the line break was repaired.

The increase in gas supplies to industrial customers announced by manufacturers for its 154 customers also affects these other members of the "Pittsburgh groups" of the Columbia Gas and Electric System: Cumberland and Allegheny, Cumberland, Md.; Natural Gas Company of West Virginia, Wheeling; Gettysburg Gas Corporation, Gettysburg, Pa.; Keystone Gas Company, Olean, N. Y., and the Binghampton Gas Works, Binghampton, N. Y.

By JOHN CROSBY

We View With Alarm Or Possibly Gratification. . . .

Any columnist of stature deals heavily in significance, that is, he assembles a certain amount of information, assays its atomic weight, determines its molecular structure and, enfin, reaches conclusions. Now and then, he has difficulty finding a conclusion to fit the facts, though obviously there is a conclusion somewhere to be found. The information at hand obviously is fraught with significance but just what it is the columnist can't at the moment decide.

John Crosby

The following items of disassociated information have been cluttering up my basket for weeks waiting for a conclusion or, at the very least, an implication to be drawn from them. They all have import of some sort; they indicate something or other; they are pregnant, as it were, with meaning, inner meaning. But I'm darned if I know what they signify and I pass them along to the rest of you, partly because so much significance should not be lost to the world but mostly to get them out of the basket to make room for the rest of the significant items that will come in the morning mail.

Johnny Olsen, master of ceremonies on a give-away show called "Ladies Be Seated," recently was presented with a gift certificate by a member of the audience to whom he was endeavoring to give something. The gift certificate entitled him to a new hat. . .Gabriel Heatter has asked Congress to adopt a resolution placing responsibility for the use of the atomic bombs against Japan squarely on the shoulders of the American people, all of them. . .

Mrs. Adele King, of North Adams, Mass., won $1,000 on the "Pot O' Gold" program when her phone number was picked by the Tums Giant Selector. A boarder who answered the phone was asked what he thought Mrs. King planned to do first when she got the money. "Count it," replied the boarder. . .There is a spot announcement on WHN in New York which goes: "Sell your diamonds at Empire, sell your diamonds at Empire, sell your diamonds at Empire." Then the announcer interrupts with the statement: "No, this is not a scratched record." The other day an announcer went berserk and muttered: "But I wish it were." . .

WMCA in New York is broadcasting records designed to make it easier to get food into small children. Each record presents a different character who is supposed to be an eating companion for the child. At breakfast the eating companion is Doc Clock; at lunch it's Happity-Yappity-Appetite, at dinner it's Sip-Sip-Supper. . .

Robert Trout, in his evening news program (C.B.S. 6:45 p. m. E.S.T.) reported recently that the "Rocket Dictionary of Current Americanism, New Words and Slangs" is a best seller in Japan these days. The pocket dictionary defines among other things the phrases "wise dough" and "oh, my aching back." The word "tank," it is explained, is a verb meaning something GI beer drinkers do in their spare time, usually in saloons. "Pop" means explosion, soft drink and father, just in case you didn't know.

A "teria" is a place where you buy things — "groceryteria" for groceries, "drugteria" for malted milks, "candyteria" for Hershey bars. "In the near future," said Mr. Trout, "a new kind of interpreter will be needed to translate the language of those Japanese who have learned English this way. The translators, of course, will be hired at the translatorteria."

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 12—In all this bitter criticism directed against motion pictures and salacious exploitation it's good that Brynie Foy is putting a story with the charm of "Kenny" into production.

Sally Eilers

Cathy Downs, the girl who scored as Harold Russell's girl-bride in "The Best Years of Our Lives," has been borrowed from Sam Goldwyn to play the feminine lead in the Bromfield story. Louis, himself, will be out here the end of the month to give his okay on the final script.

I read "Kenny" when it was serialized in Cosmopolitan magazine. There's delicacy and sentiment in this story of a young farm boy killed in the war whose spirit somehow comes back to console his heartbroken young wife. Believe me, we can use pictures of this type. The movie pace lately has been too hot—in spots.

There will be no battle for the best Joan of Arc between Ingrid Bergman and Jennifer Jones because David Selznick says he will probably not do "Joan Of Arc" with Jennifer.

That leaves the field clear for Ingrid who will start her picture with Walter Wanger and Victor Fleming as soon as she leaves Broadway. Ingrid made "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" with Vic and she is delighted he is to be her director again.

Gabriel Pascal has such a heavy schedule outlined of Shaw's plays that his plan to make "St. Joan" with Vivien Leigh seems a little remote, too.

"Ballad and the Source" and all future Wanger productions will be made at the Roach Studios.

Remind me not to get in any more star-studio battles Here comes Republic now with a statement saying that Constance Moore was offered an amicable settlement and that negotiations with her were started before they knew she was expecting a baby.

William Saul, speaking for the studio, said that Constance had asked for six months' leave of absence to do a Broadway play before they knew she was awaiting motherhood.

Well, all I know is what Connie says, that there was nothing said about her leaving Republic until they found out she would have to take time off to await the arrival of her baby.

There isn't a word of truth in the report, printed and aired, that Sigrid Gurie and her husband, Dr. Lawrence Spangard, are separated. He couldn't have been more upset than he was when he telephoned asking me to correct the story—not circulated here, by the way.

"Sigrid was in Norway a long time making a documentary film," Dr. Spangard said, "and I have been in poor health for five years. But we have had no trouble—other than being very upset over this groundless gossip."

Chatter in Hollywood: The rumors have been flying fast and thick that Sally Eilers is about to take a fourth bridegroom, wealthy Irving Florsheim of Chicago.

Yesterday a telephone call to Sally, who is visiting at the Florsheim home in Palm Springs with her son, Harry Joe Brown, Jr., brought this information.

"I have no intention of marrying again. I'm very fond of Mr. Florsheim and think he's a fine man, but don't you think I've had enough marriages?"

Sally was first married to Hoot Gibson, then Harry Joe Brown, and during the war to Howard Barney from whom she recently obtained a Mexican divorce.

Significant and important, I think, is the fact that out of five best pictures one English picture, "Henry Vth" was chosen. Out of five best performances by an actor, British Laurence Olivier, and out of the five best performances by an actress, Celia Johnson, also British, were chosen and deservedly.

We can't, with this overwhelming proof, underestimate the improvement and growing excellence of English pictures. However, I think, England's face must be a little red at American generosity in awarding these honors after the fight to keep our American pictures out of English theaters.

On the whole, I think, the awards are well chosen in both pictures and stars. I am very proud of Jane Wyman, who actually started her career with me when she went on a personal appearance tour. Rosalind Russell certainly deserves nomination; so does Olivia De Havilland, and Jennifer Jones is always a fine actress.

The men, too, are well chosen. Gregory Peck, James Stewart, Fredric March, Larry Parks. I would like to have seen Tyrone Power in the lineup. I thought he was wonderful in "Razor's Edge."

That bad, bad tempered man James Mason is again in a race. Jacque Duval, author of "Batheba," Mason's stage play, put Mrs. Duval in a small part. For some reason, Mason hit the ceiling and refused to go on until Mrs. Duval, who's known on the screen as Barbara Brooks, left the cast.

How ornery can you get?

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Helena Carter, red-haired lovely who last week was engaged to Marry Johnny McClain, has transferred her affections to Rod Cameron.

Elsa Maxwell arrives Washington's birthday to visit Virginia and Darryl Zanuck. She's going to Palm Springs and will finish her book while here.

Buddy Rogers has been very sick with a cold and away from the studio.

Cary Grant couldn't have been nicer at Santa Anita when enthusiastic autograph hounds bombarded him. He gave his signature in spite of his saying he never, never would. Maybe he tuned in on my interview with Deanna Durbin when she said she loved the little pests and was grateful to them.

From Miami comes word that the Ritz Brothers' opening at the Copacabana had all the biggies in both the social and entertainment world on hand. Among those who greeted the comedy trio were Liz Whitney, Danny Kaye, the Robert Mitchums, Martha Stewart and Joe E. Lewis, Harry Richmond, the Winthrop Garners and scores of others.

Jack Dempsey at the Mocambo with Lina Romay, pretty MGM singer. He has known her for seven years and was a friend of her father.

It was a knockout of a party Jack gave last week for his old prize fight pals. Grantland Rice, sports writer, was there with Mrs. Rice and Florence. "Gus" Normile, who managed Dempsey when he was champ, playwright Charles MacArthur, Dave Chasen, Joe Benjamin were among those who accepted Jack's invite. Estelle Taylor, looking very glamorous, and Jack's two lovely daughters with Mr. and Mrs. Gene Fowler received the guests.

Was that a battle Rita Hayworth and her spouse were having Saturday night in a restaurant? Rita did not look happy.

Here's a nice note. Charles Correll, Andy of Amos and Andy, entertained Boy Scouts and Cubs of Pack 17 on Sunday at his home. Charlie's two sons, Charles Jr., and Baby Jack, were made honorary Cubs.

That's all today.

Ours Gets 21 Points; Catamounts Cop 9th

By JOHN L. BORCHERT

North met South last night and it was the same old story, the Yankees won; as the Potomac State Catamounts rolled to their third consecutive victory with a 69-52 win over the Shenandoah College quintet before 400 spectators in the Potomac State College Field House.

Three players, Dallas Ours, Mike Yewcic and Bob Lefever can be credited with shoving the Loughmen over the "500" mark for the first time since early December. Ours got the points, Yewcic directed the team, and Lefever pulled the Cats out of almost every tight spot that they were in during the first three periods with his timely baskets. Yewcic only garnered six points last night but on no less than six occasions he fed the ball to fellow teammates under the basket when he might have scored the points himself. Ours continued to improve, scoring 21 points for a total of 81 in six contests since joining the varsity squad.

Sims Breaks Deadlock

Shenandoah started fast, running up a 10-6 lead before the Hilltoppers closed in. With the score deadlocked at 10-all, Kenny Sims dropped in a point from the 15 foot mark and followed that seconds later with a basket to put the Loughmen in front to stay. The Cats led 20-15 at the quarter.

As the second quarter got under way Bill Adamson moved under the hoop for a lay-up goal to close the Cat margin to three points (20-17) but Bob Lefever sandwiched baskets around Ours's charity toss to move the count to 25-17 P.S. With five minutes left in the half, the Virginians moved up again as Lindy Kiser's basket and foul conversion made the score 27-24, Cats. A gift toss by Mike Yewcic and fielders by Neal Baisi and Lefever pushed the Hilltopper lead to eight points (32-24) and the Loughmen left the floor at halftime with a 34-27 margin.

The Hilltoppers began to weave through the Rebel defense as the second half got underway. Lefever and Ours opened with rebound push-in baskets to make the score 38-27. P. S. "Red" Sayer drove in from the side to slice the net with a one-handed shot for the Southerners but Ours and Sims slipped lay-up shots through the rim and Potomac State was on its way. The Loughmen held a 52-40 lead as the final period began.

The closest that the Virginians got in the final period was ten points when Kersh opened the stanza with a fielder from in front of the basket. After that Potomac State rolled the score to 63-46 before Lough sent his regulars off the court for a much deserved shower. Coming into the game for the first time since January 24, was big Ed Burns; who has been on the injured list with an infected foot. Burns played three minutes and during that time the Rebels got only one rebound under their own basket.

Cats Win Ninth

It was the ninth win in seventeen starts for Potomac State and Shenandoah's second straight loss, giving them a season's record of eight and seven. The Rebels had a seven game streak snapped Tuesday night at Salem by the Tigers. Dallas Ours paced the Cats with 21-points while "Fuzz" Bowers had 16 and Lindy Hersh 14 points for Shenandoah.

SPORTS TRAIL

NEW YORK, Feb. 12—(AP)—Herb Pennock, general manager of the Phils, views with alarm the movie-actor salaries which some of the star baseball players will draw this year, and just as a kibitzer we are inclined to share his view.

The ball players naturally see only mansions and streets paved with gold, but Pennock can see only slums which the club owners will be occupying if the trend toward huge paychecks continues. We don't think it would be quite that bad, but some of the magnates might get down to their last yacht.

Pennock's theory is logical. He figures that if a club has a bad year at the gate it will lose money through the fat contracts the players have. And inasmuch as a player can't be cut more than 25 percent from one year to the next, the big-money boys will continue to collect big money even if their performance falls below zero and they no longer are drawing cards.

Oddly enough the magnates can blame nobody but themselves for becoming ensnarled in this financial mess. They had no rival major leagues forcing their hand, as the All-American Football Conference forced the hand of the National Football League. Baseball still has its monopoly, and a player plays for the team he is told to play for and for the salary the club agrees to play, or else.

The whopping attendance of last year, leaving the impression the clubs would have to use gold bricks instead of lime to line the field to get rid of some of their surplus wealth probably had something to do with the players' ideas they were worth a lot more money this year. The stories of the fabulous wages the Pasquels of Mexico were ready to pay also might have had something to do with the desire to keep the athletes happy.

We recall that a few years ago after Bobo Newsom had helped pitch the Detroit Tigers to a pennant there developed some sort of kiddish argument between the Cleveland Indians and the Tigers as to whether Bob Feller or Newsom had been paid the highest wage for the year's work. Not that it made any difference, but to the paymasters involved there probably would be some satisfaction in the fact they were the most generous in rewarding their stars.

We don't know just why the owners decline to come right out and say how much a player will get when they obviously are quite proud of paying that kind of money. Maybe if one did, however, another owner would pay a thousand dollars or so more to his particular star. As it is, it's all left to speculation.

Anyway, Pennock's fears might as well be founded. The star boarders might eat the family out of house and home.

Oma Flattened By Pat Comisky In Seventh Heat

New Jersey Heavy Registers Upset

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Feb. 12 (AP) — Pat Comisky, with a 27-pound eight advantage, punched himself a ticket back in the big time tonight by knocking out the odds-on favorite, Lee Oma of Detroit, in 1:52 of the seventh round of their ten round feature.

Comisky weighed 220; Oma 193.

Comisky, credited with a kayo over Johnny Haynes in Los Angeles since being discharged from service, started slowly then tossed his weight into the later rounds.

In the seventh he brushed aside the left jabs with which Oma had been shapshooting and caught the Detroiter with a smacking left hook in the solar plexus.

Oma hit the canvas, struggled to get up, but took the count.

Piedmont Lions Play Ridgeley

Broken Basket Keeps Interstaters Idle

Ridgeley High School's Blackhawks have an engagement with Coach "Huck" Miers' Piedmont High School Lions tonight on the Ridgeley High court at 8 o'clock.

It will be the final game of the series between the schools, Ridgeley having won the opener in Piedmont on February 6 by the score of 32-31.

Two other Potomac Valley Conference games are on tap tonight, Elk Garden being scheduled to play Fort Ashby on the latter's court while Thomas will invade Davis in a battle between Tucker county quints. Thomas defeated Davis, 54-34 on January 10.

Last night's Interstate League game scheduled for SS. Peter and Paul court was postponed because one of the broken baskets was being welded. It was reported that the beating taken by the baskets in recent games, during LaSalle's spurt and the Amvets' long winning streak, including the Sunday game in which 144 points were scoring, caused the baskets to crack at the seams and require repairs. The "basket breakdown" kept the K. of C. and Fulton Myers Post idle last night.

Tonight's double header, started at 8 o'clock, will bring together the Moose and Amvets, Gerard officiating, and the Lonaconing Legion and Cumberland Legion, with Koegel and Thompson as the referees. The winner of the game between the Legion teams will take undisputed possession of first place.

"Spike" Herboldsheimer will referee tonight's league game at Paw Paw between the Paw Paw Legion and Mt. Savage VFW.

Western Maryland Cons Overtime Battle, 57-56

WESTMINSTER, Md., Feb. 12—(AP)—A fighting Western Maryland basketball team scored 18 straight points tonight to defeat Washington College 57-56 in a Mason-Dixon Conference basketball contest which went into an overtime period.

With seven minutes of the regulation game to go, Western Maryland was trailing 50-39. The Terrors kept plugging away at the Washington College basket and just two seconds before the whistle ending the second half, forward Walt Sibiski dumped in a field goal that tied the game at 50-all.

Porter Thru As Amateur — Koegel Remembers Night

Zembower Sets Example — "Wib" Lichliter Drops In

By C. V. BURNS

Bobby Porter, the "hard rock" of Cumberland's fistic colony, has fought his last match here as a simon pure.

Dr. Arthur W. Jones, AAU physician, has requested that Porter hang up the gloves and refrain from participation in future bouts for his own welfare.

"Porter has taken too many beatings and it's time for him to call it quits," Dr. Jones declared. "He's still a young man and there's no sense seeing him go punchy as a result of ring trouncings."

Dr. Jones, who examines boxers for all shows here, and witnesses the matches, is in a good position to determine whether a boxer has had enough. His action will be upheld by the local boxing commissioner and matchmakers will be governed accordingly.

The local physician saw Porter lose via a technical knockout in the third round of the recent SCAC show after he was whipped by the same boy three weeks earlier in the PBC show. Jimmie Catanese ended Porter's ring career which comprised 15 bouts in less than two years. The courageous southpaw lightweight had won only three and lost twelve.

He was stopped by Walter Basilio and Catanese in three rounds and lost decisions to Mike Leslie, Claude Kimmell, Vance Sinclair and Billy Hines, of Morgantown, Teddy Metzgar, of Portage, Pa., Tommy Dunn, Jack Klosterman, Jack Santley, of Johnstown, Pa., Walter Fillmaniv, Central City, Pa., and Catanese.

Porter's wins were registered over Jimmie Williams, Edgar Tucker and Jack Jones.

When the Amvets reeled off 24 consecutive points against the Oklahoma Indians here last Sunday it brought back memories of the great Allegany High team of 1933—Bill Findlay, Paul Twigg, Charley "Snap" Morris, Eddie Diehl and Herman Koegel—the night it crushed Bethesda-Chevy Chase in a state tournament game in Hagerstown, 44-20.

Allegany rolled up a 23-0 lead at the half against the highly touted Montgomery county team whose personnel included a son of the late Walter Johnson.

Koegel happened to be umpire last Sunday when the Amvets routed the poor Indians, 97-47, and during intermission after the locals had rolled up a 59-19 score we asked Herman if he remembered that wild scoring spree put on by AHS 14 years ago.

"Well do I remember that game," Koegel reminisced. "I'll never forget Arthur Brant's wisecrack that threw the crowd into convulsions of laughter. As the teams walked off the floor at halftime Brant braced himself against the railing in the gallery and bellowed:

"For goodness sakes, will one of you Allegany players please show those poor boys from Bethesda what those hoops are for!"

Coach "Bobby" Cavanaugh had to revive Bob Pence with smelling salts after Sunday's game when one of the Indians remarked:

"We can beat you fellows anytime by 15 or 20 points."

That's what lousy teams usually say when they go to the box office to collect the guarantee.

When Keyser High School defeated Davis in Keyser on Tuesday night it was the Golden Tornado's 69th victory under Coach Fred "Tack" Clark, who is rounding out his fourth season there as cage mentor. His teams have dropped 12 games. The average of 85 per cent compiled by Clark's teams doesn't include tournament contests.

A baseball fan writes:

"Here is a bit of news I thought might interest you. It's about a pal of mine who would serve as an example for other wounded veterans of this section.

"I'm speaking of Richard L. "Dick" Zembower, right-handed fireball ace of last year's Cumberland F. O. Eagles team.

"Seriously wounded in action by shrapnel while serving with the infantry overseas, the big fellow had the bones of his right hand shattered when a piece of shrapnel went all the way through. In addition he suffered three leg wounds.

"With his arm in a cast for six months and seven additional months of exercising to loosen and strengthen the wounded ligaments and muscles he refused to give up and came back to take his place as one of the best pitchers in this section. He practically pitched and batted the F. O. E. into the Interstate League playoffs, he was one of the most dangerous hitters in the league and when playing the outfield base runners feared his battle-scarred accurate throwing right arm.

"Rumor hit it that he may return to his old home town in 1947—the Centerville (Pa.) Reds, who are now in the Interstate League.

Hot Pole, the four-year-old filly, owned by Police Commissioner and Mrs. William V. Keegan, is now resting at the A. D. Jones Farm at Charles Town, W. Va., until the races get under way in the spring.

The Keegan breadwinner was originally slated to go to the Sunshine Park meeting at Tampa, Fla., but she came out of the winter meeting at Charles Town with what is known as a windpuff in the ankle. Both ankles have been "blistered" and Hot Pole will be ready for the races in a few more months.

Wilbur "Wib" Lichliter, one-time Salisbury (Pa.) basketball flash, dropped in to say hello the other evening.

Older basketball fans will remember "Wib" and Dave "Pickles" Lichliter, who played on the formidable Salisbury High School basketball teams of 1923, 1924 and 1925. After the brothers graduated from high school they played with the Salisburg Cardinals, a classy independent team, whose personnel included Charley "Rip" Engle, now cage and grid mentor at Brown University; Johnny Dunn, "Babe" Robinson and Carl Swarzwelder.

Dave Lichliter, who grabbed the basketball spotlight later while playing for American University, Washington, D. C., has been coaching cage and football teams at Boswell (Pa.) High School for the past 16 years.

Salisbury High, which ruled the roost in the days Barton was the top team in Allegany county, is more famous today for its 60-piece band which has appeared in parades here on a number of occasions. There's no basketball team because the school does not have a gymnasium.

"Wib" is now district manager of the Mutual Life Insurance Company with offices at Somerset, Pa., but he still makes his home at Salisbury.

His wife underwent a serious operation at Memorial Hospital recently and is reported to be getting along nicely. Mrs. Lichliter was Elizabeth Lichty, of Salisbury. "Wib" has been staying with a relative in LaVale while his wife is hospitalized.

Newspaper Compares Buffalo Hunt With St. Valentine's Day Massacre

Archery Event Brings Flood Pro-Con Mail

By BEN FUNK

RAWLINS, Wyo., Feb. 12 (AP)—As archers from seven states assembled today for Wyoming's first one-shot buffalo hunt, charges that the event would be "nothing short of murder" were made and denied in newspaper columns and on the air.

In Denver, the Post compared the hunt with the Chicago St. Valentine's day massacre and declared "the nice, gentle old buffaloes" would have no more chance for their lives than "Bugs" Moran's followers did when they were mowed down with tommy gun fire.

This brought a flood of pro-and-con mail from sports fans. Some agreed that it would be like "shooting fish in a rain barrel." Others argued that Wyoming Buffaloes are as wild as they were in Bill Cody's day and that the archers would "take their lives in their hands."

Some fifty bowmen from Colorado, California, Montana, Oregon, Washington, Wisconsin and Wyoming will take part in the hunt on the 200,000-acre Isadore Bolten Ranch southwest of here. Using 60-pound bows and standard broadhead arrows, they will kill three bulls culled from Bolten's herd.

Cowboys will maneuver the bulls into position in a valley and the hunters will line up at a distance of 75 yards for the shoot beginning at 10 a. m. Friday. Each will take one shot until the animals are brought down. If a bull breaks, the archers may fire at will until he is slain.

The Post ridiculed the event with a series of cartoons in which the buffalo are pictured as tamer than those on a nickel.

Frostburg Fans Will See Movies Of World Series

Theater Is Donated For Saturday Show

A public showing of the movie entitled "The World Series of 1946 and The All-Star Game" will be given under the sponsorship of Farrady Post No. 24, American Legion, at the Lyric Theater, Frostburg, Saturday at 2:30 p. m., it was announced last night by William H. Lemmert, post athletic officer.

William Spates, manager, has donated the use of the theater.

Arrangements for the showing of the movie in Frostburg were made yesterday by Lemmert and Clifton Van Roby, physical director of the Central YMCA, who has charge of the film which was shown twice last night in the "Y" lobby and was viewed by approximately 300 persons.

The "World Series of 1946" written and directed by Lew Fonseca, of the promotional department of the major leagues, is a three-reel sound-on-film movie, running 30 minutes. The film also includes shots from the 1946 all-star game in which the American murdered the National leaguers.

Approximately 500 prints of the 1946 world series will be in circulation this year. In addition 76 prints are being circulated to the Army of Occupation abroad.

The films show all the batting and scoring highlights of the seven games of the 1946 series and bring out the fact that Enos Slaughter, who scored the winning run for the Cards over the Red Sox in the eighth inning of the final game, went all the way from first to home on Harry Walker's double—on his own. The shot of this play is taken from the screen behind the catcher and isn't too clear but it does indicate that the third base coach gave no signal either way.

The plays are narrated by Bob Elson, well known Chicago radio sports broadcaster.

Before the film goes to Frostburg it will be shown at the YMCA "Rec" Club program tomorrow and the YMCA boys' program Saturday morning. After the Frostburg showing the film will be sent to Fredonia, N. Y., Roby said.

Navy Quint Stops West Virginia, 57-55

"Mighty Mites" Snap Mounties' 12-Game String

Technical Goal Is Margin Of Victory

By A. WHITNEY SHOEMAKER

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 12—(AP)—West Virginia's powerhouse basketball squad was dumped from the undefeated ranks today, 57-55, by a smart little Navy team which kept the Mountaineers off balance most of the time.

Only Duquesne remains as a major undefeated team.

The two points which sent the West Virginians to defeat could have been a technical field goal scored in the first two minutes of the second half.

Nervous At Foul Line

Largely, however, the Mountaineers' nervousness at the foul line kept them from breaking the Navy jinx. West Virginia completed 17 of 28 fouls, while Navy put through 13 of 17.

The technical goal went to the Middies when Captain Ken Shugart pitched for the basket and Center Eddie Beach of West Virginia touched the ring.

Officials ruled the goal should not be scored to any individual player, although Coach Ben Carnevale of the Navy contended it should go to Shugart's credit. At the end of the game, the scorers still were ruling the goal belonged to no one in particular.

Otherwise the flashy Middie captain and West Virginia's lanky forward, Fred Schaus, were exactly even on their scoring at 18-all.

The Mountaineers, fresh from a decision over Pitt last Saturday, seemed nervous, especially during the first half when Navy led most of the way and held a 30-28 advantage at halftime.

The decision on the technical goal caused some discussion around the scoring bench but Referee Clifford T. Anderson and Umpire Leroy P. Lewis were unanimous in their ruling that credit went to no one.

It could not be found in the rule books, however, and they announced their intention of doing some further searching.

A crowd of 5,000, many of whom had to stand, jammed into Dahlgren Hall to see the battle of West Virginia six-footers and Navy's "Mighty Mites."

Middies Carry Coach

Carnevale, saying that "I knew we would win all the time," was carried from the floor after the game by shouting Middies.

Coach Lee Patton of the Mountaineers in silence walked off the floor with his squad, too downcast to comment.

The game was billed as the east's "battle of the week" and in the opinion of the spectators it definitely ranked as that. Last year the Navy ruined the West Virginia hopes for an undefeated season, 50-45.

Athletic Director Roy M. Hawley of West Virginia University termed it the toughest battle he had seen this season.

Making a comeback in the second half, the West Virginia team seemed for a time to have found itself and began free-wheeling around the court.

With four minutes to go, West Virginia led 54 to 51 but a minute later Navy had it 55-54. The Mountaineers scored their last point on a foul and with a minute and a half to go, John (Wheel) Barrow of the Middies tossed in a field goal to win the game.

After they went behind, the Mountaineers on three occasions chose to take the ball out instead of pitch for fouls, but in each instance they failed to gain anything.

Buzfuz Captures Hialeah Feature

Seminole Handicap Winner Gets $8,775

HIALEAH, Fla., Feb. 12 (AP) — Buzfuz, a $2,000 purchase for Miami Attorney Dan Chappell, ran his earnings to $129,210 when he led home his stablemate, Lets Dance, and five other veterans in the $12,000 Seminole Handicap here today.

One of the largest crowds of the season saw the five year old gelding which Chappell acquired before the bay son of Zacaweista went to the races as a three year old, speed the seven furlongs in the fast time of 1:23 1-5 under 124 pounds and take the $8,775 first money by three lengths. Lets Dance was second by four lengths over Gustave Ring's Lord Grillo, with the sluggish Eternal Reward fourth.

It was Buzfuz's 44th start and his 15th triumph. Only last January, he and Lets Dance flew to Santa Anita, where Lets Dance won the $50,000 added San Pasqual Handicap. They returned by plane, and each was second in his last outing here, Lets Dance behind Armed and the Buzzer in the wake of Tarpan.

Today's attendance was 20,083, one of the meeting's biggest crowds.

Virginia, Wisconsin Teams Clash Friday

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 12, (AP) — A University of Wisconsin boxing squad built around three former National Collegiate Athletic Association champions squares off Friday night against the Cavaliers of Virginia, alredy winners of five straight dual matches this year.

Loaded with 11 lettermen in all, Coach Johnny Walsh's Badgers will be going after their second straight unbeaten season and their eighth in 15 years of collegiate boxing as they open a seven-meet campaign. In addition they'll be host to the N.C.A.A. championships for the third time March 27-29.

The Badgers, in 83 dual matches since the sport was started here in 1933, have won 70 and been beaten by only four collegiate opponents—Penn State, Syracuse, Louisiana State and Washington State. Three service teams took dual decisions during the war years. Six matches ended in ties.

Cliff Lutz, who won N.C.A.A. titles at 145 and 155 pounds in 1942 and 1943, tops the Badger ring rosfor this year. An outstanding strategist, he'll fight at 145 pounds.

Virginia's Cavaliers won their fifth straight dual match of the year last night from Michigan State and will fight before a capacity house of about 13,000 Friday.

TRIPPI WILL PLAY WITH ATLANTA CLUB

ATLANTA, Feb. 12 (AP)—Charley Trippi, star athlete at the University of Georgia, completed his professional plans today in signing to play baseball with Atlanta of the Southern Association, a Class AA loop.

Early last month the Pittston, Pa., army veteran signed a $100,000 contract to play football with the Chicago Cardinals of the National League. Trippi made All-America on last year's college eleven, and made the All-America all-service team in 1944 while playing with the third air force eleven.

Terms of Trippi's contract with the Crackers were not disclosed, but realiable sources have repeatedly indicated it would be in the neighborhood of a $10,000 bonus and $400 per month.

SILK TIES
are back to influence your Valentine!
A year ago silk ties were as scarce as hen's teeth. Those you might have found were so expensive only a movie star could afford them. Now, it's another story. We've managed to obtain a great group of pure dye silk ties . . . at a price that will allow you to buy them by the half-dozen if you like! The patterns are varied . . . bright, dark, small designs, bold patterns. Choose several now for your special Valentine.

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors who were so kind and thoughtful during the illness and following the death of our beloved husband and Father, Charles W. Cross. We also wish to thank Rhine who sent floral tributes, Rev. Richard Bready, the choir of the Elliott Memorial Church, and those who loaned cars for the funeral.

In Memoriam

In loving remembrance of our beloved wife and Mother, Vallie Virginia Burke, who entered into Eternal Rest, 5 years ago today, Feb. 13, 1942.

In the book of life there are pages
Filled with memories fond and true,
And of those most dear through the ages
Are the beautiful memories of you.
The years may wipe out many things,
But this they wipe out never,
The memory of those happy days
When we were all together.

Devotedly,
SAMUEL T. BURKE & CHILDREN
2-13-1t

In loving memory of Frank Muletz, who died February 13, 1946.

He departed from us today a year,
Our loving father and husband so dear,
May he rest in peace as the years go on
And be ever happy in his home beyond.

Sadly missed by
WIFE and CHILDREN

Dramatic Series Out Of Hollywood Starts Tonight

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Feb. 12—Out of Hollywood comes another dramatic series at 10 o'clock Thursday night. It will go via MBS, using movie talent and original stories by radio and film writers.

For the opener there will be Loretta Young, James Stewart and Don Ameche to do the lead acting in "Flight From Home." In view of the appearance of this series, "I Was a Convict" is moving to 10:30, the time it once occupied.

Agnes Moore, whose one-woman portrayal of "Sorry, Wrong Number," brought her back to the air several times, again is to appear as guest of the CBS Suspense at 8. This time she will have the lead in "The Thirteenth Sound," a different type of murder story.

"What's wrong with American Marriages?" is to be asked in America's Town meeting over ABC at 8:30. A panel four will be made up of Playwright Moss Hart, Psychologist Dr. Evelyn Duvall, Dr. Edward A. Strecker of the U. of Pennsylvania and Dr. John Haynes Holmes, minister.

The District Attorney, getting away from hunting criminals, is going to hunt something else when he guests with Eddie Foy and Eddy Duchin on NBC at 9. It could be comedy . . . Prof. Quiz is to do his quizzing at the Florida state fair grounds in Tampa, for ABC at 7:30.

Fey Would Make Lincoln's Birthday A Legal Holiday

Delegates To Consider Tax Exemptions Today

Delegate John T. Fey, Allegany County, joined with two other members of the House of Delegates yesterday in introducing a bill to have Lincoln's birthday made a legal holiday in Maryland.

The bill, introduced in Lincoln's birthday, was referred to the Judiciary Committee.

Fey, a Republican, joined with Delegate Jerome Robinson, a Democrat from Baltimore's Fourth District, and Delegate Anders R. Lofstrand, Republican from Montgomery County, in introducing the measure, similar to ones proposed but defeated at previous sessions of the Legislature.

Speaks On Lincoln

Fey took advantage of the occasion to speak in veneration of Lincoln, recognized as the Republican party's first great national leader, on the floor of the House.

Last night Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., chairman of the Allegany County delegation, said the delegation will consider at a meeting today action it will take on tax exemption measures proposed in the Senate by Senator Robert B. Kimble.

The delegation Tuesday conducted a public hearing on one of these measures which would annul existing tax exemptions on industries that have been located in the county for 20 years.

Representatives of the Celanese Corporation of America, the Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company and the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company spoke against the measure, saying annulment would be a breach of existing contracts.

Labor representatives, however, favored the proposal on grounds that it would ease the tax burden on individuals.

Whitworth also disclosed last night that the Ways and Means Committee of the House, of which he is a member, virtually killed the soldiers' bonus bill.

Gets Unfavorable Report

The bill, which would provide a maximum payment of $300 to veterans, received an unfavorable report in committee and will be held in committee rather than being reported out, Whitworth said, adding that this is tantamount to killing the measure.

The committee learned that the American Legion opposes the bill, Whitworth stated, and pointed out that passage of the bill would mean increasing the tax rate 27½ cents in order to pay the bonus which would cost $100,000,000.

Whitworth explained that this does not mean all veterans' legislation is being killed.

Leroy Pumphrey (D-Prince Georges), majority floor leader in the House and chairman of the committee, informed the committee, Whitworth said, that Gov. William Preston Lane, Jr., is naming a committee to study legislation for veterans with the purpose of co-ordinating it.

This committee, the local delegate said, will recommend legislation covering all veterans' affairs and develop a veterans' legislative program.

74 Elks Initiated At Bedford, Pa.

Seventy-four new members of Bedford Lodge No. 1707, B. P. O. Elks, were initiated last night by the degree team of Cumberland Lodge No. 63.

In addition to the Cumberland Lodge's degree team conducting the initiation, its glee club sang several selections at the ceremony, held in the auditorium of Bedford High School and attended by 175 Elks besides the new members.

Attending the dance that followed the initiation were 125 Cumberland Elks and their wives, who traveled to Bedford in three buses. The dance was held at the Aranoale Hotel, operated by the Bedford Elks Lodge, from 9:30 to 2 a. m.

Officers of the Bedford lodge entertained officers of the Cumberland lodge at dinner at the hotel prior to the initiation.

Members of the Cumberland degree team were Exalted Ruler Michael F. O'Neill, John P. Moffatt, Jr., Marcellus Mullan, Robert B. Walker, Walter E. Chaney, James E. Yarnall, E. Philip Jolley, Thomas B. Finan and Edgar A. Dashiell.

The Bedford lodge was organized last June with four members and now has grown to a membership of about 175. Edwin A. Davidson is exalted ruler.

Proposed Program On Recreation To Be Given Tonight

A proposed program for the newly organized Civic Recreation Committee, stressing the development of facilities at Constitution Park, will be presented to the full committee at a regular meeting tonight at 8:30 at the home of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, according to Edgar M. Lewis, chairman.

Lewis recalled that at an informal conference with Mayor Thomas S Post and Commissioner Myers G. Light last week, the proposed program was outlined by committee representatives, and that Mayor Post and Light requested that it be presented to the council if it is approved by the full committee tonight.

One of the suggestions is that an eight or 10-man board, representing different sections of the city, be appointed to co-ordinate the work of all the sponsoring clubs, so that a competitive field of league sports can be built up.

All outdoor sports and other activities such as band concerts, amateur and minstrel shows, outdoor movies, pet shows, water carnivals, model plane contests and soap box derbies will be suggested in the program, Lewis said.

Present sponsoring clubs include the Optimist Club, the Police Boys Club, the South End Boys Club, the Knights of Columbus, the South End Athletic Club, the Amvets, the Jr. OUAM Boys Club, the American Legion, Sons of the Legion and the Tiger Athletic Club.

All groups sponsoring boys' work are invited to attend tonight's meeting.

C. A. Gloyd Loses Suit For $25,000 Against B. And O.

Fails To Prove Negligent Act

A $25,000 damage suit filed in Circuit Court against the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad by a former employe ended yesterday when Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge George Henderson instructed the jury to return a verdict in favor of the defendant since negligence had not been proven.

Says Steel Was In Eye

Charles A. Gloyd, the plaintiff, testified that he lost the sight of his right eye when a piece of steel broke off a tamping pick and struck him in the eye while he was working on company track. He said he rubbed his eye and the splinter came out on his hand.

Later the eye began to bother him, the plaintiff said, and he consulted a Cumberland physician, who at first tried to save the right, but later had to remove the eye.

During cross examination, most of the questions were confined to a statement that Gloyd allegedly made before filing the suit. The defense declared that he "told interested persons" that a "wild hair" got into his eye and injured his sight. Gloyd denied making the statement.

The suit was filed by Edward J. Ryan and William L. Wilson, Jr., and sought to prove that the company was negligent in furnishing imperfect tools for employes to use.

Judge Henderson said that the suit was filed under the Federal Employment Lability Act, and as such differed from the usual suit filed under the Maryland Compensation Act, since negligence must be proven.

Physician Testifies

In answer to a question by Ryan the physician who treated Gloyd said the eye trouble could have been caused by the piece of steel. A moment later, in reply to a question by defense counsel, he said the trouble could have been caused by "nothing at all in the eye."

Following the verdict, the jury was ordered paid and released from duty.

Ryan also docketed a $1,5000 damage suit for George Bolyard, against George Babb, who trades as Babb Motor Sales Company, on Wineow street.

The suit charged that the motor car dealer sold Bolyard a vehicle by "defraud and misrepresentation." In the bill, Bolyard stated that he went to the Wineow street place on January 27 where he made arrangements to pay $3,000 for a vehicle, that he later discovered was actually priced at $1,974.

Gross Files Appeal For Hardware Store

Walter Gross filed an appeal to the Board of Zoning Appeals yesterday for a permit to use the first story of a two-story building at 251 Henderson Avenue, as a retail hardware store. The building, now occupied as a residence, is located in a Residential C zoning district.

The structure, which now measures 44 by 24 feet, will be increased to 96 feet in length, and the foundation of the addition will be built of concrete. Walls will be reconstructed with brick, and the new addition will have concerte block walls. The roof is of tin. Mrs. Leota Gross, 408 North Mechanic street, is the owner.

George V. Steiner, president of the Cumberland Cement and Supply Company, Harlem Place, secured a permit in the city engineer's office to construct an office building for the company's ready-mixed concrete business at 15 Cumberland Street on property leased from the Western Maryland Railway Company.

The building, one story high, will be 12 by 15 feet, with walls of asbestos siding over a metal framework, and a metal roof. Work, to be done by the company, is estimated to cost $300.

A building permit was granted to John B. McFarland, Jr., 507 Pine Avenue, to construct a three-car garage at 503 Pine avenue about 20 feet back from the street. The one-story building, which will measure 30 by 40 feet, will have a concrete block foundation and walls and a ruberoid roof. Work will cost $2,000.

Delegation To Ask Mayor, Council For 5-Man Recreation Board Monday

Another delegation of representative citizens is expected to appear at the meeting of the Mayor and Council Monday to renew appeals for action on an ordinance to appoint a five-man recreation board.

Mrs. Gilbert M. Miller, social studies chairman of the Cumberland Branch of the American Association of University Women, asked those who expressed opinions at a meeting on recreation sponsored by the AAUW last night to appear Monday to restate their views.

Mrs. Miller, who presided at the meeting in City Hall auditorium, asked that suggestions on solving the city's recreation problems be mailed to her so that a basis for further action may be taken. Approximately 60 persons, representing various civic groups, were present. Mrs. John J. Hafer, AAUW opened the meeting.

Mayor Thomas S. Post pledged his wholehearted support of a recreation program for the city, but said the ordinance has been meeting with some opposition by council members. The ordinance has been tabled until February 24.

Outlines Baltimore Plan

Michael F. Kelley, Baltimore, the guest speaker, outlined an "area project" recreation plan which was put into effect in Baltimore in 1944. A typical section of the city, near Patterson Park, was selected and he was named to organize the community into groups working to develop all recreational facilities, including both indoor and outdoor sports, hobbies and arts and crafts.

At present Kelley, who was recreational director at the Maryland Training School for Boys for 13 years, is executive secretary of the Eastern Community Council, Incorporated, an organization set up in the eastern part of Baltimore to work with the city's Department of Public Recreation in providing expanded recreation facilities.

Recalling that Allegany county schools will close June 18, Kelly said that no time must be lost in preparing for a recreation program in Cumberland this summer.

In Baltimore, he said, training classes for playleaders are organized in March so that by summer they will be prepared to start work at the city's playgrounds. Each playground there has a trained leader and an assistant, Kelley said, stating that such leaders must be paid well enough so that other persons will be attracted into the work.

Other Suggestions Made

The church, school and home do not take up all of a child's time, leaving "gaps" which must be filled by recreation organizations, the speaker said. More playgrounds and the utilization of all possible recreation facilities would help to fill in those gaps and take children off street corners.

Dr. Samuel M. Jacobson suggested that a private athletic league be formed to organize its own recreation council, without depending upon action of the Mayor and Council. Each section of the city could raise its own funds through benefits, parties and the like, and with the assistance of the school board could get its own program underway. The established program could then be presented to city officials, he explained.

David Kauffman, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, stated that suggestions as to financing a recreation program should be submitted to the Mayor and Council. Fern Kenney of the East Side Improvement Association said that a concrete plan must be worked out for presentation to city officials.

Dr. Robert T. Kerlin stated that the first objective is the appointment of a recreation board, with community organizations submitting recommendations on the appointments to the Mayor and Council. This followed an earlier statement by Kelley that the board should be named before a paid recreation director is appointed.

Uptrend Is Noted In Total Claims For Compensation

GI Claimants Lead State Two To One

An uptrend in the number of claims for unemployment compensation was noted yesterday in the report prepared by Francis A. Kenney, manager of the local office of the Maryland Unemployment Compensation Division, for the month of January.

This trend, Kenney said, is unusual in that it occurs at a time when the claim load ordinarily declines rapidly.

A total of 2,663 state claims were paid in January while in December, 1945, the number of claims paid was down to 2,423.

GI Claims Increase

Likewise there was an increase noted in claims filed under the Servicemen's Readjustment Allowance Act with a total of 4,845 payments made in December and 5,921 payments made in January.

It was pointed out that GI claims are running two to one ahead of state claims.

At the Maryland State Unemployment Service office, Patrick J. Carroll, local manager, announced that 292 persons were placed in jobs during the month of January.

Of this number, 56 of the men placed were non-veterans, 111 were women and 125 were war veterans, Carroll said. The number of persons referred to jobs during the past month amounted to 532.

During the month, 10,123 office contacts were made, but Carroll said a part of this number is accounted for by some persons calling at the office more than one time.

575 New Applications

A total of 575 new applications for work were received and of this number 130 were non-veteran males, 174 were females and 271 were veterans.

Of the 2,894 persons actively registered for work 1,651 are war veterans,, 622 are male non- veterans and 621 are women.

Eleven of the 125 veterans placed in jobs are physically handicapped, Carroll stated.

Changes Proposed In Sanitary Bill

Several changes in the proposed enabling bill which would authorize the County Commissioners to set up sanitary districts in communities outside of Cumberland where there is need for improvement in water supplies and sewage disposal were suggested by a sub-committee at a meeting at the LaVale Fire Hall last night.

J. Milton Dick, chairman of the recently named county committee to study the proposed sanitary district, said that the changes are designed mainly to provide that the County Commissioners would have the last say on major expenditures of the proposed three-man commission which would govern the districts.

The suggestions will be submitted to a meeting of the full committee in Cresaptown February 19. If they are approved, the amended bill will be submitted to the County Commissioners for consideration at their meeting Friday, February 21.

Dick said that Mayor Marshall Skidmore and members of the Frostburg City Council, who attended the meeting, discussed the possibility of supplying water to Eckhart, Mt. Savage. Borden Shaft and Zihlman. Frostburg has just completed laying a pipeline to Eckhart, and lines to other communities might be laid if the sanitary districts are established, it was stated.

Dr. Ray Will Confer With Mayor Saturday

Dr. Joseph M. Ray, who notified Mayor Thomas S. Post several days ago that he has completed a preliminary report on his survey of Cumberland's municipal government, has requested an interview with Mayor Post Saturday morning to discuss recommendations made in the report, the mayor said yesterday.

Previously, the mayor had asked council members to be present at the conference, but Dr. Ray has indicated that he wants to present his recommendations directly to the mayor for his approval. Mayor Post said he will discuss the findings with the City Council at a later date.

Dr. Ray, who is head of the Department of Government and Politics of the College of Business and Public Administration, University of Maryland, began his study last October.

A special conference of the Mayor and Council on legislative measures for the city is scheduled for today at 10 a. m.

Washington, Lincoln Subject Of Address

The combination of humility and greatness was outstanding in two of America's greatest men, Washington and Lincoln, Prof. Lloyd H. Hinkle, superintendent of Bedford County, Pa. Schools, said yesterday in addressing the Optimist Club in Central YMCA.

Hinkle, pointing to the conditions under which Lincoln was born and the heights to which he rose, said everyone in America has an equal chance.

He said that both Lincoln and Washington, while they were great men, turned to God for help in time of trouble.

County Building Being Improved

Improvements to the second floor of the Union Street County building have been partly completed with the partitioning of one large room, formerly occupied by the ration board, into two offices, County Commissioner C. N. Wilkinson said yesterday.

One of the new offices will be occupied in the near future by the Officers Reserve Corps, and the Veterans Administration is considering occupying the other.

Both rooms will be ready for occupancy after they are painted.

A large number of folding benches, stored on the third floor of the Union Street building, were removed yesterday by representatives of the Assembly of God Church, Keyser, W. Va., which recently purchased them from the County Commissioners. The benches, still in excellent condition, are said to be at least 50 years old.

VA Offers Help To Veterans With Training Problems

Training Officer Is Stationed Here

More than 120 training officers of the Veterans Administration are stationed throughout Maryland, including the local contact office, to assist veterans with problems arising from their education or training and to insure adequate training and progress, according to W. A. Burns, officer in charge of the Cumberland contact office.

These VA representatives, trained to aid veterans in using their education, training and vocational rehabilitation benefits, serve as the liaison between ex-servicemen and women and the Veterans Administration, Burns said.

Training officers are located at VA guidance centers, the two subregional offices at Hagerstown and Cambridge, and several contact offices, including Cumberland.

This advisory and supervisory personnel, Burns said, is permanently stationed at the larger educational institutions in the state, while smaller schools are visited by training officers on a regular schedule depending upon the schools' requirements. Regular visits also are made to shops and establishments in which veterans are training.

Veterans in a training status were advised by the VA to familiarize themselves with the schedule of visits of their training officer and consult him on any problems such as reports of earnings, subsistence checks, etc.

At the same time Burns advised veterans to report promptly any change of address to the VA office or to the training officer, to secure prior approval of the VA before making any change in training course or place of training, and to call any delays in the receipt of subsistence checks to the attention of the training officer.

Personal counseling service also is being provided by the Veterans Administration to help ex-servicemen with personal problems which are interfering with their education, training or rehabilitation. Such counselors are located at the Hagerstown sub-regional VA office.

Smith Outlines Ways To Attract New Business Here

Business managers study a community before locating a business there, Harold W. Smith, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce told members of the Tri-State Traffic Club at its dinner meeting last night at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Managers who are looking for new locations are asking questions about schools, churches, recreational facilities and cultural advantages, Smith declared.

The community that expects to attract new business organizations must have a water supply, good labor relations, and a supply of labor in addition to those already employed.

The present Chamber of Commerce program is geared to the interests of all the people in the community and not for any one section, Smith asserted. It includes water improvements, flood control, conservation of natural resources, surveys for underlying minerals, and improved schools for a better informed public.

Leo H. Ley, traffic manager at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, stressed the necessity of conserving freight car equipment, especially box cars, saying that the Western roads do not have sufficient cars to move grain. The possibility is that the Office of Defense Transportation would be extended until July 1, because of the car shortage, he said.

Ley said 40,377 new freight cars and 536 locomotives have been put into service to replenish the badly worn equipment that was pressed into service during the war years.

Arrangements for the meeting were in charge of Clarence E. Gehr, president, and John L. Carnochan, secretary.

B'nai B'rith Will Oppose Religion In Public Schools

Call It Violation Of Americanism

Opposition to the proposal of incorporating religious education into the public school curriculum of third and fourth grade students, was voiced last night by members of Western Maryland Lodge No. 1507, B'nai B'rith, a local Jewish organization president, said.

The Board of Education after a recent meeting with members of Cumberland's Ministerial Association announced that it would take under advisement a program which would offer a voluntary class in religion to students of the two grades.

Kaplon said "religious education must be left to the church, synagogue and home. Any attempt to make religious education a part of the public school system violates (in our opinion) the American principles and tradition of the separation of the church and state.

Will Create Bias

"Religion cannot be taught in public schools without, sectarian bias, no matter how capable the instructor may be. Teaching religion in public schools will provoke dissention, axaggerate differences and excite intolerance."

Members of the Board of Education, however, admitted they were impressed by the manner in which the committee of ministers presented its proposal and promised that the association can be assured that the school board will give the matter "very careful study from the point of view of what is educationally sound in American Democracy."

The committee asked permission to include religious classes in third and fourth grades for one hour a week with the classes being purely voluntary with parents giving their consent for children to enroll in what would be an elective course. Teachers for the course would be furnished by the association with the guarantees that they will be carefully trained.

The committee also told the school board that Arch Bishop Curley, of the Baltimore-Washington Diocese of the Catholic Church, had informed it that in his opinion a plan to teach religious education in the public schools is sound and would be beneficial.

Taught In 5 Counties

Five Maryland counties have religious training in public schools at present. They are Harford, Prince George, Anne Arundel, Frederick, and Montgomery.

Superintendent Charles L. Kopp said he had no comment to make regarding the plan of the ministers and added he will wait for a further conference with the board.

Kaplon said a resolution adopted by the Jewish organization had been sent to the Board of Education explaining that the American Public School is a unifying force available to children of various backgrounds. It is in the public school, Kaplon said, that children of Catholic, Protestant and Jewish faiths study, play and work together and learn to respect each other.

However, if a certain group of children are compelled to remain away from the classes it would make them conspicuous and tend to make the children self-conscious, he declared.

P.E. Gets Rights On 12 Properties

The right of way on 12 properties in Allegany County was given the Potomac Edison Company according to deed filed yesterday in the land records office of the clerk of Circuit Court.

With the exception of one deed, all rights of way were purchased for $1 each. The exception was in Flintstone on property owned by Lillie B. Balderson, who received $10 and other considerations for the grant.

According to deeds the land rights were given for the purpose of constructing, operating and maintaining an electric line, including all necessary poles, anchors, wires and fixtures, over and along the property which the following persons own:

Herman Barnes, Green Ridge; Lestal Crafton, Mill Run; Harry Dicken, Valley Road; Woodrow Dolly, Mexico Farms; Mrs. Sylvia Hite, Baltimore Pike; Lester E. Sines, Warrier Run; Frank E. Smith, Cardinal Club; Michael Twigg, Mill Run, and off Mill Run Road; Alden E. Winters, Warrier Run, and Paul Winters, Warrier Run.

Deeds also indicated property transfers as follows:

David R. Merrill to Donald Cook, property in Lonaconing for consideration of about $300.

Charles F. Winner, to Mary Margaret Winner, property near Mt. Savage for consideration of $1 and other valuable goods.

James H. Evans and wife to William Robert Jockson and wife, property in Frostburg on Ormond Street, for consideration of about $8,000.

Two-Truck Collision Causes $600 Damage

A two-truck collision yesterday morning at 9 o'clock near the intersection of Route 40 and Cash Valley Road resulted in $600 damage to the two vehicles, State Police said, and reckless driving charges were placed against both drivers.

Trooper Thomas G. Barton, who investigated, said a truck driven by Leroy Deffinbaugh, Oldtown, passed a school bus and when he attempted to turn back into the traffic lane the truck collided with one driven by Jacob Miller, Cresaptown.

All three vehicles were headed east on Route 40, the trooper said, and Miller was attempting to turn off at Cash Valley Road, when the Deffinbaugh vehicle struck the left front and side of the truck.

Damage to Miller's truck was estimated at $400 and police said damage to Deffinbaugh's vehicle would amount to $200.

Both men were charged with reckless driving and will be given a hearing in Trial Magistrates Court this morning. Neither driver was injured.

U. N. ARMS COMMISSION APPROVED

"Balanced" Economy Is Senator's Goal

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Feb. 12—(AP)—Sen. Taft (R-Ohio), differing with some of his GOP colleagues on taxes and tariffs, tonight outlined a program to promote a "balanced" economy and called for a special Senate committee study of labor-management relations.

Taft, chairman of the Senate Labor Committee and the Senate Republican Policy Committee, expressed the hope that "we may create a special committee after the passage of our labor bill to study the whole problem of employer-employe relations and their effect on productivity."

The Ohioan spoke at a Lincoln Day dinner. Since his name has figured prominently in the presidential nomination speculation, his address is expected to receive close scrutiny by all political leaders.

Taft enumerated these points in his domestic program:

1—Reduce the tax burden "by a sum equal to 20 per cent of the personal income tax yield, or 3½ billion dollars. Cut the President's $37,500,000,000 budget by four or five billion dollars. Apply two or three billions to reduction of the national debt.

Some House Republicans, including Chairman Knutson (R-Minn), of the Ways and Means Committee, favor a 20 per cent slash for virtually all income tax payers.

Tariff Question

2—Delegate tariff-making to the Tariff Commission within "wide statutory limits," supplemented by reciprocal trade agreements "if the additional reductions made are found by the Tariff Commission not to violate the same standard."

The "standard" would be that no tariffs could be reduced "to such an extent as would do serious harm to American industry supplying a substantial part of the American demand for its product."

Taft opposed returning to congressional tariff-making with its "inevitable log-rolling," but his proposal differs from that of Sens. Vandenberg, of Michigan, and Millikin, of Colorado. They want the reciprocal program continued but with the President having authority to nullify any rate-reductions that proved harmful to domestic interests.

Taft said the "trouble with the present reciprocal agreements act is that it places complete discretion in the president to make any reductions without any standard whatsoever being prescribed x x x."

3—Rents. If rent control is continued, Taft said it must be adjusted to "give an adequate return to landlords on the money they have saved and invested in houses and apartments."

Views on Labor

4—Labor. He said the Republicans proposed to enact laws "which will restore equality in collective bargaining" and give employer and employe "equal responsibility and equality in power." He opposed compulsory arbitration because it "involves government wage-fixing and destroys liberty."

5—Wages and prices. "Today the best we can do, apparently, is to stabilize wages and prices at about 50 per cent over prewar." Profits have been high in many industries, low in others. Where there are profits, they ought to be reflected immediately in a reduction in prices rather than a further increase in wages.

6—War controls. A few remain but should be eliminated as rapidly as possible.

7—War powers. "Every war power must be eliminated. If any continue in special fields, they must expire in 1948."

8—Social aids. This is primarily a state and local concern, but the federal government "cannot turn its back on the problem. x x x It can give the states assistance so that systematic programs may be developed to see that the lowest income groups all have minimum subsistence, shelter, medical care and education. x x x The place of the federal government should be only one of advice and assistance."

Aide Qualifies Taft Statement He Is Not 1948 GOP Candidate

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Feb. 12—(AP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) declared today that he is "definitely not a candidate" for the 1948 Republican presidential nomination, but an aide qualified the statement to mean that he is not an "active" candidate.

The question came up when a reporter phrased the query to Taft three times.

Twice, the Ohio lawmaker replied: "I am definitely not a candidate."

But the third time the Senator's press assistant, William D. McAdams, intervened:

"He means he is not an active candidate."

Pittsburgh Area "Beer War" Aired On Capitol Hill

CIO Says Monopolists Push Anti-Union Laws

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 (AP)—Tales of bombings and truck burnings in Pennsylvania union warfare reached Capitol Hill today along with a CIO assertion that monopolists are pushing anti-union laws as a smokescreen for their own misdeeds.

Also, an industry spokesman argued that 7,000 coal mines had been converted "into a single, synthetic bulldog" and thrown muzzled into a government-dug pit to fight for its life against John L. Lewis and his United Mine Workers.

Taking one thing at a time, the day's developments included:

1. Testimony before the House Labor Committee by Mead J. Mulvihill, general counsel for the Pennsylvania State Brewers' Association, that "terrorism and anarchy" has spread through the Pittsburgh area because of a "beer war" between AFL and CIO unions.

CIO Hits "Monopoly Interests"

2. The CIO "Economic Outlook" published an accusation that greedy "monopoly interests" had brought about a crisis by forcing decontrol of wartime curbs on industry. It added "these monopoly interests are diverting attention from the necessary solutions by directing public attention to anti-labor proposals."

3. Forney Johnston, counsel for the National Coal Association, told the Senate Labor Committee that the tonnage royalty the government permits the United Mine Workers Union to collect for a welfare fund is clearly unlawful. "Unless Congress removed compulsory bargains and levies from the scope of its labor sanctions," he said, "fights to the finish are not only likely but can be guaranteed."

Both the Senate and House committee are considering a variety of proposed labor bills, most of them bitterly opposed by labor union leaders.

In his testimony on the Pittsburgh "beer war," Mulvihill did not suggest any specific cure. However, he described it as growing out of a jurisdictional drive by the AFL Teamsters Union to sign up employes of breweries which already have contracts with the CIO Brewery Workers Union. The committee has received proposals for outlawing jurisdictional strikes.

Coal Strike By July 1 Seen

The CIO publication said "anti-labor proposals" are only a part of a drive it described as aimed at unions and the public as a whole.

As other parts it listed: Republican-proposed tax cuts, bills to forbid portal-to-portal pay, efforts to cut funds for "all agencies handling

Ex-Minn. Governor Favors Low Tariffs

NEW YORK, Feb. 12 (AP)—Harold E. Stassen, avowed candidate for the 1948 Republican presidential nomination, tonight called on his party to abandon "all remnants of a policy of economic isolation" and assume "leadership of America in a new policy of world-wide economic participation."

The former Minnesota Governor, long an exponent of liberalism in GOP councils, told the National Republican Club in a Lincoln Day address that he frankly was seeking to prevent his party from following a path of "economic isolation" in drawing up its platform for the national campaign next year.

His prepared address was devoted entirely to advocacy of low tariffs and the reciprocal trade agreements program, two issues now causing considerable controversy among the Republican congressional majority.

Stassen indicated quite plainly he believed the policies he supported were essential to implement on the economic front the stand for international cooperation in the political sphere which has won much Republican support.

Backs Reciprocal Tariff Act

The Minnesotan declared that "in plain language" a policy of international economic participation "means that we directly say that our Republican party recognizes that a high tariff policy no longer suits America and that we believe in the increased flow of goods and materials and services and travel around the globe."

Stassen approved the proposal of Sens. Vandenberg, of Michigan, and Millikin, of Colorado, designed to head off repeal of the Reciprocal Tariff Act. This would authorize the President to overrule any tariff decisions which threaten American industry.

He also favored representatives of labor, industry, agriculture and the Republican Party being present in Geneva as observers when the State Department begins negotiating trade pacts with 18 foreign governments in April.

Four factors make a low tariff policy essential, Stassen said, continuing:

"First of these is the tremendous increase in our productivity. With the skill of our workmen, the ability of our management, and the vigor of our private capital, we have reached the stage that clearly and definitely in the years ahead, in many lines, we must produce for world markets rather than only American markets, or we will find our economy snubbed in, first glutted and then withering with unemployment and deflation.

Capital Resources

"Second, we have developed tremendous capital resources and have become the great creditor nation of the world, so that we need high investment of capital at home and world-wide sources of investment as well, else our capital becomes stagnant and idle and reflects in turn in idle men and economic turmoil.

"Third, with the extensive drains on our natural resources through war and peace, we are becoming increasingly dependent on raw material sources elsewhere in the world for the sound long term future of our economy.

"Fourth, and above all, it is crystal clear to all of us that in this modern one world, we can enjoy that precious peace with justice only in a world at peace. And this world cannot remain at peace unless there be that slow but steady improvement of standards of living of other peoples everywhere."

Sidney Toler, Movie "Charlie Chan," Dies

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 12 (AP)—Charlie Chan is dead.

Sidney Toler, so well known for his screen portrayal of the Chinese detective that his own name was sometimes forgotten, succumbed at his home, today, having been bedridden for several months with intestinal cancer. His widow said he was 59.

Toler was well known on stage and screen long before he succeeded the late Warner Oland as Charlie Chan in 1939. Born in Warrensburg, Mo., the son of Col. H. G. Toler, famous Wichita, Kans., breeder of trotting horses, Toler went on the stage at the age of seven in an amateur performance of "Tom Sawyer."

Mrs. Donald M. Nelson Dies Of Liver Ailment

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 12—(AP)—Mrs. Donald M. Nelson, 28-year-old wife of the former War Production Board chief, died at Cedars of Leganon Hospital here tonight.

Her death was ascribed to a chronic liver ailment. Her husband, now head of the Independent Motion Picture Producers Association, was at her side when she died.

Survivors, in addition to her husband, include her mother, Mrs. Anna Coulbourn, Denton, Md., and a brother, T. Dukes Coulbourn, United States Navy.

100 Arabs, Armed With Knives, Raid Jewish Village

Wounded Resident Reported Kidnaped

JERUSALEM, Feb. 12—(AP)—Approximately 100 Arabs, armed with knives and sticks, raided the Jewish village of Bnai Geulim tonight and kidnaped one of seven Jews wounded in the fighting, private informants said.

This raid came as Jewish extremists clashed with Jewish moderates for the second successive night with both sides reportedly being victimized by kidnapings.

The fighting at Bnai Geulim, 10 miles east of Nathanya on the Palestine coast between Tel Aviv and Haifa, apparently marked the culmination of a long standing feud over grazing rights in the neighborhood.

35-Year-Old Man Abducted

Itshak Biri, 35-year-old resident who was felled by a knife thrust, was taken from the village by the Arabs, the informants said. Police investigated the scene of the fighting and searched the nearby Arab village of Il Amrak from which most of the attackers were believed to have come.

In Jerusalem, police officials denied all knowledge of the incident although informants at Bnai Geulim said their information came from a police officer conducting the investigation.

One Jew believed to be a member of the underground and two others belonging to a moderate political party were said to have been kidnaped during the clash between the two Jewish groups.

Retaliation Kidnaping

There was no official confirmation, but private informants said 10 armed Jews, believed to be members of the moderate Hashomir Hatzair Party, had abducted an underground member from an orange grove near Rehovoth.

This was followed swiftly by the kidnaping, apparently in retaliation, of two Hashomir members in the all-Jewish city of Tel Aviv, the informant said.

The Tel Aviv headquarters of the Hashomir Party, which has been outspoken in its opposition to underground tactics, was raided last night by underground members and 12 persons were injured.

Abe Lincoln Would Have Been Uneasy

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12, (AP) — Abraham Lincoln — a man of simple tastes who hated fuss and feathers — would have been uneasy had he been around today.

For it was the 138 anniversary of his birth in a Kentucky cabin. And, as usual, it was a day of pomp, speeches and then more speeches.

The goings-on included:

His autobiography, written in 1859, was presented to the Library of Congress.

This had been scrawled hastily. His note with the autobiography said:

"There is not much of it, for the reason, I suppose, that there is not much of me—"

"Self-Portrait"

Yet today this three-page statement — which Lincoln considered ample to tell the first 50 years of his life — was received reverently by Luther H. Evans, Librarian of Congress.

And Poet-Biographer Carl Sandburg called it a "self-portrait, good as Rembrandt."

President Truman went to the majestic monument to Lincoln beside the Potomac. He stood at attention while aides laid a wreath at the foot of the impressive statue.

Another presidential wreath was sent to Lincoln's beloved Springfield, Ill., to be laid on his tomb.

Of course, there were speeches praising Lincoln, including one by Rep. Evan Howell, a Republican from the same district Lincoln represented in Congress a century ago.

Other Republicans were scurrying about the country, busily paying tribute to the man who, in 1860, became the first president elected by the new, hopeful Republican Party.

In the thousands of words they will pour out about Lincoln, perhaps none will describe him as well as he described himself in 1859.

Stood Six Feet, Four Inches

The original manuscript of this was presented to the Library of Congress by Rev. Robert Dale Richardson, of Medford, Mass.

Richardson is the great grandson of Jesse W. Fell, a longtime admirer of Lincoln and one of the first to think he was presidential timber. It was Fell who asked Lincoln to write something about himself.

Lincoln refused at first. But he finally sketched hurriedly his family background, and his early

Britain Placed On Virtual War Basis By Atlee

Blackout Violators May Be Fined, Jailed

LONDON, Feb. 12 (AP) — Prime Minister Attlee placed Britain on a virtual war basis tonight, issuing an order under wartime defense regulations that decreed fines or prison sentences for any of the nation's 49,000,000 people who disregard a new island-wide limitation on household electricity.

Acting after nearly 72 hours of scheming against threatened disaster to his war-weakened nation in the coal crisis, Attlee also established an emergency committee of nine—peacetime equivalent of the war cabinet—to deal with what he called a "dangerously critical" fuel shortage.

Blackout Decreed

The order also applied legal penalties to industrialists who do not comply with a blackout order shutting all but essential plants in 38 of the 64 counties in England and Wales.

Earlier, the government ordered the five-hour cutoff of electricity to householders extended to the entire island—all of Britain except Northern Ireland — and directed nationwide street lighting reductions amounting almost to a wartime blackout.

The emergency committee ordered cancellation of all railway passenger services in every instance where it would clear tracks or free locomotives for coal trains.

These steps were taken as the Board of Trade announced that 5,000,000 to 6,000,000 men were out of work because of industrial shutdowns, and that the crisis threatened to be felt in every phase of the economy.

The first "communique" of the new emergency committee, which includes some leaders in private industry, called for the mobilization of civilians thrown out of work by closed plants, to help soldiers and regular transport workers in moving coal.

Greyhound Racing Banned

It authorized Fuel Minister Emanuel Shinwell to use wartime powers of requisition to divert coal shipments from consignees in order to speed the turnabout of coal cars.

It banned greyhound racing, but announced the industrial shutoffs would not be extended beyond the 38-county areas.

It announced that any relaxation on fuel restrictions must be gradual and that full service to householders must not be restored until industry, life blood of exporting Britain, was again in full swing.

Penalties to householders under the wartime act range up to a fine of $400 and imprisonment of three months, but in extreme cases of repeated violations the penalties could be increased.

Army, Navy Oppose Any Cut In Funds

Would Jeopardize Military Missions

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 — (AP) — Secretary of War Patterson declared tonight that if the proposed cut in the Army budget is made, "the current and long-term missions of the Army, including those of Gen. MacArthur in Japan and Gen. McNarney in Germany, will be jeopardized."

Earlier, the Navy had contended that even a $500,000,000 cut in its funds might make the fighting fleets "immobile and impotent as an instrument of national policy."

The Army-Navy stands were occasioned by announced plans of a House-Senate Budgetary Subcommittee to slash President Truman's $37,500,000,000 federal budget figure by a total of $6,000,000,000.

Patterson, in a statement for the press, said that he was "alarmed by reports to the effect that action is being taken to cut War Department appropriations for the fiscal year by one and one-half billion dollars."

Air Forces Would Suffer

He said that $1,000,000,000 of it is reported to come from "purely military appropriations and half a billion from funds required to prevent starvation in American-occupied areas of Germany, Japan and Korea."

The cut in the military budget, Patterson said, would fall mainly on the Air Forces and services which support them.

Of the military budget as submitted by the President, 58 per cent is for the Air Forces. That budget, said Patterson, would support 55 combat groups of planes but the proposed further reduction would reduce the number of groups to 35, of which only three would be in the United States.

These developments followed fast after yesterday's predominantly Republican vote by the House-Senate Budget Subcommittee to slash President Truman's $37,500,000,000 figure down to $31,500,000,000:

1. Chairman Knutson (R-Minn.), of the House Ways and Means Committee, hailed the action as assuring a 20 per cent cut in individual income taxes, and a payment of $3,000,000,000 or more on the nation's debt.

Republicans Assail Colleagues

2. The Republican chairmen of the House and Senate Armed Services Committees accused their GOP colleagues of imperiling the nation's security and world peace, in proposing a cut of around $2,250,000,000 in Army and Navy funds. This cut would also include Army civil functions such as rivers and harbors improvements.

3. Sen. Green (D-RI) said in a statement that while he did not charge members of the budget subcommittee with " any lack of pat-

Six Killed When Train Strikes Car

MEADOW BRIDGES, W. Va., Feb. 12—(AP)—Five persons died instantly, a sixth was fatally hurt and a seventh seriously injured late today when a Chesapeake and Ohio motor train struck their car at the East End railroad crossing here.

The car in which they were riding was completely demolished by the impact, but no details of the crash, which occurred about 5:30 p. m., were available at once.

Those killed instantly in the wreck were identified by the Nichols Funeral Home at East Rainelle as:

Charley Ross, 36, and his wife, 30, of East Rainelle.

Tat Dudley, 40, and his wife, 36, of Floyd, Va.

Catherine Peters, four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Peters, of Charmco.

Judy Peters, 2½, sister of Catherine, died a few minutes after her arrival at an East Rainelle Hospital.

The children's mother, Mrs. Herman Peters, also is in the hospital in a very serious condition, hospital attendants said. Her husband, manager of the Pine Amusement Hall at Pineville, was in Virginia at the time.

U. S. Proposals Adopted; Reds Pass Up Veto

Russia And Poland Abstain From Voting

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Feb. 12—(AP)—The United Nations Security Council voted by 9 to 0 tonight to create an 11-nation commission to study the reduction of all armaments except those already being examined by the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission.

Russia and Poland abstained from voting.

The council's action was a sweeping victory for the United States, which had insisted that any arms commission created by the United Nations must be limited to the field not covered by the Atomic Commission.

Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko fought the United States proposals until the end, but when the showdown came he declined to invoke the big power veto with which he could have killed the plan at this point.

The council's decisive vote was on Paragraph 3 of a draft resolution outlining the whole machinery of arms reduction. A vote must still be taken on the resolution as a whole, after the council acts on the final paragraph which will be taken up at 3 p. m. (EST) tomorrow.

Russia Might Use Veto Yet

Thus there still was a chance that Russia might use the veto, but this was regarded as highly unlikely in view of Gromyko's abstention today.

The controversial paragraph provided that:

1. An 11-nation commission would be created immediately to formulate plans for the reduction and regulation of armaments recommended by General Assembly resolutions "insofar as these resolutions relate to armaments within the new commission's jurisdiction."

2. The new commission shall submit a plan of work to the council for approval.

3. Those matters which fall within the jurisdiction of the Atomic Commission shall "be excluded from the jurisdiction" of the new commission.

4. The title of the commission shall be the Commission for Conventional Armaments.

Gromyko, taking the floor after hearing seven of the 11 Security Council delegates support United States proposals, flatly refused to answer three questions directed at him by British Delegate Sir Alexander Cadogan as to why Russia opposed the American plan.

Gromyko Offers Compromise

Gromyko declared he had stated his position fully yesterday, but at the same time he offered his compromise measure which he suggested should be substituted for two paragraphs which the United States wanted to write into the arms reduction resolution.

He proposed that the resolution state that the work of the new arms reduction commission and that of the Atomic Energy Commission

Fire Razes Factory At Philipsburg, Pa.

PHILIPSBURG, Pa., Feb. 12 (AP)—This Central Pennsylvania community lost its largest industry today when a flash fire razed the MacLaren sportwear factory, causing damage unofficially estimated at $500,000, and destroying one nearby house and damaging four others.

Eight area fire companies battled futily to save the factory which was burned to the ground after flames broke out in a new three-story brick addition used as a warehouse. Cause of the blaze was unknown.

The plant's 340 workers fled to safety with handkerchiefs pressed over their mouths as dense smoke billowed through the building. Firemen carried several of the workers, who were mostly girls, down ladders.

Fire Chief Thomas Ginick said a first check showed no casualties but added that a complete count of workers had not yet been made.

Sen. Kimble Calls Joint Consideration Of State Budget Measure "Farce"

Allegany Countian Protests Method Of Study; "Home Rule" For Counties, Cities Is Proposed

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 12—(AP)—The Senate's minority leader rose up in wrath today against joint consideration by the House and Senate Finance Committees of the administration's $91,000,000 budget bill, calling such action a farce and contrary to all previous practices.

In the most prolonged burst of oratory since the Senate convened January 1, Sen. Kimble (R-Allegany) protested joint consideration of the budget on the ground that "there is but one object to the plan and that object is to railroad this $100,000,000 book into reality."

Kimble apparently was speaking for himself and not as leader of the Republican minority.

It had been announced previously that Budget Director Walter N. Kirkman would appear before a joint session to go over the bulky bill which contains $23,000,000 more in appropriations than the 1946-47 act.

Majority Leader Sothoron (D-Prince George's), in a brief reply, said he felt Kimble was getting "hot and excited" over nothing. It is pure common sense, Sothoron

Chiang Ready To Halt U. S. Currency Circulation

NANKING, Feb. 12—(AP)—China's prescription for its madly fluctuating currency—an order to stop the circulation of United States currency and to restrict public transactions in gold—was presented tonight to Chiang Kai-Shek for his signature.

Official sources indicated the Generalissimo would sign. They declined to discuss rumors that other remedies would be tried.

U. S., Canada To Continue In Peace Their Close Wartime Collaboration

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 (AP)—The United States and Canada announced today they will continue in peacetime their close wartime collaboration for the military security of North America.

Without entering into a formal treaty or binding agreements, the two governments proclaimed a five-point program for unifying training, standardizing arms, and using each other's military, naval and air facilities.

Anything to do with the atomic bomb was excluded from the general understanding, it was made clear, since both governments have separate channels for development and administration of atomic energy.

Both stressed too, in formal announcements made simultaneously in Ottawa and Washington, that the Charter of the United Nations "remains the cornerstone of the foreign policy of each."

In Ottawa, Prime Minister W. L. MacKenzie King told the House of Commons that the joint principles agreed upon would strengthen rather than impair the "cooperation of each country within the broader frame-work of the United Nations."

The two governments said that their collaboration for "peacetime joint security purposes" would be limited and would be done to the extent authorized by law of each

Their proclamation, issued less than a month before the opening in Moscow of the Big Four Foreign Ministers' conference, served nevertheless to underscore United States-Canadian unity on defense of "the Arctic frontier" facing Europe.

Since 1940 the neighbor governments have unified their common military problems through the permanent joint board on defense. That body will continue its work.

International Nudes' Plight Gives Londoners Chuckle On Grim Day

BY ED CREAGH

LONDON, Feb. 12—(AP)—Comfortably warm in an overcoat, muffler and earmuffs, I asked nine nude women today how they were standing the cold in fuel-shy London, and eight of them broke out in goose pimples at the very thought.

Eight were members of a theatrical troupe advertised, without a word of exaggeration, as the Eight International Nudes. They appear nightly, wearing nothing but provocative expressions, on the glacier-like stage of a music hall.

"How do you think we stand it?" demanded Patricia Morrissey, who like most of the Eight International Nudes is barely twenty. Modestly garbed at the moment, in a fuzzy bath towel, she continued:

"It gets so—so frightfully cold that we're all in danger of being arrested. You see, the Lord Chancellor allows us to appear unclothed only if we remain perfectly motionless. Well, you can't do that in this weather. You shiver, you tremble, you—"

She shivered and trembled to demonstrate, but never lost her grip on the bath towel.

The plight of the International Eight—they are all English except pretty Rene Kai, who is Chinese—gave London readers one of their few chuckles on the grimmest day since the Blitz ended, but the girls didn't see the joke.

"I don't have any trouble standing still on the stage—I'm frozen still," said Kitty May.

The ninth nude, the one that didn't develop goose-pimples, wore not a stitch more than the International Eight but she was as warm as toast when I encountered her in the National Gallery—on canvas. Velasquez painted her.

"We have to keep it warm in here, sir, because of all these old masters," said an attendant. "They would crack, you see, if the temperature got very low. I suppose this is the warmest place in London."

STRAWS IN THE WIND

BROADWAY

By DANTON WALKER

The Roaring '40's

Trygve Lie has proffered his resignation as head of the United Nations organization, but no action will be taken on it, one way or the other, until after the Foreign Ministers' conference in Moscow. . . . Secretary of State Marshall's right and left bowers at the Moscow confab will be Benjamin V. Cohen and John Foster Dulles. . . Vandenberg's real reason for not going (his friends say) was to give Marshall an opportunity to deal from a new deck. And (also according to his friends) failure of the meeting would injure the Senator's chances in 1948. . . . Those close to Communist affairs in New York knew as far back as eight years ago that Gerhardt Eisler was an important Red agent in the U. S. Also that he is a very small cog in a large and well-oiled machine. . . . Marie Goebel, secretary to the publisher of the new United Nations magazine (no official UN connection) is known as the gal who knows more Prime Ministers than any other female in the world. She met 'em while serving as secretary to Louis Dolivet, who contacted the European Undergrounds for the State Department. . . . The SEC may pounce on a widely-publicized "philanthropic" gent (not a Rockefeller) who grabbed $16,000,000 selling short the last half of '46.

Ed. Pauley

Ed Pauley is supposed to have needled Bob Hannegan into announcing that President Truman would seek re-election. . . . Now that Hannegan is staying on, Joe Nuna, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, and Gael Sullivan, Assistant Postmaster General, have changed their minds about retiring. . . . Taft is said to have promised Bricker the first Supreme Court vacancy if he becomes the 1948 tenant of the White House. . . . Bilbo wrote to every member of the Senate, saying that if he were rejected, the Governor of Mississippi would reappoint him as Senator, and if he were turned down again he would arrange a second election with only "token" opposition. . . . His Senatorial cronies have advised him to take his doctor's advice and resign, since if he decided to fight for his seat and lost out because of malfeasance he would lose his pension. . . . The romance rumors around the capital say Speaker of the House Joe Martin may become a benedict, chiefly to woo the feminine vote (they like 'em married in the White House). . . . Charles Luckman, 37-year-old president of the Lever Brothers empire, being pushed in certain quarters to head the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Spruill Braden will accompany President Truman on his Central American and Caribbean tour. . . . New State Department headache is the report that Peron is planning to take over control of all newspapers and periodicals in the Argentine, not through seizure but manipulation through Administration hirelings. . . Hollywood to have a new series of films about Jim Crow-ism, anti-Semitism, and other forms of intolerance (five in the making now). . . . The sudden deaths of Admiral Marc Mitscher and Ambassador Max Gardner focussing attention on National Heart Week, organized to make the public cardiac conscious. . . . The good will visit of the British Royal Family to South Africa one step in smoothing the ruffled feelings of Gen. Jan Christiaan Smuts who has been talking about pulling out of the British Empire and the UN organization. . . . European royal circles wondering how the King and Queen will receive the brother-in-law of the Duchess of Kent, Prince Paul of Yugoslavia, now a refugee on a South African farm. . . . Brooklyn Dodger baseball prexy Branch Rickey planning to add some of the flash and color which Larry MacPhail once brought to Ebbets Field. He's negotiating with bandleader Al Shanky and other boro entertainers to appear in giant pre-game spectacles to lure more customers. . . Denver's famous old Opera House will be demolished to make room for a new department store. . . Four top Miami Beach nite spots reported on the block at the end of the current season.

Danny Kaye accompanied by bodyguards in Miami Beach, due to threatening letters. . . . Virginia Bruce a pneumonia victim in Mexico. . . . Ruth Etting, one of the first and best of the torch singers, being lured by offers of $7,500 weekly to return to the nite club field. . . . The dance-minded Marquis de Cuevas flying to Monte Carlo Ballet, also to put his son and daughter in school. Cafe society hears he may remain in Europe. . . . When Joan Blondell finishes "The Corpse Came C.O.D.," she'll make a combined business and vacation trip to London. . . .The San Francisco Opera selection of Dorothy Kirsten to sing "Louise" there next season indicates that Miss Kirsten will succeed to the Grace Moore roles. . . . Barbara Stanwyck, who has arrived in England, will head for the French Alps to do some skiing with her husband, Robert Taylor.

Europe's Cold Wave And Its Reverberation

The caprices of the weather play a large role in human affairs. If the German army had not run into the coldest Winter in a hundred years when it was storming the gates of Moscow early in World War II, the Russian capital might have fallen and Russian morale been shattered beyond repair.

In the over-crowded cities and towns of India and China the amount of rain which falls in a single Summer may determine whether millions live or die. And today, in Europe, the weather is once more shaping the destiny of a continent.

This time, unhappily, the weather is not on humanity's side. In a year when millions of people lack adequate housing, food, fuel or clothing, the weather has been cruel. One cold wave after another has swept across northern and central European countries. North Britain has been hit by the worst weather in fifty years.

Whether Britain's fuel crisis was caused by socialization of the mines by the labor government or by other circumstances, the reason for the dilemma may be lost sight of in the reverberations.

When unusual weather strikes in this country, it may cause a great deal of trouble and cost a few lives. But in the countries still devastated by the war, the suffering is intense. Snow and ice snarl up transportation facilities barely sufficient at best, to meet the most essential needs. In Britain alone the coal famine has forced hundreds of thousands of workers into idleness. In Berlin 140,000 persons are too ill to report for work. In The Netherlands badly needed coal shipments lie ice bound in frozen canals.

For Americans the weather may be a subject for idle conversation. In other parts of the world it is synonymous with fate.

Strict Iron Curtain On Russia Seems Advisable

It is impossible not to agree with Representative Mundt of South Dakota that the United States has been lax in taking security measures in the past and that it would be a good idea to think about what privileges are extended the curious representatives of the Soviet Union. Such a thought looms larger after learning that Bernard Baruch, the elder statesmen who has been deep enough into atomic bomb situations to know what he is talking about, is concerned about the leakage of that secret.

But it is difficult to become as perturbed as Representative Mundt seems to be over the fact that the Russians possess detailed plans of many American industrial, transportation and utility installations.

As the Congressman himself admits, the Russians obtained this information quite legitimately. The United States made no objection when Soviet agents visited the plants in question, photographed and sketched them. In a number of instances, in fact, they were supplied freely with detailed engineering data.

For that matter, the Soviet government has made no secret of its possession of this information. It is all contained in a huge book entitled "American Construction" published last year by the Russian Amtorg Trading Corporation. Among other things, the book contains 175 full-page advertisements purchased by American business firms, many of which are interested in selling equipment to Russia. Moscow probably would buy if she could obtain a loan from Washington to pay for the purchases.

But the fears expressed by Mr. Baruch is shared by other authorities. It is quite plain, then, that we have been careless about the atomic knowhow, even if not with other matters we control. Ultimately, whether soon or late, scientists in other countries —some of doubtful friendship toward the United States—will dig out the secret of the atom and the uses to which it may be put. It may be that some already have discovered the secret, although our scientists are skeptical of this.

In any case, so long as the atomic energy knowledge remains our exclusive possession, it should be prized as such. While Senators and others of us may be extremely curious about this phenomenon, it should be guarded as our most precious asset. As matters stand, the atomic weapon is the most potent influence in our hands. Militarily, it goes without saying, we are weak. While we seem to be doing a fair job in scientific fields, we have scrapped our army, grounded our air force and bottled up our navy. We are dawdling with the universal military training issue.

In the field of propaganda we appear to be losing ground. We are doing a good job of selling our attributes to other peoples. And much of our diplomatic management has boomeranged.

We cannot build a stone wall around our country and ignore the rest of the world. But, for the moment, we ought to maintain a strict iron curtain about the atomic secret until at least, we are prepared in other ways to exert a genuine, wholesome influence proportionate to the degree of protection now necessary to preserve our entity. By the same reasoning it seems a shortsighted policy to let Russia know so much about American industrial achievements.

President Reports On United Nations Progress

Reporting to Congress on the part played by the United States in the affairs of the United Nations, President Truman made no startling disclosures and announced no startling conclusions. What he said, on the whole, was what he might have been expected to say.

Thus his letter declaring that the new world organization has made "great progress" during the last year but that mankind's hopes for peace can yet be "betrayed and lost." This is an estimate the public can accept—or rather has already accepted in the light of the record written since the first meeting of the General Assembly a year ago. The only thing about it is that it has now been stated by the President of the United States.

The President's letter, nevertheless, calls attention to the central problem that must be solved if the United Nations is to become the vehicle of enduring peace. The foundations of a "general system of collective security" must be laid, though the task will be long and difficult, because "the nations can safely lay aside their arms only insofar as their security is protected by other means."

Perhaps the House sergeant-at-arms, whose accounts are short $125,000, thought it was lend-lease.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

THE PERFECT ANTISEPTIC

THE use of antiseptics to kill microorganisms took root in the days of Lister. Altho he was not the discoverer of carbolic acid, nor the first to employ it, his work was so outstandind that the history of surgery is divided roughly into two epochs—before and after Lister.

The ideal antiseptic is yet to be prepared but there are over 100 official and nonofficial compounds on the market. Many are of practical value in minimizing disease. Some work better on the surface than within the body; others will affect one type of microbe only.

From the theoretical standpoint the best germicide should be capable of killing quickly all forms of "bugs," including viruses. In addition, it ought to be nontoxic, non-allergic, nonirritating, and long lasting. One that is odorless, colorless, and unobjectionable from an aesthetic standpoint is preferred. This utopian solution could be applied safely on all tissues varying from the delicate membranes of the eyes to the thickened soles of the feet. Stability is also important so that storage in the medicine cabinet would be possible until the need arose.

Few, if any, of our modern agents meet all these requirements. Some are successful in the laboratory, overwhelming a variety of organisms mixed together in a test tube. On the other hand, when placed on an infected wound they rarely penetrate sufficiently to combat the germs; in case the deeper tissues are reached, the juices alter their chemical nature, making them ineffective. Others are so strong that they destroy the delicate cells, indusing more injury than done by the microbes. These are the problems that confront any scientist who is trying to produce a better antiseptic.

One of the oldest is hydrogen peroxide. It has many advantages but does not keep too long and has only a transient influence on bacteria. Other germ killers include the numerous acids and alkalies. The heavy metals—silver, mercury, copper, zinc, bismuth, and arsenic—are prescribed occasionally for disorders of the skin and mucous membrances as well as in the treatment of diseases like syphilis. Several dyes are available which discourage bacterial growth. Alcohol and phenol (carbolic acid) are old stand-bys. The latter, while useful in attacking fungi, is toxic, irritating, expensive, and has an unpleasant odor. Iodine, one of the halogens, acts rapidly when applied to the surface but is caustic like phenol.

Among the newer types are the detergents. They are utilized not only medically but as soap substitute. The sulfonamides and the antibiotics (pencillin, streptomycin, and tyrothrycin) and excellent but their bactericidal action is transient and repeated doses are needed.

All of which serves to demonstrate that while there is no panacea, physicians have at their disposal numerous antiseptics. Credit must also be given to the body which provides numerous mechanisms to destroy bacteria. In the same vein of thought, cleanliness helps tremendously, by discouraging the invaders. Altho soap is not necessarily classified as an antiseptic, it is helpful in removing organisms from the skin, thus combating infection.

BRIDGE HANDS

Mrs. M. writes: I don't like bridge because every time I play my hands break out. Could this be due to nervousness?

REPLY

If your partner "plays for blood" a nervous reaction of this type is possible. But contact dermatitis is more likely. Now and then an individual encounters skin irritation from handling cards and the offender is the sizing material used to stiffen them or incompletely cured synthetic plastics.

FEVER AND FATIGUE

D. L. writes: Could overtiredness be responsible for rise in temperature?

REPLY

No, but any one who is unduly fatigued should have the temperature checked periodically as infection may be responsible for both symptoms.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Have you ever wondered where songwriters get titles like "Old Buttermilk Sky," "Huggin' and Chalkin," or "Zippety Do Dah?" No, these are not the last words of a pedestrian about to cross Hollywood Boulevard at Vine.

The song title is the product of weeks of research. ("Research" is a tin pan alley term meaning, "let's use it. Tschaikovsky won't miss it.")

Let's assume you and I are writing a great song. We get a hot tip that there's a vacancy in the No. 3 spot on the hit parade. All we need is a terrific title, and Morton Downey will make us millionaires.

The song is about a boy, a girl and a moon. The girl is going steady with the moon. We can't use "jealousy" in the title; it's not a rumba. We can't say anything about the moon, or we'll run into trouble from the "moon-June" writers, and a western title is out because Trigger is doing personal appearances, and we'd have to wait months for him to record it.

Trying to find a title, we have gone through four farmers' almanacs, 16 volumes of the Encyclopedia Brittanica and an unabridged copy of Emily Post.

As we thumb through the Journal of International Trade for the 233rd time, we notice something about the onetime open-door policy in China. That's what we were searching for.

We're hit with an inspiration, and in two and a half minutes we have not only a great title, but a sensational new song. . . . We're calling it "Open the Door, Chiang."

Of course, there are always a few skeptics around who will claim we stole it.

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12—The White House palace guard was really burnt up at Bob Hannegan for tossing Truman's hat into the ring for 1948. They claim Hannegan has now made the President a target for political opposition just as his prestige is running high. No matter what he does now, they say, he will be accused of playing politics.

Real fact is that Hannegan conferred twice with Truman before making the speech, but the palace guard is peeved just the same. They think Hannegan pulled a "Henry Wallace" on the boss. Wallace, they point out, officially cleared his Russian speech with Truman last summer, but he didn't point out to Truman its innuendoes and possible repercussions.

The Merry Mortician

Senator Kenneth Wherry, Nebraska's merry mortician, who has promised to do as much for small business, now seems to be a little forgetful about it.

Wherry pushed a resolution through Congress whereby a special Small Business Committee was created with him as chairman, thereby keeping the chairmanship out of the hands of his fellow Republican, Senator Wilson of Iowa.

And previously, when the Democrats controlled Congress, Wherry blocked an investigation of the newsprint monopoly, so strongly favored by small newspapers.

Now that the new Small Business Committee finally has been voted, the Nebraska ex-undertaker has dickering with Joe Borda to become head of the Committee Staff. And, believe it or not, Borda is on the payroll of the National Asosciation of Manufacturers, which represents the biggest business in the country.

No wonder the Nebraska undertaker's Committee is now nicknamed the Big Business Committee for Small Undertakings.

White House Stamps

President Truman doesn't go in for his predecessor's favorite hobby of stamp collecting, but another member of his family does.

Representative Bob Poage of Waco, Texas, went over to the White House the other day to offer the President the hospitality of Waco when he returns from Mexico City, and noted on the Presidential desk several booklets filled with stamps.

"You ought to see these, Bob," said the President, opening one. "These are Egyptian stamps which the Egyptian Ambassador gave me for Margaret's stamp collection. They'de beautiful things, although I admit I don't know much about stamps."

Note—Interesting fact about the stamp gift by the Egyptian Ambassador is that while he could legally give them to Margaret Truman, he could not have given them to her father. It is against the law for the President of the United States to receive gifts from a foreign government. FDR's secretary, Miss Lehand, used to insist that stamp collections given him by foreign governments be sent to the State Department to be kept until his term expired. But the late President frequently hid the stamp gifts before she could dispose of them.

Tax Czar Knutson

Minnesota's Rep. Harold Knutson, whose self-styled role as tax expert has been challenged of late, doesn't plan to take any chances about losing control of the House Ways and Means Committee.

Meeting in secret session last week, Knutson wasted little time in passing a motion permitting unrestricted use of proxies. In other words, no matter how many Republican members may be out playing golf or mending political fences when a Committee meeting is scheduled, Chairman Knutson will be able to vote them almost any way he pleases. Even though a majority of those on hand for the meeting may be Democrats, the GOP—by voting proxies—can prevail.

Scrappy Representative Herman Eberharter, Pennsylvania Democrat, raised an immediate point of order against this wholesale use of proxies.

"Proxies have been used in this Committee in the past, and I have objected," Eberharter said. "Whether they are Republican or Democrat proxies makes no difference. The important thing is that this Committee operates under the rules of the House, and we all know proxies cannot be voted in the House as a whole.

"It is not unusual for a committee, by unanmious consent, to permit the use of proxies," argued Eberharter, "but that is good legislative procedure only when the proxy to be voted is that of a member who has been attending previous hearings of the particular matter under consideration. If he is unable for some good reason to be on hand for the vote, but is acquainted with the subject and has formed an opinion of his own, then the use of his proxy is reasonable.

"But your proposal, Mr. Chairman," Eberharter continued, "means that members don't have to take any interest in the problems before the Committee so long as they can be registered for or against a proposal. It means that only a few people might be settling policy, with the members of their two parties simply saying, 'go ahead and put me down for what you think.'"

Knutson immediately overruled Eberhardt's point of order, but the Pennsylvanian served notice he will raise it again whenever proxies are used.

Earlier in the meeting Knutson, who is now worried over public reaction to his tax proposal for saving millions for the upper brackets but only a few dollars for low-income taxpayers, succeeded in winning a committee O. K. for rushing a tax-cut bill through the Committee immediately — without even public hearings.

A proposal for public hearings on the several tax-cut bills now before the Ways and Means Committee was offered by Rep. Sidney Camp of Georgia, but got only the support of five other Democrats. All the Republicans and Representative Wilbur Mills of Arkansas, who usually votes with the Republicans, voted to pass up public hearings on the most important tax bill Congress has considered in many years.

Industrial Crisis In England Traceable To Labor Government

By MARK SULLIVAN

For estimating the industrial crisis in England, the first step is to avoid over-estimating the part played in it by a spell of extremely harsh weather. If weather were the cause, the crisis would be temporary. In fact, it will profoundly affect, in fundamental respects probably determine, the future of England and the world.

That judgment was put in words this week by a member of the Labor Government, Attorney General Sir Hartley Shawcross. "If we dont' succeed in overcoming this situation and improving coal production," he said, "the labor Government will fall and"—this was the portentous judgment—"there will be an end to any idea of Socialism in our time."

The crisis was recognized before the harsh weather began. Weeks ago Sir Stafford Cripps, President of the Board of Trade, spoke of "the fear that we shall depress our standard of living because we cannot produce enough, in fact that is what is happening now." That warning was confirmed by ministers on the Labor Government, including the Minister of Labor, who said, "It is . . . highly important that we secure a speedy and substantial increase in the output of the product of British industry."

Inevitably Destined Climax

For months the condition has been recognized, not as a contingent crisis that might arise if there were harsh weather, but as an inevitably destined climax, not only for England but for the world.

A landmark in what brought it about was the Potsdam Conference in the summer of 1945, where the heads of the "big three" nations victorious in the war were scheduled to discuss post-war settlements. The settlements would determine the future in vital respects—including whether the world would move toward government operation of industry and collectivism, or toward private ownership of industry, free enterprise and individualism.

In the discussions of proposed settlements and decisions, Stalin of Russia would as a matter of course press toward collectivism. Truman of the United States and Churchill of England would press toward individualism. These two, because of the power of the nations they represented, and because these two nations compose the historic background of individualism, were counted on to press the shape of the post-war world toward that pattern.

Into that setting intruded a dramatic event, a thunderbolt no less. Britain, holding its first post-war election, ousted from power the conservative party and its leader, Churchill. In place of them the election put in power the Labor Party, with a mandate to make Britain, in the words of one Labor Party leader, "a Socialist commonwealth."

Dogmatic Wilfullness

In carrying out the mandate, the new Labor Government proceeded with a kind of dogmatic wilfullness. Though England was in desperate need of recovery, though maximum production of goods was the first requisite for recovery, and though these conditions made it a tragically inappropriate time to switch from one economic system to another, the Labor Government nevertheless made the nationalizing of industry its primary concern.

The spirit and actions of the Labor Government justified the bitterness in what Churchill said the other day: "The Labor Government were so busy with the doctrinaires of their nationalization policy, and so ardently involved in class war, that they had no time or strength or brains for making the ordinary administrative arrangements which common prudence demanded . . . It meant mismanagement and incompetence in high places . . . We had vast figures of civil servants looking after our affairs, hampering energy and enterprise and ingenuity at every stage."

At the end of 19 months, Britain has made less recovery than any other of the victorious countries; less even than some countries that were overrun during the war, such as Holland and Belgium. The record of the Labor Government suggests one of the most familiar sayings in the English tongue. The last word in futility has been expressed as "carrying coals to Newcastle." Yet in a country that has abundant coal underground, lack of coal for industry and daily use is the precipitating cause of crisis.

British Events Show Risks Of Putting Reform Ahead Recovery

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—What's happening in Great Britain is of direct interest to the American people because it shows the dangers and risks inherent in putting reform ahead of recovery.

The British Labor Party secured control of the government in an election which showed England's irritation over wartime controls but the Labor Government immediately instituted even more drastic control of the economy and began to emasculate the private-enterprise system by a program of public ownership of coal and electricity with plans for the taking over of other industries.

Nothing could be more unsettling to an economic situation than the uncertainty produced by the British Labor Party program, and now that a coal crisis has become so grave as to require a shutdown of factories in order to conserve coal, the impact of the first Socialistic government on the British people has developed a major crisis.

It is an impact that indicates political repercussions will follow. Already there is talk of a change in government or a coalition government. The British laborites have an overwhelming majority and there is not considered to be much chance of a shift to the conservatives right away. After more suffering and more discontent, perhaps, it may be that the British parliament will be dissolved and another election ordered, but it is too early as yet to calculate the results of the coal holiday.

Pleasing To Communists

Unquestionably the situation in England is pleasing to the communists who have been boring from within in the hope of weakening Britain's economy. At a time of internal distress in Britain, Stalin has been needling Bevin and trying to create political discord inside England. The "left wingers" who are friendly to Russia are criticizing Bevin for excessive friendliness to the United States and trying to sow seeds of dissension between America and Britain.

The conservatives, on the other side, are critical because the labor government is not sufficiently severe with the communists and because Bevin is pursuing a foreign policy that appeases left-wing sentiment.

The country which will gain out of the mess, of course, is Russia. Having failed to drive the United States out of Europe, Russia hopes to weaken Britain. There are some who believe that England's socialistic program is a sop to "left wingers," who really would favor communistic experiments but who would be checkmated if socialism succeeded.

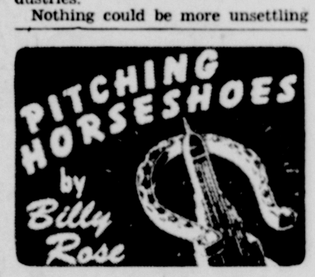

British socialism has ventured far in the last several months but the English people aren't so much interested in "isms" as they are in a better standard of living. They have been willing to go along with the public ownership program in the belief that it would help them get coal. When the mines were bought out by the central government there was a drive to get an increased output. But, under government ownership, output has not been materially different from what it was before. The reason really is that the British mines had not introduced up-to-date machinery. It is contended that the British owners, instead of investing in better facilities, were content to let the industry drift. There was money for modernizing during the war but it was not done.

Government Ownership No Help

In any event the mining industry under government ownership is not producing results and that's about all the average man will ask about. An election issue on the question of a continuance of socialism is inevitable. Just when is will come is uncertain. Undoubtedly former Prime Minister Churchill, leader of the conservatives, will make an effort to increase the opposition numbers in the hope of gradually wearing down the labor majority and forcing another election or a change in the control of the government.

The British people have a tough road to travel anyway. The war left them in a financially weak position. The American loan has helped substantially but it will take more than the loan to straighten out Britain's economy and she would be farther along the road toward a post-war equilibrium and the resumption of her place in the world of trade if she had a government in which the rest of the world of business could have confidence. With "let wingers" pressing from the top and the conservatives from the bottom, it looks as if socialism—the middle-of-the-road-philosophy —will be ground between two millstones.

Cecil Muldoon just got back from Washington. He tells me he met a Republican down there who isn't running for President. But then, Cecil always was a liar.

There's something like 25 Governors and 50 Senators giving us the glad eye. They are acting up like a Hollywood waitress bringing Louis B. Mayer a stack of wheats.

The GOP board of strategy must be going batty trying to decide which name on the marquee will sell the most tickets. If I were Carroll Reece, and had to pick a tenant for the White House here are some tests the applicant would have to pass before he could move in.

Billy Rose

Test No. 1: DIPLOMACY.

With his wife looking on, hand the candidate ten thousand dollars in cash. He must be able to convince his missus she looks better in last year's fur coat.

Test No. 2: HONESTY.

Show him plans for a bridge in his state to cost $40,000,000. Tell him he'll be in charge of letting out the contracts. Notice if he drools.

Then lock him in a room with a ballot box containing 50 Democrat and 50 Republican votes. Ask him to count them. If he's honest, he'll give the Democrats at least 10 votes.

Test No. 3: MAGNETISM.

Introduce him to Tom Girdler and Phil Murray. The right man should be able to get a campaign contribution from both, having persuaded each one he will protect him from the other.

Test No. 4: RADIO PERSONALITY.

Have the candidate make a speech over the CBS network while Bob Hope is telling jokes on NBC. If he can prove anyone heard him besides the engineer in the control room, okay him for the fireside chats of 1948.

Test No. 5: THE WOMEN'S VOTE.

Have him ring the bell at Mrs. Mulligatawny's house. When the old battle-ax opens the door, the right candidate will tip his hat and say, "Miss, is your mother in?"

Test No. 6: IS HE PHOTOGENIC?

Plant him on the Queen Elizabeth. When the liner docks in New York, arrange to have Marlene Dietrich sit on the rail and cross her legs. If one ship news photographer says hello to the candidate, nominate him, Mr. Reece—it'll be a landslide.

Test No. 7: STRENGTH OF CHARACTER.

Invite him to a cocktail party. Hand him a bowl of salted peanuts. If he can eat one nut, and then stop, he's the man to sit in Lincoln's chair.

Test No. 8: ATOMIC ENERGY.

Short circuit the lights in his house. The candidate with the right scientific background will find the little black box in the cellar and change the fuse without plunging the whole block into darkness.

Test No. 9: HOME LIFE.

Have his kid leave a roller skate on the top step. When the candidate takes a header down the stairs, note if he uses any four-letter words stronger than "Gosh." If he doesn't, check him out—he's not human.

Speak to his wife. He rates serious consideration if she still feels he's a better man than the real-estate salesman she might have married.

Test No. 10: RESOURCEFULNESS.

At a fancy dinner party, serve him a steak. Just when a sliver of meat is lodged between his molars, have the hostess ask his opinion of the Chinese political situation. If he can discuss Chiang Kai-shek and the Communists, while extricating the sliver, at one and the same time, order the campaign buttons.

Test No. 11: HORSE SENSE.

Strand the candidate in a strange town with one dollar in his pocket. Tell him he's got to run it up to fifty by nightfall. If he looks for work or a crap game, cross him off. If he used the buck to wire home for the money, have him start writing his acceptance speech.

Test No. 12: GENERAL KNOWLEDGE.

Give him one point for each corect answer: (1) The name of the other Senator from Mississippi? (2) Who writes George Allen's material? (3) The number of Governors in Georgia? (4) Who Threw the Overalls in Mrs. Murphy's Chowder?

Test No. 13: HOUSING.

Hand him a telegram informing him he and his family have been evicted and will have to live with in-laws. If he drops dead, he's the perfect candidate.

Today's Talk

Beauty

We often speak of beauty as something alien to us, or something set apart. A flower, an unusual landscape, a sunset, or a work of art that has been put into color on canvas. To speak of beauty thus is ordinary and objective. But beauty is something more. It is what was bred into us at birth, an inheritance from the Creator Himself. To look upon beauty is to look upon something of ourselves, set apart into form.

Our personality melts into the very color and frarance of the rose We blend ourselves into the changing moments of beauty, as represented in the sunset, or in the floating fabric of the clouds against the blue sky. We are beauty then, one and all of earth's splendor.

It isn't the mere physical beauty of a great singing voice that we applaud, but the feeling and the appreciation, the melting of our own recognition of its quality, that is inherent in us, that becomes so apparent to us—a genuine meeting of ourselves in that beauty. This is true in any display of beauty, anywhere and at any time.

Edwin Booth, the actor, was in a gathering of a few of his close friends one evening, and one of them asked him to render the Lord's Prayer. It was reported as being one of the most moving expressions ever heard by any of those gathered —so much so that each listener seemed to have been in prayer with the great actor—each in unity with the One who created that prayer. Some might call it all art, but I would call it Beauty.

Science has harnessed natural forces into the radio, so that the human voice now can be sent across the world, without wires to carry it, but a greater thing exists in the invisible forces that enable the heart to unite its beauty into every color, form, or spectacle that the eye looks upon.

When the poet Keats wrote that famous line of his—"a thing of beauty is a joy forever"—he merely emphasized his oneness with all beauty and his oneness with Nature Once these chords of beauty are touched they resound and echo forever. All the earth is a family of expressive beauty!

Education Board Backs Teachers Raise

A program which would increase teachers' salaries from $600 to $1,000 was approved by the Board of Education, after the plan was adopted by members of the Allegany County Teachers' Association.

Harold C. Wickard, Legislative Committee Chairman, said the school board gave the plan full endorsement. Under the program starting teachers with a degree would receive $2,400 instead of the $1,800 now provided and would advance $100 each succeeding year until a maximum of $3,900 was reached. The present high is $2,700.

Legion Favors Naming Recreation Board

Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, went on record at its regular meeting Tuesday night as favoring the immediate formation of a five-man recreation board for the city.

Robert V. Chisholm, post athletic director, said that although the city may not have money for improvements at this time, a recreation board could be formed to make plans for the future. Members of the board could not be paid.

The Legion will inform the Mayor and Council of its action in a letter, Commander Phil Fleming said. The post voted to urge Rep. J. Glenn Beall and Senators Herbert R. O'Conor and Millard E. Tydings to vote for a rent control bill now in Congress. The measure would empower veterans buying homes to evict tenants in 30 days instead of waiting six months, as is now the case.

Teamsters Union Seeks New Koppers Contract

Local 453, Teamsters Union, officials conferred yesterday with the management of the Koppers Company's tie treating plant at Green Spring, W. Va., on terms of a new contract, C. E. Stutzman, business agent, said yesterday. The present agreement expires March 31.

Stutzman added the union is continuing negotiations with the Yellow Top and Johnny's taxicab companies. An agreement was reached with the Astor Cab Company, he added.

The world's largest island, Australia, has 2,974,581 square miles of territory. Most geographers rate it as a continent along with Europe, Asia, Africa, North America and South America.

Teachers Union Lists Points In Program

Incentive and the plan that the maximum salary is reached in six or eight years was listed by the executive board as the chief advantages of the salary schedule advocated by Local 708, Allegany County Teachers Union.

The report, released by Dr. Dorothy Howard, asserts the maximum periods of six or eight years "are as long as can be expected to be practical under present conditions."

The union also termed the current state salary schedule "obsolete" and declared teachers' salaries, like those of others, "should bear relationship to economic conditions of the time."

Increase In Filing Tax Returns Noted

Filing of returns on 1946 income is running ahead of the volume for the same period last year at the office of the Bureau of Internal Revenue in the Post Office Building here, according to Richard J. Stakem, division chief.

Although the deadline for filing is little more than a month from today, a last-minute rush before March 15 will be avoided if the returns keep coming in at the present volume, Stakem said.

Study Group Will Recommend Sales Tax To Gov. Lane

Increase In Income Levy In 1948 Urged

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 12—(AP)—By a vote of 7 to 4, the State Board of Revenue Estimates and the Citizens Advisory Council on New Revenue Sources decided today to recommend to Gov. Lane a two per cent general sales tax.

An increase in the state income tax for the year 1948—to be collected in 1949—also will be recommended to the administration, which must raise an unofficially-estimated $42,000,000 in the next two years to meet rising costs of government.

The four members of the joint financial study group who opposed the sales tax will submit a minority report to the Governor.

The minority voted to recommend a combination of taxes, including levies on cigars and cigarets, alcoholic spirits, a boost in amusement taxes, and on income taxes for the 1949 fiscal year.

Action of the revenue estimates group was disclosed shortly after receiving communications both for and against a sales tax.

He said that most opposition had come within the last few days, since county commissioners and some local delegations in the Legislature announced they were in favor of the sales levy.

It was estimated by the majority on the Board of Estimates group that the proposed sales tax would yield approximately $18,000,000 annually, and the increase in the income tax, about $7,500,000 per year.

The majority's sales tax plan is based on the Ohio program, but instead of a graduated tax from one cent on purchases from nine cents to 40 cents, and four cents on purchases from $1.09 to $1.40, the Maryland tax would be held as closely as possible to 2 per cent.

It was reported that the comptroller's office, working out details, would provide that about $1,000,000 in collections from the sales tax would go to Baltimore City and the counties. This would be in lieu of the distribution of recordation fees and some other income as recommended in the Sherbow Commission report. The amount of money distributed would be about the same, but costs of bookkeeping would be eliminated.

As planned by the majority, the individual income tax rate would be increased from the present two per cent to 2¾ per cent. Corporation income would go up from 1½ per cent to four per cent.

Ex-Columbians Say Race War Planned

ATLANTA, Feb. 12 (AP) — Two former members of Columbians, Inc., testified in Superior (circuit) Court today that the organization planned a war of terror and violence against negroes and Jews.

Testimony of the two was in support of the state's charge that Homer L. Loomis, Jr., executive secretary of the organization, incited a riot by an attack upon a negro walking through a white residential section.

Clarence Kight quoted Loomis as saying he would "run" all Jews and negroes out of the country. Ralph Childers, once decorated by the organization following an attack upon a negro, gave supporting testimony.

Childers, who later went to New York as a guest of the Anti-Nazi League and gave it evidence now being used by the state, also testified that Loomis "said I would be shot—done away with" if he failed to carry out orders.

The youth also told the court that Loomis had said they would dynamite the Atlanta City Auditorium when negroes "are holding a big meeting there." He added siminar threats were made against the Atlanta Constitution and its editor, Ralph McGill, who had been bitterly critical of the organization. He said of McGill that the plan was to "tear him apart."

Preparedness Against Air War Urged By Symington

BALTIMORE, Feb. 12—(AP)—W. Stuart Symington, Assistant Secretary of War for Air, said today that if proposed cuts of more than $1,000,000,000 in appropriations in the federal budget for fiscal 1948 were carried out "I do not believe the security of the United States will be adequate."

Symington, in an address before the Engineers Club of Baltimore, urged preparedness against a possible air war of the future.

Citing what he called an "air frontier" presented by the North Polar regions, he said:

"The mastery of this frontier will have extraordinary value to us in times of peace. From the standpoint of modern war, the mastery of this barrier is vital to national defense."

Judge Upholds Subpoena In Jewel Theft Case

RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 12 (AP) — Federal District Judge Robert N. Pollard upheld today the Army's right to subpoena James E. Durant, of Falls Church, Va., as a material witness in the court-martial trial of his brother, Col. Jack W. Durant, one of the principal defendants in the $1,500,000 theft of the Hesse crown jewels.

The court announced without comment that a motion of James Durant's counsel to quash the subponena had been denied. Judge Pollard said he would explain his action in an opinion tomorrow. Mrs. Martha Evans, former State Department stenographer, was a party to the effort to quash the subpoena but changed her mind and testified Monday.

Two Survivors Of Plane Crash Are Found Alive

SEATTLE, Feb. 12—(AP)—Two survivors of a Coast Guard plane which crashed on Richter Mountain in Southern Oregon yesterday have been found alive, a message relayed to the Coast Guard headquarters here tonight said.

Their names or condition were not given. The message was sent here by Lt. Comdr. R. W. Finley, in charge of a Coast Guard ground party in the area, and it said that the information was obtained from a Sgt. Cressy (first name not given) of the Oregon State Police.

The two were being taken out of the area to obtain physician's care, the message said. The other four occupants of the plane were found killed in the wreckage. The pilot had apparently tried to fly over a ridge but the plane hit the ground and crashed.

Gaps In Reports Of Heart Deaths

NEW YORK, Feb. 12 (AP)—Heart disease may be a much greater killer in America than appears in the nation's annual death rates.

The last count was 418,000 in 1944. Studies made for the current National Heart Week by the American Heart Association indicate there are several gaps in reports of heart deaths.

The 1940 count for heart disease deaths was 385,191. But in that same year there were 112,000 additional deaths in which heart trouble was listed as a contributing cause. Both sets of figures are from death certificates.

No contributing heart trouble figures are available for 1944. But since the heart deaths rose by about 32,000 in the four years from 1940 it appears likely that the heart death assists remained at more than 100,000.

The listing of deaths from heart disease follows a form set by international agreement. There are six causes of heart trouble in this form.

Missing from the form, and often not always entered as heart deaths, according to the American Heart Association study, are those from syphilis, congenital malformations of the heart, and some deaths that occur in acute rheumatic fever.

There are no figures to show how many deaths in these classes fail to get recorded as due to heart failure.

Crippled Youth Shoots His Father

NEW YORK, Feb. 12—(AP)—A crippled 18-year-old youth shot and critically wounded his policeman father today during a wrangle between the parents, Assistant District Attorney Victory Levin, of Queens county, said.

Patrolman Robert J. Smith, 41, a bullet in a lung, was taken to a hospital where he was reported in critical condition.

The son, Joseph, was charged with felonious assault.

Levin gave this account of the shooting:

The policeman berated his wife, Evelyn, 36, for not having breakfast prepared for him following his tour of duty. An argument ensued. Starting to undress, the policeman laid his holster on the foot of a twin bed where Joseph lay in the same room.

The youth told his father to stop arguing with his mother. Picking up the gun, Joseph shouted at his father, whose back was turned to him: "If you don't stop it, Pop, I'll shoot."

"Well, go ahead and shoot," the policeman replied, without turning around.

Joseph pulled the trigger, and a bullet entered his father's back.

Aiken Couples Praise Of Lincoln With Advice

SALISBURY, Md., Feb. 12—(AP)—Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.) tonight coupled praise of Abraham Lincoln with advice that his party "be imbued with something of Lincoln's desire for good government."

"I do not mean to imply that our party's interest in good government is a newly-acquired interest," the Vermonter told a Lincoln Day banquet.

"We must not, however," he said, "interpret our (November) victory to mean that the voters have overnight become passionately devoted to the Republican Party."

"The hard cold fact should not be overlooked that the electorate did not vote for Republicans last November so much as they voted against the administration then in power."

Talmadge Claim To Governorship Upheld By Judge

Ga. Dispute Heads For Higher Court

McDONOUGH, Ga., Feb. 12, (AP)—A Superior (Circuit) Court upheld Herman Talmadge today in his claim to the governorship of Georgia, but final decision rested with the State Supreme Court which already has one diametrically-opposite decision of another judge awaiting review.

Stolid, florid Judge Walter C. Hendrix, of the Fulton (Atlanta) Circuit, held unequivocally for Talmadge and dismissed suit by Lt.-Gov. M. E. Thompson for a declaratory judgment ousting Talmadge from office. He ruled in a 2,600-word decision that Georgia's Legislature was authorized to ignore 143,000 votes cast for Eugene Talmadge, after the latter died December 21, 1946, and held the Assembly was within its constitutional rights when it elected 'Gene's 33-year-old son to serve the elder Talmadge's four-year term.

Porter Upheld Thompson

At Rome, Ga., last week, another superior judge, Claude Porter, took the opposite view. He held the Legislature had exceeded its authority, and declared Lt.-Gov. Thompson was legal "acting governor" in succession to Gov. Ellis Arnall, resigned. The Porter decision is docketed for hearing by the Supreme Court early in March.

Counsel for Thompson said today's decision by Hendrix would be appealed "at once," with a bill of exceptions to be prepared possibly within 24 hours. The winter docket of the Supreme Court closes February 19.

Neither Indicates Surprise

Neither Talmadge nor Thompson indicated surprise at today's development. Talmadge said the judgment "sustains our contentions" that it was mandatory on the Legislature to elect a Governor.

Thompson commented: "Both Judge Hendrix and Judge Porter are honorable men and highly respected as judges throughout the state. The next decision rests with the State Supreme Court. The people are entitled to the earliest possible final decision on this issue."

Thompson made his comment before Hendrix announced his decision, explaining: "This stands as my comment before the decision, and will still be my comment after the decision."

Mechanical Calculator To Be Taken To Aberdeen

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 12 (AP) — One of the world's largest mechanical calculators—known as the electronic numerical integrator and computor—is being moved from the University of Pennsylvania to the Army Ordnance Depot at Aberdeen, Md.

Constructed by the Moore School of Electrical Engineering, the huge device was considered the university's greatest wartime achievement although not finished until a year ago.

Workmen have removed a section of a laboratory wall to permit transfer of the instrument which is expected to require several months. Moore School engineers will reassemble the computor at Aberden.

Lynn, Mass., Fire Drives 70 Persons Into Street

LYNN, Mass., Feb. 12—(AP)—Seventy persons were driven to the street and two firemen were injured tonight in a fire that engulfed a three-story building housing 30 apartments and five stores.

The general alarm blaze—threatening a heavily-populated residential area in the vicinity of Summer and Vine Streets—brought out all available fire-fighting equipment.

Fireman Williiam Halley was removed to Lynn Hospital after he fell down a stairway in dense smoke at the height of the fire. His injuries were not known. A second fireman suffered minor injuries and was treated at the scene.

Fire officials said they expected the building would be destroyed and that damage would exceed $50,000.

Second Son Is Born To Actress Ruth Hussey

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 12 (AP)—A second son was born today to Film and Stage Actress Ruth Hussey, wife of William Longnecker, actors agent.

Good Samaritan Hospital attendants said the child, born by a Caesarean operation, weighed six pounds, seven ounces and that baby and mother were "getting along fine." The baby will be named John William.

Miss Hussey and her husband have a two and a half year old son, George Robert.

CAUGHT THIEF—Yvonne Sola, 10, daughter of Maj. Gerald C. Sola, Jacksonville, Fla., holds tightly to her pet dog, which aided her in capturing a German "shuttle thief" in Frankfurt, Germany. The child chased and cornered in a basement a suspicious-looking stranger carrying two bulging suitcases and, while the dog held him at bay, one of Yvonne's playmates called police. The authorities believe he is a member of a ring of thieves who steal articles in the British zone and peddle them in the American zone, hence the appellation "shuttle thief."

Deputy Sheriff Dies In Gun Fight

PAULS VALLEY, Okla., Feb. 12—(AP)—A deputy sheriff was shot to death, and two men critically wounded today when, Sheriff Fred Cregger reported, a man taken into custody drew a revolver, fired several shots and escaped in a commandeered car.

Cregger said the man was G. W. Beasley, 20, whom they had intended to question about an automobile theft. He identified the dead officer as Deputy Sheriff Lon Pearson. Another deputy, Bill Paul, and Clarence Mays, 65, a retired farmer, were wounded by the revolver shots.

Paul, in critical condition from a head wound, signed a statement which Cregger quoted:

"G. W. Beasley shot all three."

Cregger related this story:

The deputies and Mays, who "went along for the ride," had gone to Beasley's country home to arrest him for investigation. On the way back, Beasley rode his motorcycle and the officers drove their car. When Beasley asked them to stop while he repaired his vehicle, the shooting started.

About a half mile from the scene of the shooting, Beasley commandeered a car driven by a friend, J. B. Carpenter, and in which Beasley's wife and two-year-old son were riding. Carpenter said he was driving them to town, following the officers' automobile.

Beasley released Carpenter after driving a few miles. He drove on with Mrs. Beasley and the child but released them about eight miles east, near the home of relatives.

Girl Mauled By Bear Tries Out Wheel Chair

BALTIMORE, Feb. 12 (AP) — Anna Louise (Tini) Hastings, four, whose leg was amputated after a mauling by a pet bear, tried out her new wheel chair today and took a doll along for the ride.

Hospital officials said she is "coming along fine," and that at present no further operations appear necessary. Her left leg was amputated at the knee.

She was bitten by "Pete," main attraction at the Bear Inn in Pikesville. The bear, a gift to the Druid Hill Park Zoo upon the death of its owner, James W. Henry, was taken to the zoo the day after the accident.

Transport Still Helpless In Grip Of Antarctic Gale

Coast Guardsmen's Efforts Thwarted

ABOARD USS NORTHWIND IN ANTARCTICA, Feb. 12 (AP) — The crippled and punctured transport Merrick still pitched helplessly in the grip of an Antarctic gale early today more than five hours after her rudder had been smashed by a storm-tossed ice floe.

Heroic efforts of Coast Guardsmen aboard the icebreaker Northwind were thwarted when the tow cable they had run to the stricken vessel became entangled in the Northwind's screws and had to be severed.

The tow had been proceeding haltingly under the combined handicaps of seas whipped by 55-knot winds, roving icebergs and visibility cut by driving snows and the semi-darkness of the Antarctic night.

Suddenly a gust hurled the disabled Merrick off course. The cable became slack and wound around the screws of the icebreaker. Both vessels then were helpless.

They were tossed against one another by the storm as winds drove them rapidly toward an almost solid pack of the Ross ice barrier. There was no choice but to sever the cable.

The suddenly freed cable whipped across the deck of the Northwind, breaking a stanchion and narrowly missed sweeping a sailor into the water.

Capt. Charles Thomas ordered the Northwind to ride aside the Merrick and serve as a buffer against the ice pack it was approaching, while men worked swiftly in the dull light to completely free the fouled lines.

The two ships soon were lashed together. The strong hull of the Northwind warded the menacing ice away from the more vulnerable transport, but the bucking of ship against ship in the storm opened two gashes above the Merrick's waterline.

Slaying Suspect May Be Released

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 12 (AP) — Lie detector tests and other evidence have virtually eliminated Frank French, 47, police said today, as a suspect in the slaying of his wife, Jeanne French, 40-year-old former aviatrix, nurse and film bit player, whose trampled and lipstick-branded body was found in an isolated section Monday.

"He doesn't show any consciousness of guilt, his statements are straightforward and the physical evidence seems to check him out," said Ray Pinker, head of the police crime laboratory, in reporting on the lie detector test.

French, aircraft worker and former Marine Corps sergeant major, was still held in West Los Angeles on a booking of suspicion of murder but detectives there said he might be released today or tomorrow.

Detective Lt. Gene Bechtel said French's landlady has corroborated his statement that he was in his rooming house at the approximate time of the slaying and that his shoeprints do not match those found at the scene.

Downing Resigns Md. Banking Post

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 12—(AP)—Gov. Lane announced tonight the resignation of John W. Downing, of Salisbury, State Banking Commissioner, who said that he must devote "all of my time to my personal business affairs."

The governor, who said in a letter that he realized Downing had "devoted nearly eight years of faithful service to the efficient direction of the Banking Department," asked the Commissioner to remain until the end of his term, May 5. Downing had suggested that his resignation become effective March 15.

Lane said that he hoped that Downing could arrange his personal affairs so as to remain until the end of his term.

There were reports that J. Millard Tawes, of Crisfield, former comptroller who opposed Lane in the Democratic primary for governor last year, might be appointed to the banking post.

No Withdrawal Of Lilienthal's Nomination Seen

Truman Won't Back Down, Officials Say

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 (AP) — An administration source of high authority said tonight that President Truman has no idea of backing down on his nomination of David E. Lilienthal to be chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Lilienthal conferred late today at the White House with Clark M. Clifford, special counsel to the President and one of the Chief Executive's closest advisers. The visit gave rise to some speculation that his visit might be in connection with suggestions from Senate opponents that the President might do well to recall the nomination and avoid a growing fight.

While Clifford would not discuss his parley with Lilienthal in any detail, other sources high in the councils of the President said the former TVA chairman had no thought of asking a withdrawal of his nomination in the face of opposition from some senators.

A reporter, who talked with Lilienthal as he entered the White House, was told by Lilienthal that he was calling on Clifford, and not the President. He said he wanted to discuss some "routine matters" with the President's legal adviser.

This version of the call was echoed by Clifford. However, other sources familiar with the call said that there was a general discussion of the confirmation fight.

One official particularly close to Mr. Truman said, "absolutely not," when he was asked if Lilienthal had any idea of suggesting withdrawal of the nomination. This source would not allow the use of his name.

Sen. Moore (R-Okla) and O'Daniel (D-Tex) meanwhile came out against Lilienthal, but Sen. Myers (D-Pa) called him a "perfect choice."

That Ring Around the Bathtub

Jeb Crowell blew his top the other day. Seems that for weeks he's been trying to get his youngsters to scrub out the bathtub after using it. And this night he sees two rings around it—one where young Sonny left off, and another about Pinky's level.

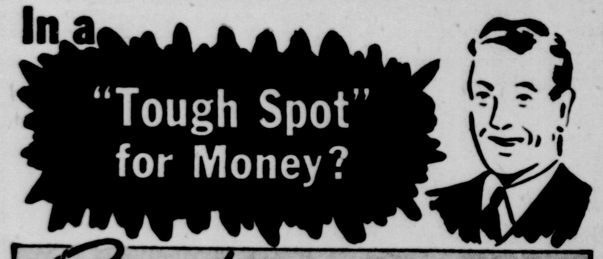

He raves and rants—and takes it out on the missus for her lack of discipline. And later that evening he sees her quietly polishing the hardwood table that's right by his chair. She's removing the rings he's left there with his evening glass of beer!

From now on, Jeb's careful to put his glass down on the table cover—like the missus does. And I hear he's a little more forgiving about rings around the bathtub. Just keeps on patiently reminding.

From where I sit, there are little annoyances in every family—conflicting habits and opinions in every community. A little patience—a little more "forgive and let live" is the only antidote.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Girl Who Can't Seem To Make Friends And Keep Them Is In "Mess"

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a girl of 18 who can't seem to make friends and keep them. Now I'm in one heck of a mess.

There is one girl and boy who are playing me for a fool, and I'm too soft-hearted to do anything about it. They go together, and when they have a fight, they both call me and ask me to fix things up. I do just as they tell me, but some times it's pretty tough.

Now this girl's mother blames me for causing all the trouble between these two, and forbids us to be friends. How can I make her mother see that I had nothing to do with this girl's disagreements with her boy friend, and am I right when I say that the kind of girl who lets her mother believe such things isn't the kind I want for a friend?

"A. G."

Those who let themselves become involved in other people's business are almost crtain to end up in "one heck of a mess" sooner or later, "A. G." Since you know these two are "playing you for a fool" why do you let them do it? And why on earth should you "do just as they tell you"? Don't you think you're showing pretty poor judgment, to say the least, in allowing anyone to dominate you this way?

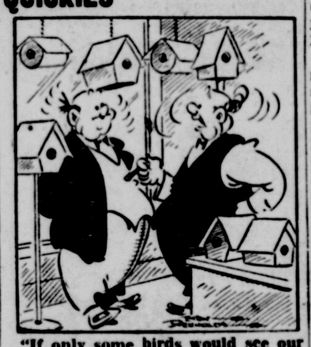

Perhaps you're so eager to be liked that you'll do anything to make yourself appear agreeable and cooperative. But you'll have to learn ti discriminate; to know when to do as you're asked, and when it's wiser to politely refuse. This is the secret of a strong personality; the sort of personality that people admire and respect.

So don't be so weak that you let yourself be pulled this way and that, trying to please everybody. Stand on your own feet and be independent—in a nice friendly way, of course—and I'm sure you'll find you make friends much better than you do now.

As for this particular girl and her mother, I suggest you stop worrying about the mand let things take their natural course. Trying to make explanations will probably only complicate the situation still more. It doesn't sound to be me as though you'd lose anything very valuable if you lost this girl as a friend.

LIFE'S CALLING YOUR BLUFF

Tough times these—
Life's calling your bluff.
For years you and Life
Have been playing a game,
A game like poker,
Life dealing, you taking
And acting wise,
Acting as if you held
All the aces.
Well, maybe you have them
And maybe you haven't.
Now's the time
You've got to prove it.

For this, stranger,
Is the show-down.
Some call it "recession"
Names don't matter
It's really a showdown;
A showdown for everything
And everybody;
A showdown to prove
Whether people and things
Are face cards
Or two-spots.

Life's saying to you,
Saying to everybody:
"What've you got?
"What've you really got
"In your hand?
"You've pretended to have
"A full house
"Or a royal flush.
"You've boasted that
"Nothing could lick you
"Well, how about it?
"Can you prove it?
"Here's your chance, now
"SHOW YOUR HAND!"

Life's calling your bluff;
Saying that to you,
What are you answering?
Are you saying:
"Hold on, Life!
"That isn't fair.
"Naturally I can't make
"A good showing now.
"The war boom's over;
"The government's blooey;
"I've no job,
"No money;
"Can't borrow;
"Busted flat;
"But that's not my fault
"It's not fair
"To call me for that!"

That's what you say
But life answers:
"I'm not asking
"A showdown on money,
"Or jobs, or credits.
"I'm asking
"A showdown on YOU.
"What are you holding
"In YOU, YOURSELF?
"If YOU, YOURSELF,
"Have got the stuff,
"You'll take the pot
"Nothing can lick you,
"Things may be tough,
"Mighty tough;
"But nothing can lick you
"If you've got the stuff,
"BUT HAVE YOU?"

"Have you got the stuff
"In YOU, YOURSELF?"

That's what Life's saying
These days. And this:
"Are you a self-starter,
"Or just a pan-handler?
"Have you brains, or
"Are you just a smarty?
"Have you courage, or
"Are you just a show-off?
"Brains and courage—
"They're the face cards!
"If you have those
"You'll win any game,
"No matter how tough
"The deal;
"But if you haven't
"You're a washout,
"Even if you're dealt
"The whole pack.
"So quit your stalling
"Kid; I'm calling you.
"No more bluffing!
"SHOW YOUR HAND!"

Alexander Graham Bell Was a Right Smart Man

HOLDEN, Me. (AP) — Howard S. Naugler, "nearly 90," was coaxed by his family into making a telephone call—the first in his life—to an 81-year-old crony who had never before used the contraption, either.

Thomas R. Merritt, 81, of Brewer, said he couldn't hear Naugler any too well but agreed with him that inventor Alexander Graham Bell—born 100 years ago—had been a right smart man.

183 Celanese Vets Lose Lives In War

Slightly less than three per cent of the 5,069 employes of the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America inducted into the armed forces before January 1, made the supreme sacrifice, Edward R. Allen, plant personnel manager, revealed in a letter to Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, Amercian Legion.

Allan said 138 of the plant's employes died in World War II. He added that the exact number wounded in action is not known but that 73 were reported missing in action and that 255 of the 3,924 employes who returned to the plant received disability discharges. Seriously handicapped veterans number 57.

Another group of 328 veterans not previously employed at the Celanese plant have been hired, he added.

Allan points out that there are members of one group of veterans, who by virtue of strict seniority interpretation of the company's contract with Local 1874, TWUA, are denied the privilege of returning to their original positions after having taken promotions to jobs made vacant by another employe entering the armed forces.

Negotiations with the union are under way, Allan said, to obtain for this group the same liberal arrangements as extended to those who are permitted to consider any transfer during the emergency period as temporary and allowed to return to their original job without loss of seniority.

Mountaineers Balk At Swiss Exercise Rule

BERN—A federal regulation for compulsory gymnastics for every school boy in Switzerland has provoked protests from the provinces, especially from mountainous areas.

The regulation said that each school class must have three hours of gymnastics per week. For the third hour, afternoon games or sport may be substituted for the gym classes. Participation by school boys is obligatory. The government recommended the same regimen for girls.

Three hours per week, said one newspaper, Fuerstenlaender, was "dictated by the confederation military department. What the military department wants is to militarize our youth."

Another newspaper, Walliser Bote, asserted "we send our children to school to learn; they can get enough exercise by herding goats during their vacation."

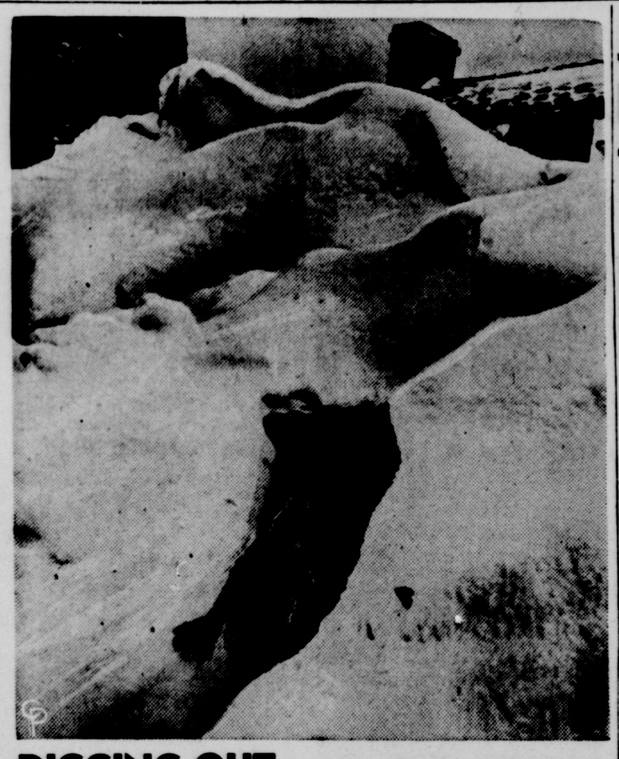

Long Distance Mouse Has A Tight Squeak

DES MOINES (AP)—A small boy about 10 approached the manager of a hotel in unhappy excitement, saying he had lost his pet white mouse in the hotel telephone coin box.

Near tears, the boy explained that the mouse had run down his sleeve and into the coin return slot and finally into the coin box.

The manager called the equally skeptical telephone company which dispatched a repairman. When the coin box was removed, there, sure enough, was the boy's pet.

Stuffing the wee animal into a coat pocket, the lad said "thank you" and went home smiling.

DIGGING OUT—According to an old saying "an Englishman's house is his castle." But now it's his igloo, as demonstrated by this housewife whose only exit from her Peak Forest, England, home is a tunnel cut through a snowdrift that has buried the house. The worst winter blizzards Britishers can recall not only has cut villages off from food, fuel and power, but it has created a national economic crisis.

Bills Would Grant Larger Measure Of Home Rule To Maryland Counties

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 12 (AP) — Two Harford county delegates chose the birthday anniversary of "The Great Emancipator," Abraham Lincoln, to introduce bills in the House today granting a larger measure of home rule to Maryland's 23 counties.

The bills, sponsored by Delegates Clark and James, both Democrats, are similar to three ill-fated measures sponsored in the 1945 session by the Legislative Council.

At that time Senate President James Lindsay, of Baltimore county, an ardent supporter of a program to lessen the burden of the legislature by reducing the number of minor local bills, successfully steered the bills through the Senate.

But when they came across to the House, Speaker John S. White, of Prince George's county — who said he was opposed to home rule and made no bones about it—referred the bills to the Corporations Committee. The bills stayed there and never came before the House for action.

One of the Clark-James bills calls for an amendment to the constitution, and would be voted on in a referendum in 1948. It would remove the constitutional monopoly granted the Legislature to pass on a list of minor matters which are itemized in the two companion bills.

"The bills let county commissioners know specifically what authority and powers they have, as well as broadening their powers," Clark explained later.

"The majority of local legislation now is a result of commissioners questioning the authority they have, and this is one way to set them clear to act without bothering the legislature with trivialities."

James and Clark explained that the constitutional amendment also contained a safeguard for local legislation. In event that a county commission failed to act after home rule was authorized, the legislature could come back to Annapolis and take jurisdiction.

Under one bill, county governments would be granted 18 separate functions now performed by the legislature. In the other bill, municipalities would be empowered to act in 31 specific instances.

County commissioners would have power, among other things, to set salaries of all appointed officers and employes of the county; set up merit, pension and retirement systems; provide for competitive bidding for any county construction, roads, sidewalks; to fix the allowance for sheriffs to board prisoners.

Cities and counties would be permitted to borrow money without first asking the Legislature for an enabling act.

Counties could float bonds of not more than seven per cent of the value of real estate in the county. A referendum is provided where the issue planned was to be one fourth of one per cent of the assessable basis, or more.

The top bond issue limit for cities would be 10 per cent of the city's real estate assessment, and a referendum would be required at one-half of one per cent.

Legislators Give Red Cold Shoulder

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 12 (AP) — A State Senate Labor Committee hearing on a Maryland wage-bill ended abruptly today when most of those present walked out on a Communist Party official as she spoke in support of the proposal.

Mrs. Dorothy Blumberg, head of the Communist Party in the state, took the floor after two hours of testimony had been heard.

As soon as she announced she was representing the Communist Party, Francis Silver, a Darlington farmer, objected to her speaking.

He was not recognized by Committee Chairman Della (D-Balto 6th), and many persons in the crowded chamber filed out.

As the room began to empty, Mrs. Blumberg said in a loud voice:

"Courtesy is at least part of the American way of life."

Delegate John Reed (D-Balto 5th), then stated that "I have carried a union card for 28 years and am heartily in favor of all labor legislation. However, every time a good law comes up, the Communists, CIO and all labor cross each other up so nothing is done."

"I say to groups wanting labor legislation, don't send the Reds here to back it up. The Communists have ruined this state."

Altogether 16 persons spoke in favor of the measure, which would set up wage and hour legislation parallel to those of federal laws. The majority were labor leaders, members of the Maryland League of Women Voters and of the American Association of University Women.

Story Of Jewels Hidden In Candy Bar Enters Trial

Col. Durant's Brother Must Answer Subpoena

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12—(AP)—Evidence of smuggled jewels embedded in a candy bar entered the Hesse gem theft trial of Col. Jack W. Durant today. Also, his brother lost an attempt to avoid giving testimony.

Federal District Judge Robert N. Pollard ruled at Richmond, Va., Durant, a government accountant, that Durant's brother, James E. Durant, must answer a subpoena issued by the military court trying the Air Forces officer.

Col. Durant is being tried here in connection with the theft of the fabulous $1,500,000 Hesse crown jewel fortune from a German castle occupied by American forces as a rest camp.

The candy bar-jewel smuggling story entered the case by way of a deposition introduced over defense objections by Maj. Joseph S. Robinson, trial prosecutor. The deposition was given as absentee testimony by Mary Elizabeth (Peggy) Harvey, a housewife in Belfast, Ireland. Her testimony was that she received the candy bar containing diamonds from Maj. David S. Watson, an officer already convicted and sentenced to three years imprisonment in the case. An Army WAC, Kathleen Nash Durant, wife of Col. Durant, also has been convicted in the case and sentenced to a five-year term.

No connection was given between Col. Durant and the candy bar, but the prosecution has charged a conspiracy existed for disposing of the Hesse family heirlooms.

Two Washington jewelers testified today that Col. Durant brought them three diamonds last March 14 and, after haggling over the price, sold them for $357.

Mayflower Evades Scrap Pile Again

BALTIMORE, Feb. 12 (AP)—The Mayflower, one-time private yacht of Presidents, has escaped the scrap pile again—this time in exchange for a tour of duty as an Arctic sealing ship.

She's being converted at the Bethlehem Steel Company's Key Highway shipyard, where all her below-deck compartments are being torn out to make storage space for seal fats and pelts.

The 50-year-old yacht, once valued at half a million dollars, was sold for the seventh time last November. Frank M. Shaw, of Montreal, Canada, sole bidder, paid the United States Maritime Commission $20,159 for the craft.

She had been on the rim of the scrap pile several years ago when she was converted into a submarine chaser.

Before that she had been seized once in a $785 debt proceedings and later valued by the Navy as $7,666 worth of junk—at 1931 prices.

Presidents Theodore Roosevelt, Taft, Wilson, Harding and Coolidge held conferences on her decks. Hoover ordered the vessel laid up in 1929.

William Windsor, in charge of the reconversion job, said the Mayflower will carry 200 men into the Arctic and is expected to store 1,000 tons of fats and hides, worth about $750 a ton in Canada.

"I'M SORRY SON"—Horace Kendrick (right), 24, accused in complaint signed by his father of having led two gunmen to his father's home and standing in a back room while the gunmen held up his family, tearfully pleads for "another chance" as he meets his father, Ira Kendrick (left), in Detroit police headquarters. The elder Kendrick explained "I'm sorry son . . . It's too late now."

Sister Kenny To Retire From Active Polio Work

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 12 (AP) — E. O. Hubbard, chairman of the Northern California State Committee for the Sister Elizabeth Kenny Foundation, said tonight that Sister Kenny would announce her retirement from active duty in her infantile paralysis work in Minneapolis on Friday.

Hubbard declared in a statement that the famed Australian nurse would make public her plans at a meeting of the Minneapolis City Council.

He added:

"Sister Kenny has said, and plans to repeat to the council, that the staff of the Kenny Institute is now fully qualified to carry on and teach her work. She feels that she must, because of her age, place most of the responsibility for treatment and teaching upon the Kenny staff."

Sen. Kimble

said, that if a big bill is to be explained, one explanation should suffice.

He added that the principal purpose of the meeting was to outline the mechanics of the budget for the benefit of new members who might not understand procedure.

Otherwise, the Assembly went quietly through another day, albeit with strong hints from the administration that activity must be speeded up if the work is completed in time.

"Home rule" for counties and cities of Maryland was proposed in the House in a group of three bills by Delegates Clark and James (D-Harford). The measures, which would give greater powers to county commissioners and municipal councils, are identical with a set submitted in 1945 by the Legislative Council.

The measures passed the Senate in 1945 but Speaker John White, an opponent of home rule, sent them to committee where they died.

The House moved to at last rid itself of the Maryland-Virginia oyster war by approving a committee report which amends a Senate bill on illegal oystering in the Potomac.

As now amended, the bill would allow Maryland to confiscate Virginia boats fishing illegally in the Potomac river but the operators would still be tried in Virginia courts, as they have since 1885.

The bill will be up for passage tomorrow, along with a resolution for appointment of three Marylanders on a joint commission of Potomac affairs. The bill, of course, will have to return to the Senate for concurrence in amendments but its passage seemed certain, since Gov. Lane is backing it.

After the session, the Senate chamber was filled with labor leaders from Baltimore and other parts of the state, along with opponents of a bill which would set up a wage hour law for Maryland.

The measure, sponsored by Sen. Della (D-Balto 6th) would create standards of wages and hours for intrastate commerce, with a maximum of 40 hours work a week and a minimum of 65 cents an hour.

The Senate passed 10 minor Senate measures and approved 14 minor House bills and sent them to the governor.

The House approved 23 of its own measures and sent five Senate bills to the governor.

Repeal Of 112-Year-Old State Law Is Favored

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 12 (AP) — Philip B. Perlman, solicitor general of the United States, asserted today that exemption of honorary members of the Maryland militia from jury service was "wrong in principle," and urged repeal of the 112-year-old state law.

He gave his views at a hearing of the House Judiciary Committee on a bill which would repeal the statute. Five of Maryland's ranking soldiers, headed by Maj. Gen. Milton A. Reckord, testified in opposition to the repealer.

Perlman, a Baltimorean, said the repealer had the approval of the Star Bar Association and the Legislative Council, and had already been passed by the Senate.

Johnston, for the soft coal operators, already had predicted an inevitable strike by July 1 unless the mine union or Congress backs down on the welfare fund issue.

He contended today that the government contract with Lewis, by which the mines are now operating, is illegal because of the royalty fund but nevertheless urged specific legislation outlawing such levies.

Hermit Leaves Forest By Plane

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., Feb. 12 (AP)—Bearded Noah Rondeau rested in the luxury of a hotel room tonight after a helicopter had plucked him from the heart of a three-million acre Adirondack wilderness on the first leg of his journey to New York city.

"Up to now I felt the air was only for birds," the 63-year-old hermit remarked as he landed here after his first flight. "But now I feel aviation is here to stay."

Rondeau, who has lived for 33 years in a crude shelter 22 miles from here, will fly to New York Friday for the opening of the National Sportsmen's Show.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 12 (AP)—Commenting on a statement by Herb Pennock that high salaries will "ruin" baseball, President Bill Veeck of the Cleveland Indians suggested today the Philadelphia Phillies general manager take "care of his own business."

"I would suggest to Mr. Pennock that if he took care of his own business, he would have his hands full," Veeck said. "I'm too busy myself to comment on how to operate the Philadelphia club."

Pennock said that although he was speaking of salaries generally, he had in mind particularly the $80,000 Bobby Feller is expected to receive from Cleveland this year and the $60,000 which he figured Hal Newhouser and Ted Williams would receive from Detroit and Boston.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 (AP)—The Weather Bureau said today the cold wave which had held most of the eastern two-thirds of the nation in its grip for almost a week has "finally ended."

The bureau estimated freeze damage to citrus fruits and cut crops in Florida at $50,000,000, but said advance warning and timely protective measures had prevented additional losses of $10,000,000 to $20,000,000 or more.

The cold wave began with a record 81 degrees below zero in the Yukon, the lowest temperature ever recorded in North America.

Gas Line Break Brings Industry Shutdowns In Pa.

Service Is Expected To Be Resumed Soon

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 12 (AP) — A major segment of Western Pennsylvania industry, barely on the road to recovery after a week-long total gas shutdown due to a cold wave, was crippled again tonight when a 20-inch natural gas line from Texas, serving 154 plants broke near Charleston, W. Va.

The line, from which the Peoples Natural Gas Company gets its supply, was expected to be repaired within a few hours, a spokesman for the Tennessee Gas and Transmission Company reported. The break was described as a "welding rupture." It was expected the flow of gas would be resumed shortly after repairs were completed.

Getting Back To Normal

Otherwise, the Ohio-Pennsylvania-West Virginia tri-state area was getting back to normal, after a cold wave gas shortage had made 110,000 workers idle—50,000 in Pennsylvania and 30,000 each in Ohio and West Virginia.

Equitable Gas Company, one of the three main concerns serving the area, restored 100 per cent service today; the Manufacturers Light and Heat Company gave manufacturers 25 per cent of their normal supplies and said the amount would be increased to 50 per cent tomorrow morning. Peoples, the third firm in the area, ordered a 100 per cent shutdown after the Charleston line break.

The cancellation of service forced United States Steel Corporation to delay plans for returning "several open hearths" to operation and kept 3,000 workers idle at Johnstown, Donora and Vandergrift, Pa. Allegheny Ludlum Steel Corporation curtailed operations, sending 1,200 home at Leechburg, Pa., and an unspecified "substantial number" at Brackenridge, Pa.

Cumberland Gets Increase

Other plants reported at least 3,000 furloughed until the line break was repaired.

The increase in gas supplies to industrial customers announced by manufacturers for its 154 customers also affects these other members of the "Pittsburgh groups" of the Columbia Gas and Electric System: Cumberland and Allegheny, Cumberland, Md.; Natural Gas Company of West Virginia, Wheeling; Gettysburg Gas Corporation, Gettysburg, Pa.; Keystone Gas Company, Olean, N. Y., and the Binghampton Gas Works, Binghampton, N. Y.

Polish Amnesty Act

WARSAW, Feb. 12—(AP)—President Boleslaw Bierut promised underground bands today that they may come out of the forests if they would lay down their arms, and announced a broad general amnesty act which may empty jails of [illegible] prisoners.

By JOHN CROSBY

We View With Alarm Or Possibly Gratification. . . .

Any columnist of stature deals heavily in significance, that is, he assembles a certain amount of information, assays its atomic weight, determines its molecular structure and, enfin, reaches conclusions. Now and then, he has difficulty finding a conclusion to fit the facts, though obviously there is a conclusion somewhere to be found. The information at hand obviously is fraught with significance but just what it is the columnist can't at the moment decide.

John Crosby

The following items of disassociated information have been cluttering up my basket for weeks waiting for a conclusion or, at the very least, an implication to be drawn from them. They all have import of some sort; they indicate something or other; they are pregnant, as it were, with meaning, inner meaning. But I'm darned if I know what they signify and I pass them along to the rest of you, partly because so much significance should not be lost to the world but mostly to get them out of the basket to make room for the rest of the significant items that will come in the morning mail.

Johnny Olsen, master of ceremonies on a give-away show called "Ladies Be Seated," recently was presented with a gift certificate by a member of the audience to whom he was endeavoring to give something. The gift certificate entitled him to a new hat. . .Gabriel Heatter has asked Congress to adopt a resolution placing responsibility for the use of the atomic bombs against Japan squarely on the shoulders of the American people, all of them. . .

Mrs. Adele King, of North Adams, Mass., won $1,000 on the "Pot O' Gold" program when her phone number was picked by the Tums Giant Selector. A boarder who answered the phone was asked what he thought Mrs. King planned to do first when she got the money. "Count it," replied the boarder. . .There is a spot announcement on WHN in New York which goes: "Sell your diamonds at Empire, sell your diamonds at Empire, sell your diamonds at Empire." Then the announcer interrupts with the statement: "No, this is not a scratched record." The other day an announcer went berserk and muttered: "But I wish it were." . .

WMCA in New York is broadcasting records designed to make it easier to get food into small children. Each record presents a different character who is supposed to be an eating companion for the child. At breakfast the eating companion is Doc Clock; at lunch it's Happity-Yappity-Appetite, at dinner it's Sip-Sip-Supper. . .

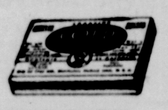

Robert Trout, in his evening news program (C.B.S. 6:45 p. m. E.S.T.) reported recently that the "Rocket Dictionary of Current Americanism, New Words and Slangs" is a best seller in Japan these days. The pocket dictionary defines among other things the phrases "wise dough" and "oh, my aching back." The word "tank," it is explained, is a verb meaning something GI beer drinkers do in their spare time, usually in saloons. "Pop" means explosion, soft drink and father, just in case you didn't know.

A "teria" is a place where you buy things — "groceryteria" for groceries, "drugteria" for malted milks, "candyteria" for Hershey bars. "In the near future," said Mr. Trout, "a new kind of interpreter will be needed to translate the language of those Japanese who have learned English this way. The translators, of course, will be hired at the translatorteria."

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 12—In all this bitter criticism directed against motion pictures and salacious exploitation it's good that Brynie Foy is putting a story with the charm of "Kenny" into production.

Sally Eilers

Cathy Downs, the girl who scored as Harold Russell's girl-bride in "The Best Years of Our Lives," has been borrowed from Sam Goldwyn to play the feminine lead in the Bromfield story. Louis, himself, will be out here the end of the month to give his okay on the final script.

I read "Kenny" when it was serialized in Cosmopolitan magazine. There's delicacy and sentiment in this story of a young farm boy killed in the war whose spirit somehow comes back to console his heartbroken young wife. Believe me, we can use pictures of this type. The movie pace lately has been too hot—in spots.

There will be no battle for the best Joan of Arc between Ingrid Bergman and Jennifer Jones because David Selznick says he will probably not do "Joan Of Arc" with Jennifer.

That leaves the field clear for Ingrid who will start her picture with Walter Wanger and Victor Fleming as soon as she leaves Broadway. Ingrid made "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" with Vic and she is delighted he is to be her director again.

Gabriel Pascal has such a heavy schedule outlined of Shaw's plays that his plan to make "St. Joan" with Vivien Leigh seems a little remote, too.

"Ballad and the Source" and all future Wanger productions will be made at the Roach Studios.

Remind me not to get in any more star-studio battles Here comes Republic now with a statement saying that Constance Moore was offered an amicable settlement and that negotiations with her were started before they knew she was expecting a baby.

William Saul, speaking for the studio, said that Constance had asked for six months' leave of absence to do a Broadway play before they knew she was awaiting motherhood.

Well, all I know is what Connie says, that there was nothing said about her leaving Republic until they found out she would have to take time off to await the arrival of her baby.

There isn't a word of truth in the report, printed and aired, that Sigrid Gurie and her husband, Dr. Lawrence Spangard, are separated. He couldn't have been more upset than he was when he telephoned asking me to correct the story—not circulated here, by the way.

"Sigrid was in Norway a long time making a documentary film," Dr. Spangard said, "and I have been in poor health for five years. But we have had no trouble—other than being very upset over this groundless gossip."

Chatter in Hollywood: The rumors have been flying fast and thick that Sally Eilers is about to take a fourth bridegroom, wealthy Irving Florsheim of Chicago.

Yesterday a telephone call to Sally, who is visiting at the Florsheim home in Palm Springs with her son, Harry Joe Brown, Jr., brought this information.

"I have no intention of marrying again. I'm very fond of Mr. Florsheim and think he's a fine man, but don't you think I've had enough marriages?"

Sally was first married to Hoot Gibson, then Harry Joe Brown, and during the war to Howard Barney from whom she recently obtained a Mexican divorce.

Significant and important, I think, is the fact that out of five best pictures one English picture, "Henry Vth" was chosen. Out of five best performances by an actor, British Laurence Olivier, and out of the five best performances by an actress, Celia Johnson, also British, were chosen and deservedly.

We can't, with this overwhelming proof, underestimate the improvement and growing excellence of English pictures. However, I think, England's face must be a little red at American generosity in awarding these honors after the fight to keep our American pictures out of English theaters.

On the whole, I think, the awards are well chosen in both pictures and stars. I am very proud of Jane Wyman, who actually started her career with me when she went on a personal appearance tour. Rosalind Russell certainly deserves nomination; so does Olivia De Havilland, and Jennifer Jones is always a fine actress.

The men, too, are well chosen. Gregory Peck, James Stewart, Fredric March, Larry Parks. I would like to have seen Tyrone Power in the lineup. I thought he was wonderful in "Razor's Edge."

That bad, bad tempered man James Mason is again in a race. Jacque Duval, author of "Batheba," Mason's stage play, put Mrs. Duval in a small part. For some reason, Mason hit the ceiling and refused to go on until Mrs. Duval, who's known on the screen as Barbara Brooks, left the cast.

How ornery can you get?

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Helena Carter, red-haired lovely who last week was engaged to Marry Johnny McClain, has transferred her affections to Rod Cameron.

Elsa Maxwell arrives Washington's birthday to visit Virginia and Darryl Zanuck. She's going to Palm Springs and will finish her book while here.

Buddy Rogers has been very sick with a cold and away from the studio.

Cary Grant couldn't have been nicer at Santa Anita when enthusiastic autograph hounds bombarded him. He gave his signature in spite of his saying he never, never would. Maybe he tuned in on my interview with Deanna Durbin when she said she loved the little pests and was grateful to them.

From Miami comes word that the Ritz Brothers' opening at the Copacabana had all the biggies in both the social and entertainment world on hand. Among those who greeted the comedy trio were Liz Whitney, Danny Kaye, the Robert Mitchums, Martha Stewart and Joe E. Lewis, Harry Richmond, the Winthrop Garners and scores of others.

Jack Dempsey at the Mocambo with Lina Romay, pretty MGM singer. He has known her for seven years and was a friend of her father.

It was a knockout of a party Jack gave last week for his old prize fight pals. Grantland Rice, sports writer, was there with Mrs. Rice and Florence. "Gus" Normile, who managed Dempsey when he was champ, playwright Charles MacArthur, Dave Chasen, Joe Benjamin were among those who accepted Jack's invite. Estelle Taylor, looking very glamorous, and Jack's two lovely daughters with Mr. and Mrs. Gene Fowler received the guests.

Was that a battle Rita Hayworth and her spouse were having Saturday night in a restaurant? Rita did not look happy.

Here's a nice note. Charles Correll, Andy of Amos and Andy, entertained Boy Scouts and Cubs of Pack 17 on Sunday at his home. Charlie's two sons, Charles Jr., and Baby Jack, were made honorary Cubs.

That's all today.

Potomac State Trims Shenandoah, 69-52

Ours, Lefever And Yewcic Feature Win

Ours Gets 21 Points; Catamounts Cop 9th

By JOHN L. BORCHERT

North met South last night and it was the same old story, the Yankees won; as the Potomac State Catamounts rolled to their third consecutive victory with a 69-52 win over the Shenandoah College quintet before 400 spectators in the Potomac State College Field House.

Three players, Dallas Ours, Mike Yewcic and Bob Lefever can be credited with shoving the Loughmen over the "500" mark for the first time since early December. Ours got the points, Yewcic directed the team, and Lefever pulled the Cats out of almost every tight spot that they were in during the first three periods with his timely baskets. Yewcic only garnered six points last night but on no less than six occasions he fed the ball to fellow teammates under the basket when he might have scored the points himself. Ours continued to improve, scoring 21 points for a total of 81 in six contests since joining the varsity squad.

Sims Breaks Deadlock

Shenandoah started fast, running up a 10-6 lead before the Hilltoppers closed in. With the score deadlocked at 10-all, Kenny Sims dropped in a point from the 15 foot mark and followed that seconds later with a basket to put the Loughmen in front to stay. The Cats led 20-15 at the quarter.

As the second quarter got under way Bill Adamson moved under the hoop for a lay-up goal to close the Cat margin to three points (20-17) but Bob Lefever sandwiched baskets around Ours's charity toss to move the count to 25-17 P.S. With five minutes left in the half, the Virginians moved up again as Lindy Kiser's basket and foul conversion made the score 27-24, Cats. A gift toss by Mike Yewcic and fielders by Neal Baisi and Lefever pushed the Hilltopper lead to eight points (32-24) and the Loughmen left the floor at halftime with a 34-27 margin.

The Hilltoppers began to weave through the Rebel defense as the second half got underway. Lefever and Ours opened with rebound push-in baskets to make the score 38-27. P. S. "Red" Sayer drove in from the side to slice the net with a one-handed shot for the Southerners but Ours and Sims slipped lay-up shots through the rim and Potomac State was on its way. The Loughmen held a 52-40 lead as the final period began.

The closest that the Virginians got in the final period was ten points when Kersh opened the stanza with a fielder from in front of the basket. After that Potomac State rolled the score to 63-46 before Lough sent his regulars off the court for a much deserved shower. Coming into the game for the first time since January 24, was big Ed Burns; who has been on the injured list with an infected foot. Burns played three minutes and during that time the Rebels got only one rebound under their own basket.

Cats Win Ninth

It was the ninth win in seventeen starts for Potomac State and Shenandoah's second straight loss, giving them a season's record of eight and seven. The Rebels had a seven game streak snapped Tuesday night at Salem by the Tigers. Dallas Ours paced the Cats with 21-points while "Fuzz" Bowers had 16 and Lindy Hersh 14 points for Shenandoah. Oma Flattened By Pat Comisky In Seventh Heat

New Jersey Heavy Registers Upset

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Feb. 12 (AP) — Pat Comisky, with a 27-pound eight advantage, punched himself a ticket back in the big time tonight by knocking out the odds-on favorite, Lee Oma of Detroit, in 1:52 of the seventh round of their ten round feature.

Comisky weighed 220; Oma 193.

Comisky, credited with a kayo over Johnny Haynes in Los Angeles since being discharged from service, started slowly then tossed his weight into the later rounds.

In the seventh he brushed aside the left jabs with which Oma had been shapshooting and caught the Detroiter with a smacking left hook in the solar plexus.

Oma hit the canvas, struggled to get up, but took the count.

Piedmont Lions Play Ridgeley

Broken Basket Keeps Interstaters Idle

Ridgeley High School's Blackhawks have an engagement with Coach "Huck" Miers' Piedmont High School Lions tonight on the Ridgeley High court at 8 o'clock.

It will be the final game of the series between the schools, Ridgeley having won the opener in Piedmont on February 6 by the score of 32-31.

Two other Potomac Valley Conference games are on tap tonight, Elk Garden being scheduled to play Fort Ashby on the latter's court while Thomas will invade Davis in a battle between Tucker county quints. Thomas defeated Davis, 54-34 on January 10.

Last night's Interstate League game scheduled for SS. Peter and Paul court was postponed because one of the broken baskets was being welded. It was reported that the beating taken by the baskets in recent games, during LaSalle's spurt and the Amvets' long winning streak, including the Sunday game in which 144 points were scoring, caused the baskets to crack at the seams and require repairs. The "basket breakdown" kept the K. of C. and Fulton Myers Post idle last night.

Tonight's double header, started at 8 o'clock, will bring together the Moose and Amvets, Gerard officiating, and the Lonaconing Legion and Cumberland Legion, with Koegel and Thompson as the referees. The winner of the game between the Legion teams will take undisputed possession of first place.

"Spike" Herboldsheimer will referee tonight's league game at Paw Paw between the Paw Paw Legion and Mt. Savage VFW.

Western Maryland Cons Overtime Battle, 57-56

WESTMINSTER, Md., Feb. 12—(AP)—A fighting Western Maryland basketball team scored 18 straight points tonight to defeat Washington College 57-56 in a Mason-Dixon Conference basketball contest which went into an overtime period.

With seven minutes of the regulation game to go, Western Maryland was trailing 50-39. The Terrors kept plugging away at the Washington College basket and just two seconds before the whistle ending the second half, forward Walt Sibiski dumped in a field goal that tied the game at 50-all.

Porter Thru As Amateur — Koegel Remembers Night
Zembower Sets Example — "Wib" Lichliter Drops In

By C. V. BURNS

Bobby Porter, the "hard rock" of Cumberland's fistic colony, has fought his last match here as a simon pure.

Dr. Arthur W. Jones, AAU physician, has requested that Porter hang up the gloves and refrain from participation in future bouts for his own welfare.

"Porter has taken too many beatings and it's time for him to call it quits," Dr. Jones declared. "He's still a young man and there's no sense seeing him go punchy as a result of ring trouncings."

Dr. Jones, who examines boxers for all shows here, and witnesses the matches, is in a good position to determine whether a boxer has had enough. His action will be uphold by the local boxing commissioner and matchmakers will be governed accordingly.

The local physician saw Porter lose via a technical knockout in the third round of the recent SCAC show after he was whipped by the same boy three weeks earlier in the PBC show. Jimmie Catanese ended Porter's ring career which comprised 15 bouts in less than two years. The courageous southpaw lightweight had won only three and lost twelve.

He was stopped by Walter Basilio and Catanese in three rounds and lost decisions to Mike Leslie, Claude Kimmell, Vance Sinclair and Billy Hines, of Morgantown, Teddy Metzgar, of Portage, Pa., Tommy Dunn, Jack Klosterman, Jack Santley, of Johnstown, Pa., Walter Filimaniv, Central City, Pa., and Catanese.

Porter's wins were registered over Jimmie Williams, Edgar Tucker and Jack Jones.

When the Amvets reeled off 24 consecutive points against the Oklahoma Indians here last Sunday it brought back memories of the great Allegany High team of 1933—Bill Findlay, Paul Twigg, Charley "Snap" Morris, Eddie Diehl and Herman Koegel—the night it crushed Bethesda-Chevy Chase in a state tournament game in Hagerstown, 44-20.

Allegany rolled up a 23-0 lead at the half against the highly touted Montgomery county team whose personnel included a son of the late Walter Johnson.

Koegel happened to be umpire last Sunday when the Amvets routed the poor Indians, 97-47, and during intermission after the locals had rolled up a 59-19 score we asked Herman if he remembered that wild scoring spree put on by AHS 14 years ago.

"Well do I remember that game," Koegel reminisced. "I'll never forget Arthur Brant's wisecrack that threw the crowd into convulsions of laughter. As the teams walked off the floor at halftime Brant braced himself against the railing in the gallery and bellowed:

"For goodness sakes, will one of you Allegany players please show those poor boys from Bethesda what those hoops are for!"

Coach "Bobby" Cavanaugh had to revive Bob Pence with smelling salts after Sunday's game when one of the Indians remarked:

"We can beat you fellows anytime by 15 or 20 points."

That's what lousy teams usually say when they go to the box office to collect the guarantee.

When Keyser High School defeated Davis in Keyser on Tuesday night it was the Golden Tornado's 69th victory under Coach Fred "Tack" Clark, who is rounding out his fourth season there as cage mentor. His teams have dropped 12 games. The average of 85 per cent compiled by Clark's teams doesn't include tournament contests.

A baseball fan writes:

"Here is a bit of news I thought might interest you. It's about a pal of mine who would serve as an example for other wounded veterans of this section.

"I'm speaking of Richard L. "Dick" Zembower, right-handed fireball ace of last year's Cumberland F. O. Eagles team.

"Seriously wounded in action by shrapnel while serving with the infantry overseas, the big fellow had the bones of his right hand shattered when a piece of shrapnel went all the way through. In addition he suffered three leg wounds.

"With his arm in a cast for six months and seven additional months of exercising to loosen and strengthen the wounded ligaments and muscles he refused to give up and came back to take his place as one of the best pitchers in this section. He practically pitched and batted the F. O. E. into the Interstate League playoffs, he was one of the most dangerous hitters in the league and when playing the outfield base runners feared his battle-scarred accurate throwing right arm.

"Rumor hit it that he may return to his old home town in 1947—the Centerville (Pa.) Reds, who are now in the Interstate League.

Hot Pole, the four-year-old filly, owned by Police Commissioner and Mrs. William V. Keegan, is now resting at the A. D. Jones Farm at Charles Town, W. Va., until the races get under way in the spring.

The Keegan breadwinner was originally slated to go to the Sunshine Park meeting at Tampa, Fla., but she came out of the winter meeting at Charles Town with what is known as a windpuff in the ankle. Both ankles have been "blistered" and Hot Pole will be ready for the races in a few more months.

Wilbur "Wib" Lichliter, one-time Salisbury (Pa.) basketball flash, dropped in to say hello the other evening.

Older basketball fans will remember "Wib" and Dave "Pickles" Lichliter, who played on the formidable Salisbury High School basketball teams of 1923, 1924 and 1925. After the brothers graduated from high school they played with the Salisburg Cardinals, a classy independent team, whose personnel included Charley "Rip" Engle, now cage and grid mentor at Brown University; Johnny Dunn, "Babe" Robinson and Carl Swarzwelder.

Dave Lichliter, who grabbed the basketball spotlight later while playing for American University, Washington, D. C., has been coaching cage and football teams at Boswell (Pa.) High School for the past 16 years.

Salisbury High, which ruled the roost in the days Barton was the top team in Allegany county, is more famous today for its 60-piece band which has appeared in parades here on a number of occasions. There's no basketball team because the school does not have a gymnasium.

"Wib" is now district manager of the Mutual Life Insurance Company with offices at Somerset, Pa., but he still makes his home at Salisbury.

His wife underwent a serious operation at Memorial Hospital recently and is reported to be getting along nicely. Mrs. Lichliter was Elizabeth Lichty, of Salisbury. "Wib" has been staying with a relative in LaVale while his wife is hospitalized.

Newspaper Compares Buffalo Hunt With St. Valentine's Day Massacre

Archery Event Brings Flood Pro-Con Mail

By BEN FUNK

RAWLINS, Wyo., Feb. 12 (AP)—As archers from seven states assembled today for Wyoming's first one-shot buffalo hunt, charges that the event would be "nothing short of murder" were made and denied in newspaper columns and on the air.

In Denver, the Post compared the hunt with the Chicago St. Valentine's day massacre and declared "the nice, gentle old buffaloes" would have no more chance for their lives than "Bugs" Moran's followers did when they were mowed down with tommy gun fire.

This brought a flood of pro-and-con mail from sports fans. Some agreed that it would be like "shooting fish in a rain barrel." Others argued that Wyoming Buffaloes are as wild as they were in Bill Cody's day and that the archers would "take their lives in their hands."

Some fifty bowmen from Colorado, California, Montana, Oregon, Washington, Wisconsin and Wyoming will take part in the hunt on the 200,000-acre Isadore Bolten Ranch southwest of here. Using 60-pound bows and standard broadhead arrows, they will kill three bulls culled from Bolten's herd.

Cowboys will maneuver the bulls into position in a valley and the hunters will line up at a distance of 75 yards for the shoot beginning at 10 a. m. Friday. Each will take one shot until the animals are brought down. If a bull breaks, the archers may fire at will until he is slain.

The Post ridiculed the event with a series of cartoons in which the buffalo are pictured as tamer than those on a nickel.

Frostburg Fans Will See Movies Of World Series

Theater Is Donated For Saturday Show

A public showing of the movie entitled "The World Series of 1946 and The All-Star Game" will be given under the sponsorship of Farrady Post No. 24, American Legion, at the Lyric Theater, Frostburg, Saturday at 2:30 p. m., it was announced last night by William H. Lemmert, post athletic officer.

William Spates, manager, has donated the use of the theater.

Arrangements for the showing of the movie in Frostburg were made yesterday by Lemmert and Clifton Van Roby, physical director of the Central YMCA, who has charge of the film which was shown twice last night in the "Y" lobby and was viewed by approximately 300 persons.

The "World Series of 1946" written and directed by Lew Fonseca, of the promotional department of the major leagues, is a three-reel sound-on-film movie, running 30 minutes. The film also includes shots from the 1946 all-star game in which the American murdered the National leaguers.

Approximately 500 prints of the 1946 world series will be in circulation this year. In addition 76 prints are being circulated to the Army of Occupation abroad.

The films show all the batting and scoring highlights of the seven games of the 1946 series and bring out the fact that Enos Slaughter, who scored the winning run for the Cards over the Red Sox in the eighth inning of the final game, went all the way from first to home on Harry Walker's double—on his own. The shot of this play is taken from the screen behind the catcher and isn't too clear but it does indicate that the third base coach gave no signal either way.

The plays are narrated by Bob Elson, well known Chicago radio sports broadcaster.

Before the film goes to Frostburg it will be shown at the YMCA "Rec" Club program tomorrow and the YMCA boys' program Saturday morning. After the Frostburg showing the film will be sent to Fredonia, N. Y., Roby said.

Whitney Martin's SPORTS TRAIL

NEW YORK, Feb. 12—(AP)—Herb Pennock, general manager of the Phils, views with alarm the movie-actor salaries which some of the star baseball players will draw this year, and just as a kibitzer we are inclined to share his view.

The ball players naturally see only mansions and streets paved with gold, but Pennock can see only slums which the club owners will be occupying if the trend toward huge paychecks continues. We don't think it would be quite that bad, but some of the magnates might get down to their last yacht.

Pennock's theory is logical. He figures that if a club has a bad year at the gate it will lose money through the fat contracts the players have. And inasmuch as a player can't be cut more than 25 percent from one year to the next, the big-money boys will continue to collect big money even if their performance falls below zero and they no longer are drawing cards.

Oddly enough the magnates can blame nobody but themselves for becoming ensnarled in this financial mess. They had no rival major leagues forcing their hand, as the All-American Football Conference forced the hand of the National Football League. Baseball still has its monopoly, and a player plays for the team he is told to play for and for the salary the club agrees to play, or else.

The whopping attendance of last year, leaving the impression the clubs would have to use gold bricks instead of lime to line the field to get rid of some of their surplus wealth probably had something to do with the players' ideas they were worth a lot more money this year. The stories of the fabulous wages the Pasquels of Mexico were ready to pay also might have had something to do with the desire to keep the athletes happy.

We recall that a few years ago after Bobo Newsom had helped pitch the Detroit Tigers to a pennant there developed some sort of kiddish argument between the Cleveland Indians and the Tigers as to whether Bob Feller or Newsom had been paid the highest wage for the year's work. Not that it made any difference, but to the paymasters involved there probably would be some satisfaction in the fact they were the most generous in rewarding their stars.

We don't know just why the owners decline to come right out and say how much a player will get when they obviously are quite proud of paying that kind of money. Maybe if one did, however, another owner would pay a thousand dollars or so more to his particular star. As it is, it's all left to speculation.

Anyway, Pennock's fears might as well be founded. The star boarders might eat the family out of house and home.

Navy Quint Stops West Virginia, 57-55

"Mighty Mites" Snap Mounties' 12-Game String

Technical Goal Is Margin Of Victory

By A. WHITNEY SHOEMAKER

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 12—(AP)—West Virginia's powerhouse basketball squad was dumped from the undefeated ranks today, 57-55, by a smart little Navy team which kept the Mountaineers off balance most of the time.

Only Duquesne remains as a major undefeated team.

The two points which sent the West Virginians to defeat could have been a technical field goal scored in the first two minutes of the second half.

Nervous At Foul Line

Largely, however, the Mountaineers' nervousness at the foul line kept them from breaking the Navy jinx. West Virginia completed 17 of 28 fouls, while Navy put through 13 of 17.

The technical goal went to the Middies when Captain Ken Shugart pitched for the basket and Center Eddie Beach of West Virginia touched the ring.

Officials ruled the goal should not be scored to any individual player, although Coach Ben Carnevale of the Navy contended it should go to Shugart's credit. At the end of the game, the scorers still were ruling the goal belonged to no one in particular.

Otherwise the flashy Middie captain and West Virginia's lanky forward, Fred Schaus, were exactly even on their scoring at 18-all.

The Mountaineers, fresh from a decision over Pitt last Saturday, seemed nervous, especially during the first half when Navy led most of the way and held a 30-28 advantage at halftime.

The decision on the technical goal caused some discussion around the scoring bench but Referee Clifford T. Anderson and Umpire Leroy P. Lewis were unanimous in their ruling that credit went to no one.

It could not be found in the rule books, however, and they announced their intention of doing some further searching.

A crowd of 5,000, many of whom had to stand, jammed into Dahlgren Hall to see the battle of West Virginia six-footers and Navy's "Mighty Mites."

Middies Carry Coach

Carnevale, saying that "I knew we would win all the time," was carried from the floor after the game by shouting Middies.

Coach Lee Patton of the Mountaineers in silence walked off the floor with his squad, too downcast to comment.

The game was billed as the east's "battle of the week" and in the opinion of the spectators it definitely ranked as that. Last year the Navy ruined the West Virginia hopes for an undefeated season, 50-45.

Athletic Director Roy M. Hawley of West Virginia University termed it the toughest battle he had seen this season.

Making a comeback in the second half, the West Virginia team seemed for a time to have found itself and began free-wheeling around the court.

With four minutes to go, West Virginia led 54 to 51 but a minute later Navy had it 55-54. The Mountaineers scored their last point on a foul and with a minute and a half to go, John (Wheel) Barrow of the Middies tossed in a field goal to win the game.

After they went behind, the Mountaineers on three occasions chose to take the ball out instead of pitch for fouls, but in each instance they failed to gain anything.

Buzfuz Captures Hialeah Feature

Seminole Handicap Winner Gets $8,775

HIALEAH, Fla., Feb. 12 (AP)—Buzfuz, a $2,000 purchase for Miami Attorney Dan Chappell, ran his earnings to $129,210 when he led home his stablemate, Lets Dance, and five other veterans in the $12,000 Seminole Handicap here today.

One of the largest crowds of the season saw the five year old gelding which Chappell acquired before the bay son of Zacaweista went to the races as a three year old, speed the seven furlongs in the fast time of 1:23 1-5 under 124 pounds and take the $8,775 first money by three lengths. Lets Dance was second by four lengths over Gustave Ring's Lord Grillo, with the sluggish Eternal Reward fourth.

It was Buzfuz's 44th start and his 15th triumph. Only last January, he and Lets Dance flew to Santa Anita, where Lets Dance won the $50,000 added San Pasqual Handicap. They returned by plane, and each was second in his last outing here, Lets Dance behind Armed and the Buzzer in the wake of Tarpan.

Today's attendance was 20,083, one of the meeting's biggest crowds.

NATION'S LEADING SCORERS TO CLASH IN BALTIMORE TILT

FORT WORTH, Feb. 12, (AP)—Unless one or more of them skids in the next two weeks the three highest scoring college basketball players in the nation are going to test their goaling ability in the same game.

Texas Wesleyan College announced today it has agreed to meet Loyola College of Baltimore, Md., in Baltimore on March 1. TWC has the nation's top pointgetter in Clifton McNeeley and the third high scorer in E. F. Parham. Loyola's Jim Lacy is second in national scoring and has been scissoring McNeeley's lead in recent weeks.

Ten Pirate Players Are Still Unsigned

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 12, 12, (AP)—With a week to go before the first contingent heads for spring training camp at Miami Beach, Fla., all except 10 members of the Pittsburgh Pirates have signed their contracts.

Heading the list of unsigned are, Edison Bahr, leading pitcher on the club last season on the basis of earned run average; Jimmy Bloodworth, veteran infielder obtained from the Detroit Tigers; Jim Bagby, right-handed hurler obtained yesterday from the Boston Red Sox; Ken Heintzelman and Jack Hallet of last year's mound staff and Hi Bithorn, who hurled for the Chicago Cubs in 1946.

Will Renew Rivalry

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Feb. 12 (AP)—Lehigh University and Franklin and Marshall College next year will renew a football rivalry that started in 1891 and was suspended in 1916.

Percy L. Sadler, director of Lehigh athletics, said the two teams will meet Sept. 25, 1948, at Lancaster, Pa. Eight games were played between 1891 and 1916 with Lehigh victorious six times, F. & M. once and the 1914 contest ending in a tie.

13,000 Will See College Boxers

Virginia, Wisconsin Teams Clash Friday

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 12, (AP)—A University of Wisconsin boxing squad built around three former National Collegiate Athletic Association champions squares off Friday night against the Cavaliers of Virginia, alredy winners of five straight dual matches this year.

Loaded with 11 lettermen in all, Coach Johnny Walsh's Badgers will be going after their second straight unbeaten season and their eighth in 15 years of collegiate boxing as they open a seven-meet campaign. In addition they'll be host to the N.C.A.A. championships for the third time March 27-29.

The Badgers, in 83 dual matches since the sport was started here in 1933, have won 70 and been beaten by only four collegiate opponents—Penn State, Syracuse, Louisiana State and Washington State. Three service teams took dual decisions during the war years. Six matches ended in ties.

Cliff Lutz, who won N.C.A.A. titles at 145 and 155 pounds in 1942 and 1943, tops the Badger ring rosfor this year. An outstanding strategist, he'll fight at 145 pounds.

Virginia's Cavaliers won their fifth straight dual match of the year last night from Michigan State and will fight before a capacity house of about 13,000 Fiday.

TRIPPI WILL PLAY WITH ATLANTA CLUB

ATLANTA, Feb. 12 (AP)—Charley Trippi, star athlete at the University of Georgia, completed his professional plans today in signing to play baseball with Atlanta of the Southern Association, a Class AA loop.

Early last month the Pittston, Pa., army veteran signed a $100,000 contract to play football with the Chicago Cardinals of the National League. Trippi made All-America on last year's college eleven, and made the All-America all-service team in 1944 while playing with the third air force eleven.

Terms of Trippi's contract with the Crackers were not disclosed, but realiable sources have repeatedly indicated it would be in the neighborhood of a $10,000 bonus and $400 per month.

SILK TIES
are back to influence your Valentine!
A year ago silk ties were as scarce as hen's teeth. Those you might have found were so expensive only a movie star could afford them. Now, it's another story. We've managed to obtain a great group of pure dye silk ties . . . at a price that will allow you to buy them by the half-dozen if you like! The patterns are varied . . . bright, dark, small designs, bold patterns. Choose several now for your special Valentine.

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors who were so kind and thoughtful during the illness and following the death of our beloved husband and Father, Charles W. Cross. We also wish to thank those who sent floral tributes, Rev. Richard Bready, the choir of the Elliott Memorial Church, and those who loaned cars for the funeral.

In Memoriam

In loving remembrance of our beloved wife and Mother, Vallie Virginia Burke, who entered into Eternal Rest, 5 years ago today, Feb. 13, 1942.

In the book of life there are pages
Filled with memories fond and true,
And of those most dear through the ages
Are the beautiful memories of you.
The years may wipe out many things,
But this they wipe out never,
The memory of those happy days
When we were all together.

Devotedly,
SAMUEL T. BURKE & CHILDREN
2-13-1t

In loving memory of Frank Muletz, who died February 13, 1946.

He departed from us today a year,
Our loving father and husband so dear,
May he rest in peace as the years go on
And be ever happy in his home beyond.

Sadly missed by

Dramatic Series Out Of Hollywood Starts Tonight

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Feb. 12—Out of Hollywood comes another dramatic series at 10 o'clock Thursday night. It will go via MBS, using movie talent and original stories by radio and film writers.

For the opener there will be Loretta Young, James Stewart and Don Ameche to do the lead acting in "Flight From Home." In view of the appearance of this series, "I Was a Convict" is moving to 10:30, the time it once occupied.

Agnes Moore, whose one-woman portrayal of "Sorry, Wrong Number," brought her back to the air several times, again is to appear as guest of the CBS Suspense at 8. This time she will have the lead in "The Thirteenth Sound," a different type of murder story.

"What's wrong with American Marriages?" is to be asked in America's Town meeting over ABC at 8:30. A panel four will be made up of Playwright Moss Hart, Psychologist Dr. Evelyn Duvall, Dr. Edward A. Strecker of the U. of Pennsylvania and Dr. John Haynes Holmes, minister.

The District Attorney, getting away from hunting criminals, is going to hunt something else when he guests with Eddie Foy and Eddy Duchin on NBC at 9. It could be comedy . . . Prof. Quiz is to do his quizzing at the Florida state fair grounds in Tampa, for ABC at 7:30.

Fey Would Make Lincoln's Birthday A Legal Holiday

Delegates To Consider Tax Exemptions Today

Delegate John T. Fey, Allegany County, joined with two other members of the House of Delegates yesterday in introducing a bill to have Lincoln's birthday made a legal holiday in Maryland.

The bill, introduced in Lincoln's birthday, was referred to the Judiciary Committee.

Fey, a Republican, joined with Delegate Jerome Robinson, a Democrat from Baltimore's Fourth District, and Delegate Anders R. Lofstrand, Republican from Montgomery County, in introducing the measure, similar to ones proposed but defeated at previous sessions of the Legislature.

Speaks On Lincoln

Fey took advantage of the occasion to speak in veneration of Lincoln, recognized as the Republican party's first great national leader, on the floor of the House.

Last night Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., chairman of the Allegany County delegation, said the delegation will consider at a meeting today action it will take on tax exemption measures proposed in the Senate by Senator Robert B. Kimble.

The delegation Tuesday conducted a public hearing on one of these measures which would annul existing tax exemptions on industries that have been located in the county for 20 years.

Representatives of the Celanese Corporation of America, the Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company and the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company spoke against the measure, saying annulment would be a breach of existing contracts.

Labor representatives, however, favored the proposal on grounds that it would ease the tax burden on individuals.

Whitworth also disclosed last night that the Ways and Means Committee of the House, of which he is a member, virtually killed the soldiers' bonus bill.

Gets Unfavorable Report

The bill, which would provide a maximum payment of $300 to veterans, received an unfavorable report in committee and will be held in committee rather than being reported out, Whitworth said, adding that this is tantamount to killing the measure.

The committee learned that the American Legion opposes the bill, Whitworth stated, and pointed out that passage of the bill would mean increasing the tax rate 27½ cents in order to pay the bonus which would cost $100,000,000.

Whitworth explained that this does not mean all veterans' legislation is being killed.

Leroy Pumphrey (D-Prince Georges), majority floor leader in the House and chairman of the committee, informed the committee, Whitworth said, that Gov. William Preston Lane, Jr., is naming a committee to study legislation for veterans with the purpose of co-ordinating it.

This committee, the local delegate said, will recommend legislation covering all veterans' affairs and develop a veterans' legislative program.

74 Elks Initiated At Bedford, Pa.

Seventy-four new members of Bedford Lodge No. 1707, B. P. O. Elks, were initiated last night by the degree team of Cumberland Lodge No. 63.

In addition to the Cumberland Lodge's degree team conducting the initiation, its glee club sang several selections at the ceremony, held in the auditorium of Bedford High School and attended by 175 Elks besides the new members.

Attending the dance that followed the initiation were 125 Cumberland Elks and their wives, who traveled to Bedford in three buses. The dance was held at the Arandale Hotel, operated by the Bedford Elks Lodge, from 9:30 to 2 a. m.

Officers of the Bedford lodge entertained officers of the Cumberland lodge at dinner at the hotel prior to the initiation.

Members of the Cumberland degree team were Exalted Ruler Michael F. O'Neill, John P. Moffatt, Jr., Marcellus Mullan, Robert B. Walker, Walter E. Chaney, James E. Yarnall, E. Philip Jolley, Thomas B. Finan and Edgar A. Dashiell.

The Bedford lodge was organized last June with four members and now has grown to a membership of about 175. Edwin A. Davidson is exalted ruler.

Proposed Program On Recreation To Be Given Tonight

A proposed program for the newly organized Civic Recreation Committee, stressing the development of facilities at Constitution Park, will be presented to the full committee at a regular meeting tonight at 8:30 at the home of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, according to Edgar M. Lewis, chairman.

Lewis recalled that at an informal conference with Mayor Thomas S. Post and Commissioner Myers G. Light last week, the proposed program was outlined by committee representatives, and that Mayor Post and Light requested that it be presented to the council if it is approved by the full committee tonight.

One of the suggestions is that an eight or 10-man board, representing different sections of the city, be appointed to co-ordinate the work of all the sponsoring clubs, so that a competitive field of league sports can be built up.

All outdoor sports and other activities such as band concerts, amateur and minstrel shows, outdoor movies, pet shows, water carnivals, model plane contests and soap box derbies will be suggested in the program, Lewis said.

Present sponsoring clubs include the Optimist Club, the Police Boys Club, the South End Boys Club, the Knights of Columbus, the South End Athletic Club, the Amvets, the Jr. OUAM Boys Club, the American Legion, Sons of the Legion and the Tiger Athletic Club.

All groups sponsoring boys' work are invited to attend tonight's meeting.

C. A. Gloyd Loses Suit For $25,000 Against B. And O.

Fails To Prove Negligent Act

A $25,000 damage suit filed in Circuit Court against the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad by a former employe ended yesterday when Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge George Henderson instructed the jury to return a verdict in favor of the defendant since negligence had not been proven.

Says Steel Was In Eye

Charles A. Gloyd, the plaintiff, testified that he lost the sight of his right eye when a piece of steel broke off a tamping pick and struck him in the eye while he was working on company track. He said he rubbed his eye and the splinter came out on his hand.

Later the eye began to bother him, the plaintiff said, and he consulted a Cumberland physician, who at first tried to save the right, but later had to remove the eye.

During cross examination, most of the questions were confined to a statement that Gloyd allegedly made before filing the suit. The defense declared that he "told interested persons" that a "wild hair" got into his eye and injured his sight. Gloyd denied making the statement.

The suit was filed by Edward J. Ryan and William L. Wilson, Jr., and sought to prove that the company was negligent in furnishing imperfect tools for employes to use.

Judge Henderson said that the suit was filed under the Federal Employment Lability Act, and as such differed from the usual suit filed under the Maryland Compensation Act, since negligence must be proven.

Physician Testifies

In answer to a question by Ryan the physician who treated Gloyd said the eye trouble could have been caused by the piece of steel. A moment later, in reply to a question by defense counsel, he said the trouble could have been caused by "nothing at all in the eye."

Following the verdict, the jury was ordered paid and released from duty.

Ryan also docketed a $1,5000 damage suit for George Bolyard, against George Babb, who trades as Babb Motor Sales Company, on Wineow street.

The suit charged that the motor car dealer sold Bolyard a vehicle by "defraud and misrepresentation." In the bill, Bolyard stated that he went to the Wineow street place on January 27 where he made arrangements to pay $3,000 for a vehicle, that he later discovered was actually priced at $1,974.

Gross Files Appeal For Hardware Store

Walter Gross filed an appeal to the Board of Zoning Appeals yesterday for a permit to use the first story of a two-story building at 251 Henderson Avenue, as a retail hardware store. The building, now occupied as a residence, is located in a Residential C zoning district.

The structure, which now measures 44 by 24 feet, will be increased to 96 feet in length, and the foundation of the addition will be built of concrete. Walls will be reconstructed with brick, and the new addition will have concerte block walls. The roof is of tin. Mrs. Leota Gross, 408 North Mechanic street, is the owner.

George V. Steiner, president of the Cumberland Cement and Supply Company, Harlem Place, secured a permit in the city engineer's office to construct an office building for the company's ready-mixed concrete business at 15 Cumberland Street on property leased from the Western Maryland Railway Company.

The building, one story high, will be 12 by 15 feet, with walls of asbestos siding over a metal framework, and a metal roof. Work, to be done by the company, is estimated to cost $300.

A building permit was granted to John B. McFarland, Jr., 507 Pine Avenue, to construct a three-car garage at 503 Pine avenue about 20 feet back from the street. The one-story building, which will measure 30 by 40 feet, will have a concrete block foundation and walls and a ruberoid roof. Work will cost $2,000.

Central and South End firemen extinguished a grass fire in the 1600 block Ford avenue yesterday at 7:05 p. m

Delegation To Ask Mayor, Council For 5-Man Recreation Board Monday

Another delegation of representative citizens is expected to appear at the meeting of the Mayor and Council Monday to renew appeals for action on an ordinance to appoint a five-man recreation board.

Mrs. Gilbert M. Miller, social studies chairman of the Cumberland Branch of the American Association of University Women, asked those who expressed opinions at a meeting on recreation sponsored by the AAUW last night to appear Monday to restate their views.

Mrs. Miller, who presided at the meeting in City Hall auditorium, asked that suggestions on solving the city's recreation problems be mailed to her so that a basis for further action may be taken. Approximately 60 persons, representing various civic groups, were present. Mrs. John J. Hafer, AAUW opened the meeting.

Mayor Thomas S. Post pledged his wholehearted support of a recreation program for the city, but said the ordinance has been meeting with some opposition by council members. The ordinance has been tabled until February 24.

Outlines Baltimore Plan

Michael F. Kelley, Baltimore, the guest speaker, outlined an "area project" recreation plan which was put into effect in Baltimore in 1944. A typical section of the city, near Patterson Park, was selected and he was named to organize the community into groups working to develop all recreational facilities, including both indoor and outdoor sports, hobbies and arts and crafts.

At present Kelley, who was recreational director at the Maryland Training School for Boys for 13 years, is executive secretary of the Eastern Community Council, Incorporated, an organization set up in the eastern part of Baltimore to work with the city's Department of Public Recreation in providing expanded recreation facilities.

Recalling that Allegany county schools will close June 18, Kelly said that no time must be lost in preparing for a recreation program in Cumberland this summer.

In Baltimore, he said, training classes for playleaders are organized in March so that by summer they will be prepared to start work at the city's playgrounds. Each playground there has a trained leader and an assistant, Kelley said, stating that such leaders must be paid well enough so that other persons will be attracted into the work.

Other Suggestions Made

The church, school and home do not take up all of a child's time, leaving "gaps" which must be filled by recreation organizations, the speaker said. More playgrounds and the utilization of all possible recreation facilities would help to fill in those gaps and take children off street corners.

Dr. Samuel M. Jacobson suggested that a private athletic league be formed to organize its own recreation council, without depending upon action of the Mayor and Council. Each section of the city could raise its own funds through benefits, parties and the like, and with the assistance of the school board could get its own program underway. The established program could then be presented to city officials, he explained.

David Kauffman, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, stated that suggestions as to financing a recreation program should be submitted to the Mayor and Council. Fern Kenney of the East Side Improvement Association said that a concrete plan must be worked out for presentation to city officials.

Dr. Robert T. Kerlin stated that the first objective is the appointment of a recreation board, with community organizations submitting recommendations on the appointments to the Mayor and Council. This followed an earlier statement by Kelley that the board should be named before a paid recreation director is appointed.

All Dames of Malta are invited to attend this visitation.

Rev. Mr. Whitmier will come here from Meyersdale, Pa., where he will make his official visit on February 27. A committee will go from here to Meyersdale to meet him. The committee includes Peter Koumannis, chairman; Huber D. Kington, deputy grand commander; Thomas Williams, grand sentinel, and Kenneth Montgomery.

Uptrend Is Noted In Total Claims For Compensation

GI Claimants Lead State Two To One

An uptrend in the number of claims for unemployment compensation was noted yesterday in the report prepared by Francis A. Kenney, manager of the local office of the Maryland Unemployment Compensation Division, for the month of January.

This trend, Kenney said, is unusual in that it occurs at a time when the claim load ordinarily declines rapidly.

A total of 2,663 state claims were paid in January while in December, 1945, the number of claims paid was down to 2,423.

GI Claims Increase

Likewise there was an increase noted in claims filed under the Servicemen's Readjustment Allowance Act with a total of 4,845 payments made in December and 5,921 payments made in January.

It was pointed out that GI claims are running two to one ahead of state claims.

At the Maryland State Unemployment Service office, Patrick J. Carroll, local manager, announced that 292 persons were placed in jobs during the month of January.

Of this number, 56 of the men placed were non-veterans, 111 were women and 125 were war veterans, Carroll said. The number of persons referred to jobs during the past month amounted to 532.

During the month, 10,123 office contacts were made, but Carroll said a part of this number is accounted for by some persons calling at the office more than one time.

575 New Applications

A total of 575 new applications for work were received and of this number 130 were non-veteran males, 174 were females and 271 were veterans.

Of the 2,894 persons actively registered for work 1,651 are war veterans,, 622 are male non- veterans and 621 are women.

Eleven of the 125 veterans placed in jobs are physically handicapped, Carroll stated.

Changes Proposed In Sanitary Bill

Several changes in the proposed enabling bill which would authorize the County Commissioners to set up sanitary districts in communities outside of Cumberland where there is need for improvement in water supplies and sewage disposal were suggested by a sub-committee at a meeting at the LaVale Fire Hall last night.

J. Milton Dick, chairman of the recently named county committee to study the proposed sanitary district, said that the changes are designed mainly to provide that the County Commissioners would have the last say on major expenditures of the proposed three-man commission which would govern the districts.

The suggestions will be submitted to a meeting of the full committee in Cresaptown February 19. If they are approved, the amended bill will be submitted to the County Commissioners for consideration at their meeting Friday, February 21.

Dick said that Mayor Marshall Skidmore and members of the Frostburg City Council, who attended the meeting, discussed the possibility of supplying water to Eckhart, Mt. Savage, Borden Shaft and Zihlman. Frostburg has just completed laying a pipeline to Eckhart, and lines to other communities might be laid if the sanitary districts are established, it was stated.

Clearing House Organizes Bank Study Group

First Course Will Last For 21 Weeks

Organization of a Cumberland Group Study Class of the American Institute of Banking, sponsored by the Cumberland Clearing House Association, took place Tuesday night and officers will be elected next week.

The course was organized for the study of banking by Cumberland bank employes and officers.

The first of four courses to be offered is fundamentals of banking, which got underway Tuesday night and will continue for 21 weeks. Joseph M. Naughton, vice president of the Second National Bank, will be the instructor.

Starts In Fall

Other courses to be offered are commercial law, negotiable instruments, and economics. Each will be of 21 weeks duration, with the second course, commercial law, expected to start in the fall.

Instructors will be announced prior to the start of the remaining three courses.

At the completion of each course, members of the group will receive completion certificates and at the conclusion of the four courses they will be presented with diplomas.

Classes will be held every Tuesday from 7 to 9 p. m. at Catherman's Business School.

On Tuesday night, 42 persons were present out of a membership of less than 50.

The committee in charge is John J. Robinson, chairman, vice president and trust officer of the Liberty Trust Company; Harry C. Landis, cashier of the First National Bank, and William Dudley, assistant cashier of the Commercial Savings Bank.

Serve One Year

Robinson presided at the meeting Tuesday and named a nominating committee which will report next Tuesday on its selections for chairman, vice chairman and secretary-treasurer of the group. Officers will serve for one year.

Members of the nominating committee are Hugh D. Shires, Liberty Trust Company; Robert Harvey, Second National Bank; Ralph Doak, First National Bank; Wallace Ullery, Peoples Bank; Lester Sherman, Commercial Savings Bank, and Mrs. Alma Durst, Cumberland Savings Bank.

Robinson outlined the purpose of the class before turning the session over to Naughton.

A similar study group was organized here a number of years ago.

Dr. Ray Will Confer With Mayor Saturday

Dr. Joseph M. Ray, who notified Mayor Thomas S. Post several days ago that he has completed a preliminary report on his survey of Cumberland's municipal government, has requested an interview with Mayor Post Saturday morning to discuss recommendations made in the report, the mayor said yesterday.

Previously, the mayor had asked council members to be present at the conference, but Dr. Ray has indicated that he wants to present his recommendations directly to the mayor for his approval. Mayor Post said he will discuss the findings with the City Council at a later date.

Dr. Ray, who is head of the Department of Government and Politics of the College of Business and Public Administration, University of Maryland, began his study last October.

A special conference of the Mayor and Council on legislative measures for the city is scheduled for today at 10 a. m.

VA Offers Help To Veterans With Training Problems

Training Officer Is Stationed Here

More than 120 training officers of the Veterans Administration are stationed throughout Maryland, including the local contact office, to assist veterans with problems arising from their education or training and to insure adequate training and progress, according to W. A. Burns, officer in charge of the Cumberland contact office.

These VA representatives, trained to aid veterans in using their education, training and vocational rehabilitation benefits, serve as the liaison between ex-servicemen and women and the Veterans Administration, Burns said.

Training officers are located at VA guidance centers, the two subregional offices at Hagerstown and Cambridge, and several contact offices, including Cumberland.

This advisory and supervisory personnel, Burns said, is permanently stationed at the larger educational institutions in the state, while smaller schools are visited by training officers on a regular schedule depending upon the schools' requirements. Regular visits also are made to shops and establishments in which veterans are training.

Veterans in a training status were advised by the VA to familiarize themselves with the schedule of visits of their training officer and consult him on any problems such as reports of earnings, subsistence checks, etc.

At the same time Burns advised veterans to report promptly any change of address to the VA office or to the training officer, to secure prior approval of the VA before making any change in training course or place of training, and to call any delays in the receipt of subsistence checks to the attention of the training officer.

Personal counseling service also is being provided by the Veterans Administration to help ex-servicemen with personal problems which are interfering with their education, training or rehabilitation. Such counselors are located at the Hagerstown sub-regional VA office.

Smith Outlines Ways To Attract New Business Here

Business managers study a community before locating a business there, Harold W. Smith, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce told members of the Tri-State Traffic Club at its dinner meeting last night at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

Managers who are looking for new locations are asking questions about schools, churches, recreational facilities and cultural advantages, Smith declared.

The community that expects to attract new business organizations must have a water supply, good labor relations, and a supply of labor in addition to those already employed.

The present Chamber of Commerce program is geared to the interests of all the people in the community and not for any one section, Smith asserted. It includes water improvements, flood control, conservation of natural resources, surveys for underlying minerals, and improved schools for a better informed public.

Leo H. Ley, traffic manager at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, stressed the necessity of conserving freight car equipment, especially box cars, saying that the Western roads do not have sufficient cars to move grain. The possibility is that the Office of Defense Transportation would be extended until July 1, because of the car shortage, he said.

Ley said 40,377 new freight cars and 536 locomotives have been put into service to replenish the badly worn equipment that was pressed into service during the war years.

Arrangements for the meeting were in charge of Clarence E. Gehr, president, and John L. Carnochan, secretary.

B'nai B'rith Will Oppose Religion In Public Schools

Call It Violation Of Americanism

Opposition to the proposal of incorporating religious education into the public school curriculum of third and fourth grade students, was voiced last night by members of Western Maryland Lodge No. 1507, B'nai B'rith, a local Jewish organization president, said.

The Board of Education after a recent meeting with members of Cumberland's Ministerial Association announced that it would take under advisement a program which would offer a voluntary class in religion to students of the two grades.

Kaplon said "religious education must be left to the church, synagogue and home. Any attempt to make religious education a part of the public school system violates (in our opinion) the American principles and tradition of the separation of the church and state.

Will Create Bias

"Religion cannot be taught in public schools without sectarian bias, no matter how capable the instructor may be. Teaching religion in public schools will provoke dissention, axaggerate differences and excite intolerance."

Members of the Board of Education, however, admitted they were impressed by the manner in which the committee of ministers presented its proposal and promised that the association can be assured that the school board will give the matter "very careful study from the point of view of what is educationally sound in American Democracy."

The committee asked permission to include religious classes in third and fourth grades for one hour a week with the classes being purely voluntary with parents giving their consent for children to enroll in what would be an elective course. Teachers for the course would be furnished by the association with the guarantees that they will be carefully trained.

The committee also told the school board that Arch Bishop Curley, of the Baltimore-Washington Diocese of the Catholic Church, had informed it that in his opinion a plan to teach religious education in the public schools is sound and would be beneficial.

Taught In 5 Counties

Five Maryland counties have religious training in public schools at present. They are Harford, Prince George, Anne Arundel, Frederick, and Montgomery.

Superintendent Charles L. Kopp said he had no comment to make regarding the plan of the ministers and added he will wait for a further conference with the board.

Kaplon said a resolution adopted by the Jewish organization had been sent to the Board of Education explaining that the American Public School is a unifying force available to children of various backgrounds. It is in the public school, Kaplon said, that children of Catholic, Protestant and Jewish faiths study, play and work together and learn to respect each other.

However, if a certain group of children are compelled to remain away from the classes it would make them conspicuous and tend to make the children self-conscious, he declared.

Two-Truck Collision Causes $600 Damage

A two-truck collision yesterday morning at 9 o'clock near the intersection of Route 40 and Cash Valley Road resulted in $600 damage to the two vehicles, State Police said, and reckless driving charges were placed against both drivers.

Trooper Thomas G. Barton, who investigated, said a truck driven by Leroy Deffinbaugh, Oldtown, passed a school bus and when he attempted to turn back into the traffic lane the truck collided with one driven by Jacob Miller, Cresaptown.

All three vehicles were headed east on Route 40, the trooper said, and Miller was attempting to turn off at Cash Valley Road, when the Deffinbaugh vehicle struck the left front and side of the truck.

Damage to Miller's truck was estimated at $400 and police said damage to Deffinbaugh's vehicle would amount to $200.

Both men were charged with reckless driving and will be given a hearing in Trial Magistrates Court this morning. Neither driver was injured.
